CRUISE VESSEL UP-TO-MINUTE

City of Los Angeles Will Have Last Word in Comfort

Many Improvements Made Eve of Long Journey

South American Trip Will Be Started October 6

When the Los Angeles Steamship Company's flagship, the City of Los Angeles, steams out of Los Angeles Harbor on October 6, next, she will have an entirely remodeled and redecorated smoking room, veranda cafe and garden lounge, designed for comfort and luxury. Also, many of her staterooms and corridors will be refurnished, repaneled and redecorated, making her one of the finest cruising ships afloat.

The original estimates for improvements in the steamer called for an expenditure of $40,000, it was said by R. V. Crowder, passenger traffic manager, yesterday, but from time to time this allotment has been increased until it now has reached $75,000.

"When the Los Angeles Steamship Company bought the City of Los Angeles from the United States Shipping Board," Mr. Crowder said yesterday, "she was just about the last word in luxury of passenger accommodation. But that was years ago, and so rapid have been the improvements for comfort designed by marine engineers that the company has found it advisable to make many changes. These alterations will place the City of Los Angeles on a comfort par with the City of Honolulu, her consort ship in the Honolulu run."

Twenty ports and cities of central and South America will be visited during the cruise. The passenger list will comprise many leading business and industrial men of California and the Hawaiian Islands. So great has been the demand for accommodations on the trip, Mr. Crowder said, that only a limited number of staterooms of different grades remain unsold.

REMEMBER THIS

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Aug. 27. [To the Editor of The Times:] My good friend Mr. Durant offered $25,000 for the best suggestion as to the enforcement of prohibition. I would like to grab off that $25,000, then I could pay Hearst that $5000 that Coolidge layed down on me for. Here is my plan: Have the government pass a law making it compulsory for everybody to drink; people would rebel against it so that they would stop drinking. That's a funny thing about American people; tell 'em they have to do anything and they will die twice rather than do it. If I win I will drive nothing but a Durant car. Yours,

IOWA LISTS FOUR DEAD IN TORNADO

Five Hurt and $1,000,000 Property Damage Done by Series of Windstorms

COUNCIL BLUFFS (Iowa) Aug. 27. (AP)—Northwestern Iowa late today took inventory of damage from a series of tornadoes which yesterday swept four counties, and found the reckoning to be four dead, five injured and property loss estimated at $1,000,000.

The revised death list includes J. T. Jervis, 50 years of age; Charles Jervis, 3, son of Jervis; Baby Smith, 1 year, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, all of Elliott, and Kenneth Hiatt, 18, Mt. Etna.

Heaviest urban property damage was at Elliott and Oakland, where many buildings were damaged or razed. The loss of property at this place is set at $150,000.

Other rural communities in the path of tornadoes included the hillside area near Malvern, the Lone Star and Living Springs territories southeast of Treynor and west of Macedonia, a section four miles from Carson and the Lowman Church district in Cass county.

Mrs. J. T. Jervis, who was injured, is reported in a critical condition today.

PLANE HOPE GIVEN UP

Searchers Fail to Get Clew

Possibility Develops That Seventh Person May Have Been Killed

SEATTLE, Aug. 27. (AP)—The Victoria-Seattle monoplane which vanished Saturday is at the bottom of the sea with the five men and one woman who were aboard her, is the growing conviction of searching aviators after scanning virtually every square mile of land on which the plane might have crashed.

While other flyers marked time in the absence of any tangible clews Alex Holden, forest patrol aviator, whose father, Dr. D. E. Holden, was aboard the missing craft, continued his search from the air today.

NO TRACE FOUND

Lieutenant-Commander J. D. Price of Sand Point made a reconnaissance flight in a naval plane with a photographer, and Percy Barnes, air-mail pilot, went over the territory carefully on his regular run to Victoria and back. Coast Guardsmen combed the waters in the vicinity of Washington and Oaks harbors, while shore parties searched the land between the two harbors.

While Oak Harbor residents reported that the lost plane was seen Saturday night flying low, aviators generally clung to the theory that she never got that far south, but crashed in the Strait of Juan De Fuca, just off Washington Harbor.

OIL SLICK SEEN

Coast Guard Patrol Boat 272 from Port Angeles began dragging operations there late today when an oil slick was discovered on the surface of the water.

The possibility that there may have been seven persons on the plane instead of six arose today, when Ernest Eve, president of the British Columbia Airways, operating the missing ship, said D. Sovere, an unlisted passenger, had taken a bus to the flying field in Vancouver and might have come aboard.

Stations Silent in Plane Hunt Will Resume

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—The Federal Radio Commission has abandoned hope of receiving any radio communication from the Greater Rockford plane and has authorized resumption of operations by stations asked to shut down to prevent possible interference with signals from the plane.

The commission believes that if Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer are able to use their set they would have established communication during the time the stations, situated on near-by frequencies, were silent. No proofs have been received that messages purported to be from the flyers were sent by them.

The stations closed were XYN, Oakland, Cal., and WND, Ocean Township, N. J.

THIS DU PONT AIDS HOOVER

WILMINGTON (Del.) Aug. 27. (AP)—Lammot Du Pont, president of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., announced tonight he will support Herbert Hoover for the Presidency.

"I am a Republican and will vote for Mr. Hoover," said Mr. Du Pont in an open letter to the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"Having always voted the Republican ticket," the letter continues, "This statement is not surprising, but in view of the fact that since the present campaign began several prominent and staunch Republicans have gone over to the Democratic camp, some explanation might be of interest.

"I have heard several of these men explain their views, and it is my opinion that prohibition has been the major, if not the entire, cause of their change of politics.

LIQUOR NOT PARAMOUNT

"While I agree with the stated views of these men as to the evils of prohibition, profoundly regret the stand of Mr. Hoover, as indicated in that extract from his speech, and strongly commend Gov. Smith for his courage and wisdom in advocating a change of the prohibition laws, yet I do not agree that prohibition is of paramount importance, nor that all other questions out of deference to it should go by the board or be left to settle themselves.

"A group of problems before the government of this country, which, as a group, are more important than prohibition, are those subjects which involve the economic welfare of the people—the tariff, farm relief, railway regulation, Federal Reserve, government ownership, etc. It is true that, judged solely by the adopted platforms of the two parties, there is not a radical difference in principle between the two parties. The difference is more in the elaboration of the principles of putting them into effect. We must judge the parties in this respect not by their formal platforms, but by their past performance.

WANTS PROSPERITY

"Under Republican government for the past eight years, and in some periods before, we have had prosperity. Under Democratic administration we have had less prosperity and, usually, hard times. It seems reasonable to suppose that this difference will maintain in the future, or at least until such time as the Democratic party makes a radical change in the principles which govern its economic view."

He said it is his belief that Mr. Hoover "by his stand against repeal cannot stop the growth of opinion against prohibition, nor can Gov. Smith, by recommending modification, carry with him sufficient votes to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment."

Mr. Du Pont's brother, Pierre Du Pont, chairman of the board of the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., recently announced he will vote for Smith.

LINDBERGH TRIES LUCK FOR TROUT

Famous Pilot Reported on Secret Fishing Trip Along Rogue River

MEDFORD (Or.) Aug. 27. (AP)—Somewhere on the Rogue River Col. Charles A. Lindbergh fished today with three companions, and the famous flyer, as usual, kept his plans and his whereabouts secret. His plane was still locked in a hangar at the local airport this evening, ready to fly. Col. Lindbergh announced he will return Tuesday or Wednesday.

Late this evening the high-powered green roadster that carried Col. Lindbergh from the air field came to this city and was immediately spotted by the curious. A friend of Lindbergh, Capt. H. S. Brock of San Francisco, was at the wheel. He had come after sandwiches but maintained silence.

Harry H. Scott of San Francisco, at whose home Lindbergh is supposed to be a guest, refused to confirm or deny the report as to the fishing trip.

Northern Soldiers Sent to Cause Disturbance, Says Nationalist Bulletin

SHANGHAI, Aug. 27. (AP)—The official news agency of the Nationalist party gave out a bulletin saying it had received "a grave report from Tien-tsin from a usually trustworthy source, presaging serious Sino-foreign complications in that area." The bulletin continued:

"Soldiers from a remnant of the Northern Chinese-Shantung and Chihli armies, disguised in Japanese uniforms to evade detection, are reported to have arrived at Tien-tsin for the purpose of causing disturbances within the city.

"It is also reported that Japan is increasing her forces in the Tangshan district, seventy-five miles northwest of Tien-tsin, for the purpose of provoking hostilities with advancing Nationalist forces. These forces are taking the offensive against a remnant of the Northern Chinese army, seeking to clear them out from all the territory within the great wall."

FIRE HAZARD WILL CLOSE WOODLANDS

Federal Men to Shut Off 500,000 Acres of Shasta Forest Region Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—Extreme fire hazard because of high temperature and low humidity was the reason for a decision today to close to public use, except on special permission, approximately 500,000 acres of national forest land, all in the Shasta National Forest. The closing order will go into effect tomorrow, S. B. Shaw, chief of the Federal service in California, said.

Reports received today from the various forest-fire zones were to the effect that the situation had improved, only one new fire of any moment having been reported. That was sixty miles north of Sonora on the south bank of the Mokelumne River and at latest reports had burned over 1000 acres of choice timber in the Sierra National Forest. This fire was caused by lightning, and it started shortly after the rangers had won control of a fire in the same locality.

The Jawbone country fire was under control tonight. It had burned over 26,000 acres in the national forest and 11,000 acres outside.

The Converse basin fire, which had taxed the efforts of the fire fighters for a week, also was reported under control.

Fifty fire fighters sent into the Kings River district, where a fire had been burning near the Deilian Lookout station, succeeded in putting the fire out.

KELLOGG PACT TO OUTLAW WAR SIGNED BY POWERS

Colorful Ritual Enacted in Paris as Fourteen Nations Pen Vow to Live in Peace

PARIS, Aug. 27. (AP)—The Briand-Kellogg pact, by which fifteen nations renounce war as an instrument of national policy, was signed here today. Less than ten minutes was required for the affixing of signatures to the instrument which, its sponsors agree, has an immense perspective of world peace.

Ancient ritual and intense methods of modern publicity were mingled in the ceremony. Ushers clad in blue and gold trimmed coats, red velvet breeches and white silk stockings directed the plenipotentiaries to their places and conducted guests to their seats. A superbly uniformed Swiss guard with a halberd, an inheritance of the court procedure of centuries ago, led the solemn procession of statesmen from the reception room of Aristide Briand, Foreign Minister of France, to the Clock Room, where the signing took place.

While this colorful proceeding was taking place, forty cameras were clicking, color-picture machines were working and microphones were gathering the faintest sounds of the spectacular program and broadcasting them throughout this and to other continents.

ON STROKE OF THREE

The plenipotentiaries took their seats at the horseshoe-shaped table just as the beautiful clock, which gives its name to the apartment, struck the hour of 3. Before this moment came, distinguished persons from many nations were gathering. The scene was very like an afternoon reception, with salutations, introductions and gossip.

Premier Poincare had an informal levee. When he entered, all who were seated arose. He particularly took note of Ambassador Von Hoesch of Germany. He also spoke with each of the few women present, talking several minutes with Mrs. Kellogg, wife of the United States Secretary of State.

Among the other ladies who received attention from him were Mrs. Parmlee Herrick, daughter-in-law of the American Ambassador; Mrs. T. Bentley Mott, wife of the American army colonel who is assistant military attache of the Embassy here; Mrs. Harth, wife of Gen. William W. Harth, military attache, and Countess Manzoni, wife of the Italian Ambassador.

BRIAND READS SPEECH

The program proceeded promptly at its fixed hour and was ended in fifty-eight minutes. M. Briand alone spoke. Ordinarily he prefers to make an extemporaneous discourse, but this time he read his speech. An official English translation also was read by an interpreter.

The proceedings were bilingual. Not only the set address of the Foreign Minister being translated into English, but also each phrase that he uttered in reading the treaty and inviting the delegates to sign.

As the reading of the pact ended, Beco De Fouquieres, master of ceremonies for the Foreign Office, and his adjutant, De Cartier, stepped forward and spread the official text, bound in green letters, on a small table placed within the curve of the horseshoe. A red ribbon ran through the wax seals of the signatories, which had been affixed to the document in advance. This was carefully straightened by the master of ceremonies.

Then the French Foreign Minister, after a burst of applause, arose and invited Dr. Stresemann to sign the historic document.

GERMAN FIRST

Dr. Stresemann rose straight to his full height. He was quite pale, but walked with firm step around the big table to the inside of the horseshoe and seated himself at a small table where the treaty, with all the seals affixed, was lying. He wrote his signature quickly. He, as did each of the others, used the huge gold pen presented to Secretary Kellogg by the city of Havre, dipping it in the inkstand which served for the signing of the first Franco-American treaty negotiated by Benjamin Franklin.

When he had signed he rose amid applause and returned to his seat.

FEMINISTS BREW ROW AT PARIS

Paper Quotes Mrs. Kellogg as Criticising Activities; Secretary Denies It

[Copyright, 1928, by the Chicago Tribune]

PARIS, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—While the ministers of fifteen nations were signing the Kellogg treaty to outlaw war, a miniature feminine battle brewed today following publication in the Paris edition of the New York Herald of an interview with Mrs. Kellogg, in which the American Secretary of State's wife is quoted as characterizing the visit of the National Women's party committee to Paris to obtain recognition of women's equality with men by the signatory nations as "untimely and out of place" and stating the excursion smacks "of publicity seeking." An indignant sputter has echoed throughout the feminists' camp as a result of these words and although Miss Doris Stevens, chairman of the women's committee on international action, refused to answer the attack, there is an indication that a concerted reply is forthcoming.

But a new phase was added to the situation tonight when Secretary of State Kellogg shortly after returning from Quai D'Orsay spoke for his wife and categorically denied that she had ever said the things quoted in the newspaper.

Meantime, the women are going ahead confidently with their arrangements and have been visiting the diplomats to sign a pact outlawing sex inequality.

"All we want for our efforts now is a notification of what time we will be received tomorrow," Miss Stevens asserted.

BUSINESS TAKES SCEPTER

Work Clothes Replace Diplomatic Regalia as Everyday People Form Peace Corporation

BY WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE

[Copyright, 1928, by the New York Times]

PARIS, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—At the check stands, where the world's statesmen and their guests left their hats this afternoon before entering the Hall of Clocks, were only twenty-three silk hats out of 300 head pieces which adorned the pegs and pigeonholes when the great clock struck 3 and the Parade of Peace filed into the historic room.

It was a civilian gathering and two American naval officers in full bloom furnished the only color in the room. Three hundred men and a score of women gathered to witness the signing of the first treaty renouncing war ever signed on this planet.

In the gathering were half a hundred gray business suits. It was the middle class speaking through the treaty. It was the middle class, caparisoned in its working clothes, that gave the tone to the picture. Of course the signers of the treaty wore the diplomatic regalia proper to the occasion, chiefly in the form of the afternoon coat, known as the cutaway. Occasionally, some European diplomat wore a square, broad-skirted coat which we Americans call a Prince Albert.

a tousley criminal lawyer coming out of a courtroom after closing for the defense, wore a Prince Albert, flaring collar and brownish tie with tinges of red. But all the other signers and most of the other guests who witnessed the ceremony were dressed as they would dress for business.

Indeed, it was a most business-like occasion. It took less than an hour to transact the business in hand, and M. Briand's speech—eloquent as a business man is eloquent in presenting the capital structure of a new corporation—required less than twenty minutes in the reading. No word was offered after the reading of the treaty, other than M. Briand's interpretation.

KELLOGG-BRIAND TREATY RENOUNCING WAR SIGNED

Then, at Foreign Minister Briand's nod, Secretary Kellogg went to the treaty table and signed. The others followed in a steady procession, each taking an average of forty seconds, so that the signatures were completed in ten minutes.

OTHERS AFFIX NAMES

After Foreign Minister Hymans had signed for Belgium and M. Briand for France, Lord Cushendun, acting British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, signed in behalf of the Kingdom of Great Britain. He was followed by Premier Mackenzie King of Canada; Alexander MacLachlin, member of the executive council for the Commonwealth of Australia; Sir Christopher Parr, High Commissioner for New Zealand; Jacobus Smuts for South Africa and President Cosgrave for the Irish Free State. Lord Cushendun then signed again for India. Count Manzoni signed for Italy, Count Uchida for Japan, Foreign Minister Zaleski for Poland and Foreign Minister Benes for Czecho-Slovakia.

As Dr. Benes finished writing his name, M. Briand arose as a signal that the great international event had ended.

The Swiss guard headed the retiring procession, and led the signatories into the garden where M. Briand served tea. The statesmen were grateful for the breath of fresh air after the ceremony, for the temperature in the clock room under the intense artificial lights used by the film camera men, had become tropical.

STRESEMANN ILL

Herr Stresemann, emaciated and pale from his recent illness, seemed to feel the heat most of all. He looked especially wan under the glare of the reflectors.

It is expected that at least a year will elapse before the pact will be completely ratified by those countries whose legislatures must pass on it. Meanwhile it is to be open to adherence by all other civilized nations.

The potency of the treaty, it was remarked after the ceremony, is shown by the fact that the original signatures were still wet when Secretary Kellogg began receiving telegrams from countries not represented here today. These messages announced desire of these other governments to join the original signatories in the renunciation of armed conflict.

Within a few minutes after the treaty was signed telegraphic messages had been sent to the American diplomatic representatives all over the world to present to forty-seven states invitations to adhere to the pact. Twenty-four of these were sent from the Paris Embassy and twenty-three were to be sent from the State Department at Washington. The invitations had previously been mailed and telegraphed to all the points affected so they might have the document ready when word was wired that the treaty was signed.

NO DISORDER

No Communists appeared in the vicinity of the clock hall nor was there any other note of disorder.

Crowds began to gather along the river embankment in front of the Quai d'Orsay by noon. Shortly after the lunch hour spectators increased greatly and police began clearing the streets. Communists, through their Organ l'Humanite, had declared they would not permit police to stifle their "antiwar protest" and their manifestation of "solidarity with the soviets," making much of the fact that soviet Russia was not invited to the first signing of the treaty. There was a police clean-up during the night and fifty-three arrested for placarding walls with posters against Kellogg's "antisoviet plot" and "part of war."

Count Uchida of Japan, dapper in a silk hat and cutaway, was first to arrive but Secretary of State Kellogg, Ambassador Herrick and Mrs. Kellogg who drove up behind were through politeness of the diplomatic protocol allowed to be technically first. They were met by M. De Fouquieres, the master of ceremonies, and escorted to Foreign Minister Briand who had been awaiting their arrival for nearly an hour.

KISSES HER HAND

Mrs. Kellogg appeared much surprised when M. De Fouquieres, bending low, kissed her hand. There was something of a shock to the Americans also when the chief usher, in blue jacket, red breeches, white stockings and pounds of gold lace, brought down his halberd roundly on the stone floor three times for each of the three Americans as they passed.

The pressure for cards of admission was much greater for today's ceremony than even for the signing of the Treaty of Versailles nine years ago, many requests being made by newspaper men or those who managed to show some title to being "writers" anxious to describe the ceremony, but only 100 were admitted.

The crowd of guests was democratic despite the gold lace which was particularly noticeable on many of the gorgeously dressed ushers. There were a few high hats. Ambassador Claudel, French envoy to the United States, was the first to come with a topper. But even the silk hats were worn with great disregard for the sartorial conventions with frock coats, cutaways, and even sack suits.

The signers came into the clock room promptly at 3 o'clock and within three minutes Foreign Minister Briand rose for a short address of welcome and tribute to the high principles of the pact.

There were seventy-three gold chairs in all for distinguished spectators, such as Premier Poincare, who sat with Mrs. Kellogg on his right in the front row facing the hollow end of the horseshoe table where all could see the signers face to face.

Secretary Kellogg and all other visitors were given cordial applause as they entered and left the Ministry, but Stresemann of Germany was the hero of the day to the crowd, and an outburst of "bravos" greeted him when he came slowly down the steps on the arm of De Fouquieres.

Herr Stresemann seemed greatly moved by the heartiness of this welcome. It brought a semblance of color to his pallid face as he drove away.

Tonight M. Briand was host at a formal dinner to upward of 100 guests, including the signatories of the treaty. The affair was given in the great dining-room of the Foreign Office and it was followed by a reception to which some 2000 persons, representing fashion, finance, politics, Army, Navy and diplomacy, were bidden.

Secretary Kellogg and Foreign Minister Briand

BRIAND'S SPEECH PREDICTS NEW DAWN OF PEACE TO BENEFIT WHOLE WORLD

PARIS, Aug. 27. (AP)—Foreign Minister Briand's address to the plenipotentiaries before today's signing of the Kellogg-Briand renunciation of war pact was as follows:

"Gentlemen, I am fully conscious that silence would best befit such a solemn occasion. What I should like without any further words would be to let each of you simply rise from his seat to go and affix his signature in the name of his own country to the greatest collective deed born of peace. But I should be failing in my duty to my country if I did not tell you how deeply it feels the honor of welcoming the signatories of a general pact for the renunciation of war.

"If this honor has been left to France as acknowledgement of the standing she enjoys, thanks to her constant effort in the cause of peace, I gladly accept such tribute on behalf of the government of the French republic and I express the gratification of the whole people, happy that the inmost recesses of their national psychology should at last be understood by the world.

VOICES WELCOME

"While extending to you gentlemen a cordial welcome, let me rejoice at seeing gathered here, save those who were unavoidably prevented from coming by their state of health or by other duties, all the statesmen who, in their capacity as Ministers of Foreign Affairs, have taken a personal share in the conception, preparation and drafting of the new pact.

"We owe special thanks to those who have undergone the fatigue of a long journey in order to represent at this manifestation.

"I have no doubt that you are all ready to join with me in the same cordial impulse to one of our colleagues who did not hesitate to come here and assert with the full moral authority attached to his name, and the great country which he represented, the affirmation of his steady faith in the importance and scope of the deed which we are about to sign.

"Seated today among us in this same hall where his illustrious forerunner, President Wilson, associated already with works of peace so high a consciousness of the role of his country, the Honorable Mr. Kellogg is able to measure with just pride all the road covered in so short a time since we examined, both of us, the possibilities of realization of this vast diplomatic enterprise.

HONOR TO KELLOGG

"None is better qualified to take part in the negotiations today brought to a happy ending, a preponderant part of which was his and which will always stand to his honor in the minds of men. His optimism and his tenacity have overcome human skepticism; his loyalty and his good faith, the good will he brought to dissipate by clear and precise explanations the legitimate misgivings, have won for him the confidence of all his collaborators; his clearsightedness has shown him what one may expect from governments inspired by the deep yearnings of nations.

"What greater lesson can be offered the world than the spectacle of a reunion where before the signature of a pact against war, Germany of her own free will and on an even footing takes her place among the other signatories, her former adversaries.

SETS PRECEDENT

"The occasion is all the more striking when it is given to a representative of France to receive for the first time since more than half a century a German foreign minister on French soil and give him the same welcome as all his foreign colleagues. I would add, gentlemen, when this representative of Germany is named Stresemann, one can believe me particularly happy to render homage to the highness of mind and to the courage of this eminent man of state who during more than three years has not hesitated to assume full responsibility in the work of European co-operation for the maintenance of peace.

"Since I have gone so far as to mention names, you will not take it amiss—and certainly Lord Cushendun will approve me—if I personally evoke amongst us with brotherly feeling the name of Sir Austen Chamberlin. Allow me to address to him all our wishes for a speedy and full return to health. When I think of the unwearying devotion that the cause of peace has always fostered in his noble soul, I cannot help imagining the joy which so determined an enemy of war would have felt at the sight of a meeting such as this. As to ourselves, we must perforce believe he is still with us, whether invisible or in the flesh at any manifestation of peace.

"It will be, I hope, no exaggeration to say that today's event marks a new date in history-making.

"For the first time, on general plans accessible to all nations in the universe, a congress of peace does something else than settle politically the immediate conditions of a particular peace, such as they are imposed in fact by the results of war. For the first time, on a comprehensive and absolute scale, a treaty is truly devoted to the very establishment of peace, initiating a new law and freed from all political contingencies. Such a treaty is a beginning and not an end unto itself.

"Nor have we met to liquidate a war. The pact of Paris, born of peace and drawn from a free juridical notion, can and must be a regular treaty of concord. That is no doubt why Mr. Kellogg, when he insisted on leaving to the French government the privilege of receiving you in Paris, was so kind as to tell the French Ambassador that it seemed to him quite fitting that the neighborhood of the 'Place de la Concorde' should be chosen for signing the pact.

"The treaties of Locarno, after the Dawes plan, had already borne witness to this new spirit that now finds its full vent. All their signatories were quite familiar with the idea of the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy, as I had the occasion of saying in my message to the American people on the 6th of April, 1927. But those practical agreements, calculated to create a political guarantee of peace in a definite section of Europe, could not, because of their very nature, assume that universal character from which a general pact against war derives all its value.

REFERS TO LEAGUE

"The League of Nations, deeply imbued with the same spirit, had likewise issued a declaration tending in fact to obtain eventually the same result as the new pact, but apart from the fact that the United States had no share in it, the formula and methods of the League could not be the same as those to which it has been possible for us to have recourse for such a general and absolute agreement as the pact provides. The League of Nations, a vast political undertaking of insurance against war and a powerful institution of organized peace where there is room to welcome all fresh contributions to the common work, cannot but rejoice at the signing of an international contract whereby she is to benefit.

"Far from being inconsistent with any of her obligations, this new act on the contrary offers her a kind of general reinsurance. Thus those of her members who will soon be able to ask the league to register today's contract will rightly feel they are bringing her a precious token of their attachment and loyalty.

AGAINST WILLFUL WAR

"It may now be appropriate to explain what is finally the essential feature of this pact against war. It is this: For the first time in the face of the whole world through a solemn covenant involving the honor of great nations which all have behind them a heavy past of political conflict, war is renounced unreservedly as an instrument of national policy, that is to say in its most specific and dreaded form: Selfish and Willful war. Considered of yore as of divine right and having remained in international ethics as an attribute of sovereignty, that form of war becomes at last juridically devoid of what constituted its most serious danger: Its legitimacy.

"Henceforth, branded with illegality, it is by mutual accord truly and regularly outlawed so that a culprit would incur the unconditional condemnation and probably the enmity of all its cosignatories. It is a direct blow to the institution of war, even to its very vitals. It is no longer a question of a defensive organization against this scourge, but of attacking the evil at the root itself.

"Thus shall war as a means of arbitrary and selfish action no longer be deemed lawful. Thus its threat shall no longer hang over the economic, political and social life of peoples. Thus shall the smaller nations henceforth enjoy real independence in international discussions. Freed from the old bondage, the nations that have signed the new contract will gradually foresake the habit of associating the idea of national prestige and national interest with the idea of force. And this single psychological fact will not be the least important factor in the evolution that is needed to lead to the regular stabilization of peace.

"Oh, but this is not realism, it has been said, and are not sanctions lacking? It might be asked whether true realism consists in excluding from the realm of facts the moral forces amongst which is that of public opinion. In effect, a state which would act so as to incur the reprobation of all its partners would run the positive risk of seeing all of them gradually and freely gather against it with redoubtable consequences that would not be long to ensue. And where is the country, signatory to this pact, whose leaders would on their own responsibility expose it to such danger? The modern law of interdependence between nations makes it incumbent upon every statesman to take up for himself those memorable words of President Coolidge: 'An act of war in any part of the world is an act that injures the interests of my country.'

WORLDWIDE

"Now we can realize how important it is to extend the scope of this wide range of international solidarity which tends, as an ideal end, to encampass the whole of the universe.

"When on June 20, 1927, I had the honor of proposing to the Hon. Mr. Kellogg the form of words which he decided to accept and embody in the draft of a multilateral pact, I never contemplated for one moment that the suggested engagement should only exist between France and the United States. Indeed, I have always thought that in one way or another, through multiplication or extension, the proposed covenant would in itself possess an expanding force strong enough to reach rapidly all nations whose moral adhesion was indispensable. It was, therefore, a source of gratification to me to see Mr. Kellogg from the beginning of the active negotiations that he was to lead with such a clear-sighted and perceiving mind, advocate extension of the pact and assign to it that universal character that fully answered the wishes of the French government.

"It may be said that this desirable universality that was at the origin of the pact has already found its application in actual practice, for the intentions expressed by many governments enable us even now to consider the spiritual community of the nations that are morally represented at this first signature as being much wider than it appears to the onlookers. All those peoples whose delegates have not been in a position to sit amongst us today must realize in this hour of complete union our unanimous regret that for purely technical reasons it was found imperative to adopt a procedure best calculated to insure and expedite, for the benefit of all, the success of this great undertaking.

ALL FLAGS HOISTED

"Thus the mind's eye broadens this solemn assembly of first signatories to a general pact for renunciation of war and extends it beyond the walls of this room and even over all frontiers whether on land or on sea. With this wide communion of men which we feel surrounding us we sincerely are entitled to reckon that we are more than fourteen around this table, and well may you have noticed that the government of the republic has purposely ordered that the flags of all nations should be hoisted over the building which is sheltering us today.

"Gentlemen, in a moment the awakening of a great hope will be signaled to the world along the wires. It will henceforth behoove us as a sacred duty to do all that can and must be done for that hope not to be disappointed. Proclaimed, it is well it is much; but if still remains necessary to organize it. In the solution of difficulties right and not might must prevail. That is to be the work of tomorrow.

"At this unforgettable hour the conscience of peoples pure and rid of any national selfishness, is sincerely endeavoring to attain those serene regions where human brotherhood can be felt in the beatings of one and the same heart. Let us seek a common ideal within which we can all merge our fervent hopes and give up any selfish thoughts. As there is not one of the nations represented here but that has shed the blood of her children on the battlefields of the last war, I propose that we should dedicate to the dead, to all the dead of the great war, the event which we are going to consecrate together by our signatures."

COOLIDGE HAPPY OVER NEW PACT

Japanese Leader Hails New Day in World History

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—The signing of the Kellogg treaty today in Paris was described by President Coolidge in a message to President Doumergue as a great forward step in the preservation of peaceful relations between the nations.

"It gives me great pleasure and satisfaction to extend to you and through you to the representatives of the nations assembled in Paris my cordial congratulations on the successful outcome of the negotiations inaugurated by France and the United States for a treaty renouncing war as an instrument of national policy and pledging the signatories to seek only by peaceful means the settlement of differences which may arise betwen them," President Coolidge said.

"The treaty to be signed in Paris had its inception in the proposal submitted last year by the government of France to the government of the United States. The idea of M. Briand has been made worldwide. I am confident that the simple provisions of this treaty will be accepted by all nations because I am sure there is everywhere a will for peace. It is a great forward step in the preservation of peaceful relations between the nations and therefore will, I know, prove to be a historic document in the history of civilization. It has been a privilege to the United States to contribute to the success of this movement, a satisfaction to have been associated with France and other peace-loving nations in thus writing into international law one of the deepest aspirations of the human conscience."

FRENCH PRESIDENT REPLIES WITH THANKS

SUPERIOR (Wis.) Aug. 27. (AP)—Replying to President Coolidge's message on the occasion of signing of the multilateral treaty for the outlawry of war, President Doumergue of France today thanked the Chief Executive in the name of the "civilized world" for his efforts in inducing the leading nations of the world to subscribe to the pact.

A telegram addressed to Washington and relayed to the summer White House, President Doumergue said:

"I very sincerely thank Your Excellency for your kindly sending me, and through me the representatives of the nations assembled in Paris, a message which evinces the great importance you so rightly attach to the solemn signing of the general compact renouncing war as an instrument of national policy. The fact that the ceremony is on this day celebrated in Paris comes from a desire which you put in a peculiarly nice form, that of acknowledging the initial part taken by the French government and its Minister for Foreign Affairs in bringing about the great project.

"The French nation is thankful for and proud of the honor bestowed upon it in the reception of the foreign plenipotentiaries and cannot forget that thanks are due to the skillful and conciliatory efforts of the President and of the Secretary of State of the United States for the manner in which the covenant was received by the leading nations of the world, which befitted the trait of universality that makes its power and greatness.

"I therefore feel that I am voicing the sentiments of the original signatories of the treaty as well as those of the still larger number who will adhere anon, when I express to Your Excellency and your government the thanks of the civilized world. I am, as you are, convinced that the act accomplished on this day responds to the intermost longings of all mankind."

JAPANESE PREMIER HAILS DAWN OF NEW DAY

TOKIO, Aug. 27. (AP)—The Kellogg-Briand treaty marks the dawn of a new day, said Premier Tanaka of Japan in a statement today.

"Japan hails that dawn and she rejoices in the prospect of an age of continuous peace," the Premier declared. "The treaty will ever mark an epoch in history. It always will stand as the portal to an era wherein it is officially proclaimed that war is unworthy of civilised man."

The enterprise and initiative of America in the fields of humanitarian and pacific effort never appeared to better advantage than at conclusion of the war renunciation treaty, the Baron added.

Declaring his only regret to be that due to work and distance he was unable to accept the invitation to be present at the signature ceremony, he said: "I most assuredly am there with Count Uchida in spirt and with all my heart I utter these congratulations."

Baron Gonsuka Hayashi, former Minister to China and former Ambassador to Rome and London, made the following statement:

"It is a matter of world-wide felicitation that the great nations, following the initiative of the United States, have assembled envoys in Paris to sign a compact to abandon war as an instrument of national policy. Once more, as in Washington in 1921, the powers must gratefully acknowledge the enlightened leadership of America."

Pact Ceremony Heard on Radio

LONDON, Aug. 27. (AP)—Tens of thousands of Britains heard the peace pact ceremony broadcast over the radio. It was relayed to all stations in the country and came through from beginning to end with remarkable clarity.

Every remark and movement, even to the faint noises of persons walking around the Clock Hall in Paris during the signing, were heard easily.

LEAGUERS LAUD KELLOGG PACT

Covenant Seen as Help to Nations' Security

United States Commitment Held Substantial

American Boycott for War Nation Expected

GENEVA, Aug. 27. (AP)—Because the Kellogg pact makes for peace and, by increasing the sense of international security, constitutes a practical incentive to reduction of armaments, the signing of it today was a cause of rejoicing at the League of Nations.

Although the United States has taken the precaution to point out that its adherence to the pact involves no future commitments concerning conflicts in any part of the world, league officials expressed the opinion that consummation of the agreement certainly creates a moral interest and some moral responsibility for the United States in the maintenance of peace.

LEAGUE'S VIEW

Concretely, officials believe that Americans would be so disturbed, and even incensed, over any nation aggressively breaking the anti-war pledge that they would refuse food and munitions to the war-making country. In other words, the League believes the United States would not insist upon its right of neutrality and would not bring succor to the state that has incurred the onus of all signatories of the pact and incidentally subjected itself to penalties from the League of Nations.

For automatically a violator of the Kellogg pact, it was pointed out, would fall in the grip of the punitive machinery of the League Covenant. This is so because the Kellogg Treaty signatories are members of the League.

PENALTIES PROVIDED

Article XVI of the covenant says that should any member of the League resort to war in disregard of its obligations it shall be deemed to have committed an act of war against all other members of the League. The latter will undertake immediately to submit the offending state to the severance of all trade on financial relations. Moreover, it is the duty of the League Council to recommend contributions by governments of military, naval and air forces to be used against the peace-breaking country. It is for the parliaments of the various countries to decide whether military aid will be furnished the League.

An economic blockade is, however, clearly provided for, once it is determined that a nation has aggressively resorted to war in violation of the covenant.

AIDS TO PEACE

If the United States decided not to interfere with an economic blockade—in other words, if it negatively helped the League of refraining from commerce with the aggressor nation—then, League officials believe, the United States would be doing considerable in the cause of peace. This is deemed true because any attempt of the United States to break a League blockade might endanger war with members of the League, and this very danger of complications with the United States would make League States hesitate about embarking on a blockade.

In some more sanguine League circles it is even predicted that the United States would not only abandon her right to neutrality in case the Kellogg pact is broken but would also tend to assist the League in punitive measures. In other words it is thought she might offer her services as a policeman with others to maintain peace.

AMERICA TO KEEP ALOOF FROM EUROPE

PARIS, Aug. 27. (AP)—Lord Cushendun, who signed the Kellogg-Briand pact today in behalf of Great Britain, North Ireland and India, said after the signing that it is a great and historic event, but he cautions against the inference that the activities of Secretary Kellogg in elaborating the treaty means that the United States will depart from its policy of aloofness toward European complication.

"So far as this pact is concerned," he said, "it carries with it no implication that the American people must concern themselves with European matters."

BUSINESS TAKES WORLD SCEPTER

demands peace. Business, in its afternoon clothes, proclaims peace. "I am the State," said Louis the Grand. "I am democracy," says Business.

So business had set about to banish soldiers from the dais and had placed the cash register thereon. It may take a century to do this, but it will be done, and that somewhat under the leadership of America. For, as President Coolidge declared in his first notable utterance after his inauguration:

"The business of America is business."

WAR DISREPUTABLE

Business needs peace. So, in gray fedora, pin-striped trousers and smart afternoon coat, business today formed a world corporation with limited liability to underwrite the peace of the world and put the soldier in his place. Thus as the King waved aside the priest and barons dethroned the King, so the Commons, dominated by business, dismiss the old barons and the world moves up to its new position.

Of course, this treaty will not end war. Laws do not stop brawling. They merely make it disreputable. Our treaty does not mean more than this. Under the new prohibition, war will have to be bootlegged. So it will be poisonous and illfamed. Pacifists in the last century thought they could control war. Wilson thought he could enforce peace. Business, controlling the world's chancellories today, seeks to put war under the black curse of its disapproval; to prohibit war by outlawing it—a new thing in the world—a gesture, of course; only the registry of a good intention at most, but still a legal, formal and terrible proclamation of the common man's godlike yearning for peace.

It is the golden quest of humanity, a quest followed since the dawn of time. The priest, the king, the baron, the statesman all have failed. Each has been waved away after his futile day. Now, in the anteroom of the Hall of Clocks, where less than a decade ago Wilson came with his high vision, behold a hatrack filled with gray, soft hats and business takes the scepter. Business conjures with an ancient wand to witch away the monster.

So a new epoch comes to mankind.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—Signing by fifteen nations of the compact for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy in Paris Monday was hailed today by Dr. Hubert Work and Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, chairman and vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee, as an outstanding achievement of the administration of Calvin Coolidge, which Herbert Hoover may be expected to further by every possible means in the event of his election.

They pointed out that Mr. Hoover referred in his speech of acceptance at Palo Alto to the multilateral treaties, the date for signing of which had not then been fixed, as follows:

"The experience of the war afforded final proof that we cannot isolate ourselves from the world, that the safeguarding of peace cannot be obtained by negative action. Our offer of treaties open to the signature of all, renouncing war as an instrument of national policy, proves that we have every desire to co-operate with other nations for peace."

TREMENDOUS ADVANCE

This additional step toward the furtherance of world peace under a Republican administration furnishes very substantial evidence that the Republican party has brought about a tremendous advance in international understanding and provides another substantial argument for the continuance of Republican rule through the election of Hoover and Curtis, according to the leaders of the national committee.

They made the following statements on the signing of the treaty:

Dr. Hubert Work said:

"Signing by fifteen great powers of the multilateral arbitration treaties to substitute pacific means for war, marks an event of the first magnitude in all history.

"The significance of this monumental contribution to the world's transquillity will become more and more apparent as time passes. But the people of the world will welcome the many advantages which become available to this generation.

PROOF OF SINCERITY

"The negotiations carried on by Secretary Kellogg and the State Department have given proof of the deep sincerity of purpose and breadth of vision of the United States government—evidence of our desire to co-operate with other nations for peace. They are an outstanding achievement of the Coolidge administration, indeed, of our nation's foreign relations."

Mrs. Hert said:

"Never in all history has there been taken a step of such profound significance to mankind as the meeting of representatives of fifteen great nations to sign treaties to renounce war as a means of settling international disputes.

MOMENTOUS STEP

"That nations so lately engaged in a world struggle should engage in such an undertaking renders another world war virtually impossible. This event is momentous from a humane standpoint as well as a human standpoint.

"That this conclusive proof of earnest and sincere desire to foster and preserve good-will between nations should have been brought to fruition through Secretary Kellogg and the United States Department of State may well be a matter of deepest pride to every American. It will write itself largest in the record of the Coolidge administration.

"Every nation and every people will benefit directly from the opportunity for their own advancement and progress which this program will afford.

"The results of this contribution to world peace cannot be estimated, for the past affords us no record by which its importance can be measured."

VICTORIAN VANDAL VICTIMIZED

Bland Bicycle Bandit Shamefully Shortchanged by Slicker; Negro of '90s Mocked by Modern Machiavelli; Courteous Cutpurse Foils Pursuit

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (Exclusive) Out of the past into the Bronx rode a bicycle bandit this morning. From his tilted hat to his trailing raincoat he was true to the code of the leisurely nineties. He was courteous, credulous and careless and got short-changed for his pains. But he was New York's comedy relief bandit in a period of high-powered crime so his work must be set down.

The man who pedaled the bicycle up to the high level of the motor car as a modern vehicle of crime was a tall negro with a combination Harlem-Dixie accent, and a 1928 idea about money. He must remain nameless for the present, for he left no address as he coasted away on his bike. He did leave four pursuing taxis behind, for a bicycle can go where flivvers fear to roll.

There was none of the haste that marks the activities of his machine-gun-spraying brothers as the negro rode up to the curb outside a United Cigar Store and swung himself from his Victorian vehicle.

Sondon opened the safe, which contained $159. It was then that the twentieth century triumphed over the nineteenth and a city slicker outwitted his two-wheeled caller from Harlem. The $159 was in two rolls. Sondon deliberately fumbled and $78 fell to the floor behind the counter. The negro took the $81 and counted it carefully.

Then Sondon milked the cash register. He gave the bicycle bandit the $1 bills and kept the fives. This ran the negro's haul to $92

"Thanks," said the bandit as he walked toward the door. "Now you just sit pretty and, man, don't get in no hurry—I needs time."

Then the man from Harlem mounted his bicycle and rode away as leisurely as a messenger boy.

JOHN COOLIDGE CREATES JAZZ

At Public Dance He Plays His Saxophone and Doesn't Go Home Until Morning

SUPERIOR (Wis.) Aug. 27. (AP)—John Coolidge, son of the President, has demonstrated his ability as an entertainer at a public dance in Solon Springs, a little resort near here.

Arriving unexpectedly from Cedar Island Lodge, accompanied by a secret-service operative, John did little dancing Saturday night, but instead climbed into the orchestra stand and played the saxophone with the other musicians for almost the entire evening. In the intervals between dances the son of the President sang a number of songs.

He remained at the dance until early morning.

WEST GOES TO CALL ON PRESIDENT

Interior Secretary Will Outline Developments in Department

SUPERIOR, (Wis.) Aug. 27. (AP)—Secretary M. West of the Interior Department arrived in Superior today for a call on President Coolidge at Cedar Island Lodge.

Mr. West said he had only routine matters to take up with the Chief Executive. Since his appointment the cabinet officer had not had an opportunity to consult with the President and he took this opportunity both to acquaint Mr. Coolidge with developments in the Interior Department and to obtain the latter's views on their handling.

President Coolidge is much interested in the pending report of the board of experts appointed under act of Congress to look into the technical aspects of the Boulder dam project. The appointment of this board was completed immediately preceding the acceptance of Dr. Hubert Work's resignation from the Interior Department and the experts have been studying ever since the Colorado River project.

President Coolidge's recommendations to the next Congress regarding Boulder dam will be largely influenced by the report, the compilation of which and the progress so far made are expected to constitute a great part of the discussion at Cedar Island Lodge today.

Secretary West also is a fisherman, and President Coolidge intends that he shall share with him one of the last angling opportunities on the Brule River before the trout season shall close on August 31.

Tax Proposed by State on Income of Ship Insurers

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—The State Tax Commission today was requested by the Board of Marine Underwriters of San Francisco to include marine insurance companies in the proposal to levy a State income tax on corporations. The companies now pay State taxes on a gross premium basis.

"This request," said J. B. Levison, chairman of the board, in a letter to the commission, "is in furtherance of a national movement to foster and encourage marine insurance in this country, by the substitution of a net underwriting profit tax for the gross premiums sax.

"The leadership was assumed by our national Congress and it has been followed by the States of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Oregon. In view of these precedents for the recent action of our commission in approving the net income tax basis for banks and general corporations, there would appear to be little ground for hesitation in the adoption of a similar measure in this State."

MAKERS OF GUNS FACE SPOTLIGHT

"Pitiless Publicity" Given Approval of Powers

League Will Draft Plan to Spread Information

Private and Public Munition Plants Affected

GENEVA, Aug. 27. (AP)—Japan, Great Britain and Italy today announced their adherence to the doctrine of the United States that "pitiless publicity" must be given to the governmental as well as the private manufacture of arms.

This stand developed at the opening session of a commission which will frame a draft convention for the control of the private manufacture of implements of war. It is interpreted as meaning that all the great powers are ready to publish information concerning the manufacture of arms and munitions. Whether that manufacture takes place in government arsenals or elsewhere, when the arms are for use of governments.

Count von Bernstorff, German former Ambassador to Washington, acted as president of the commission, and the United States was represented by Hugh R. Wilson, American Minister to Berne.

For years the League has been struggling with this problem of private manufacture of arms, and has found it no easy matter to reach agreement on the terms of a draft convention. In view of the difficulties encountered, delegates had favored either dropping the matter, or at least postponing it until such time as it held a general international conference for reduction of all armaments.

Mr. Wilson insisted that there should be more extensive publicity on the construction of warships. He proposed that when nations publish information about additions to their navies, the date of completion of the ship and the caliber of the guns should be made known also.

British delegates said they saw no difficulty in this idea but that they must refer the question to London.

Drunken Drivers Increase Faster Than New Cars

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—Figures compiled by the State Division of Motor Vehicles made public today show that drunken driving in California is increasing ten times as fast as are the number of new automobiles.

Revocations of licenses for driving while drunk increased 310 per cent between 1923 and 1927, whereas in the same period the number of automobiles in the State increased but 30 per cent.

In no year, the division's records show, has the gain in automobile registration exceeded or even equaled the increase in revocations for driving while intoxicated.

In 1923 the licenses of fewer than fifty motorists were canceled for drunken driving, while the revocations for 1928 are expected to reach 400.

Lawyer to See Governor About Mooney Pardon

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—Frank P. Walsh, New York attorney, closely identified with organized labor conditions, arrived in San Francisco today and tomorrow afternoon has an appointment to meet Gov. Young in Berkeley for the understood purpose of discussing a pardon for Tom Mooney, serving a life sentence in San Quentin for the 1916 Preparedness Day parade bombing.

Walsh declined to discuss the reason for his visit.

Walsh is the father of Jerome Walsh, young attorney who came from Kansas City to defend William Edward Hickman.

HOOVER BATTLE TURNS TO EAST

Seaboard and New England Next Face Attack

Hilles and Pomeroy Call to Meet Nominee

G.O.P. of New Jersey Plans Intensive Fight

BY ROBERT E. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—Herbert Hoover, convinced that he has the support of the West, is directing the next attack of the Republican party on New York, New Jersey and New England. By a mass play of high-powered orators and effective campaigning in the North and East he expects to take the bulk of the electoral votes of these States into the Republican fold November 6. The details of the next move will be determined this week after conferences with Representative John Q. Tilson in charge of the eastern speakers' bureau, and Representative Newton, in charge of the western speakers' bureau.

Another vital conference in the attack on the East will be tomorrow with William H. Hill, chairman of the Hoover-Curtis campaign committee in New York State, who is co-operating with the national Republican committee.

SPEED PROGRAM

Hoover will make Washington the center of his operations from now on and will have this as a base until he returns to California to vote. He is expected to make speeches in New York, New England and probably in Chicago. Whether he will go via the border States or through the Northwest is to be determined later.

Today Hoover inducted his successor, Secretary of Commerce Whiting, into the mysteries of the Department of Commerce and spent the rest of the day in conference with Republican leaders in two of the pivotal States whose electoral votes he proposes to obtain between now and election day. His luncheon guests were Daniel E. Pomeroy, vice-chairman of the Republican National Committee of New Jersey, and Charles D. Hilles, National Republican Committeeman from New York, and James Frederick Burke of Pittsburgh, general counsel of the Republican National Committee.

While details of the campaign in New York, New Jersey and New England will be worked out in detail during this week, it was determined today to make an aggressive and determined frontal attack to get the electoral votes of all these States and to leave no loophole after the attack is started.

NEW JERSEY PLANS

Registration of voters in New Jersey this year is being followed up closely by the Republican organization and indications are that there will be from 100,000 to 200,000 voters added to the voting lists, Morgan F. Larson and Jules E. Tepper of Newark told Secretary Franklin W. Fort of the Republican National Committee today. Mr. Larson is the Republican candidate for Governor of New Jersey and Mr. Tepper was one of the organizers of what is probably the oldest Hoover-for-President club, which was formed in Essex county, New Jersey, in 1920.

Messrs. Larson and Tepper also paid their respects to Mr. Hoover and Dr. Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee. Mr. Larson, a civil engineer by profession, remarked after the meeting with Mr. Hoover that they "had much in common to talk about."

The Republican organization is overlooking no opportunity to induce voters to register and there is a pronounced pro-Hoover sentiment among new voters, Mr. Larson said.

Mr. Tepper said the original Hoover-for-President club of Essex county, which numbered 300 members in 1920, has now a vigorous membership of 3000, who are conducting the most complete house-to-house canvass in Mr. Hoover's behalf. This club in 1921 became the Essex County Republican Club.

Mr. Tepper declared that as a result of the work the club is doing Mr. Hoover and the Republican ticket will carry Essex county by 30,000 this election.

WHITING REGARDS HOOVER'S OUTLOOK GOOD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—The Republican outlook in Massachusetts was described as "very good" today by William F. Whiting, successor to Herbert Hoover as Secretary of Commerce, in his first press conference a few hours after starting in on his new position.

Mr. Whiting, who hails from Holyoke, Mass., predicted that Hoover will carry the State. He expects to spend practically all the timebetween now and March 4, administering the Department of Commerce, without activt participation in the political campaign.

South Hoover's, Says Democrat Woman Leader

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) Aug. 27. (AP)—Only two States in the South, South Carolina and Louisiana, are in the doubtful column, the others will be overwhelmingly for Herbert Hoover next November as a protest against Gov. Smith's prohibition record, Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson of Chevy Chase, Md., president of the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League, and editor of the Woman Voter, declared here today.

Mrs. Nicholson, who is here to address a meeting tomorrow of the Jefferson County Women's Christian Temperance Union, added the entire West to the southern States as strongholds for Hoover that would give him a majority of "approximately 10,000,000 votes," over the New York Governor.

MAD BULL KILLS WOMAN

KENDALLVILLE (Ind.) Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—Mrs. Henry Rogers, 48 years of age, a prominent Noble county resident, was gored to death by a bull this afternoon in a field at her farm home, ten miles southwest of here.

DRY CANDIDATES MAY WITHDRAW

Indorsement of Hoover and Curtis by Prohibition Party Indicated

Nominees of the National Prohibition party for President and Vice-President will be withdrawn about September 1 and Hoover and Curtis will be indorsed, according to a message received by Charles H. Randall, Senatorial candidate of that party. Dr. D. Leigh Colvin, national chairman, responding to the recent urgent recommendation of Randall that such action be taken, states that he thoroughly agrees with the proposal to withdraw the Prohibition Presidential candidates. Under date of the 22nd inst. Colvin writes Randall:

"I am expecting that by the last of the month we shall have the candidates withdrawn and we shall have gotten started in the campaign to help make Al Smith's defeat as decisive as possible. Each day it becomes more and more clear that we are facing a prohibition and antiprohibition fight."

SPRY SIGHTS DISASTER TO DEMOCRATS

Former Governor of Utah Visiting Here Says Trend Toward Hoover Grows

National sentiment in favor of Herbert Hoover for President rapidly is crystallizing and it is probable that the Democratic party is facing another debacle similar to that of 1920, in the opinion of William Spry, former Governor of Utah and at present Commissioner of the General Land Office of the Department of the Interior, who arrived here yesterday.

WILLIAM SPRY.

Mr. Spry is on his annual tour of the government land offices throughout the West and his political opinions have been formed on the tour through observance and conferences with political leaders, he said.

In Illinois, according to Mr. Spry's opinion, Hoover will carry the State by 300,000 majority. In North and South Dakota, where the farm relief problem is uppermost, the Republican nominee for President has a solid backing since the delivery of his acceptance speech and in Washington and Oregon, Mr. Spry says, the Hoover opposition is negligible.

Utah will cast almost a solid ballot for Hoover, the commissioner said, although in Nevada the situation is not so favorable, but Mr. Spry recalls previous Republican victories in that State.

On his tour in the West, he said, he discovered that the assurance of Hoover as the next President has not affected general prosperity, rather, it has been a stimulus.

During his stay in Los Angeles Mr. Spry is visiting his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Rich Woolley.

CONNALLY'S VOTE PILES UP IN TEXAS

DALLAS (Tex.) Aug. 27. (AP)—Additional returns from Saturday's run-off primary received by the Texas election bureau served to increase the leads established in early tabulations.

Representative Connally of Marlin increased his lead in the Senatorial race over Senator Mayfield to more than 56,000. The last figures for the day announced by the election bureau gave Connally 295,985 votes to Mayfield's 239,549.

Complete returns from 105 counties were included in this tabulation with incomplete returns from 121 other counties. Only nine counties had failed to report. All of these are small and some of them may have held no primary.

In the State races S. M. N. Marrs was leading W. F. Garner for the nomination as State Superintendent of Public Instruction by more than 74,000 votes, J. T. Robison had a lead of more than 139,000 votes over Otis Terrell for the land commissionership and R. Q. Lee was almost 5000 votes ahead of Oscar Callaway in the Seventeenth District Congressional race.

Representative Connally today pledged his support to Gov. Smith in a message of thanks to the voters. He also declared he stands squarely on the Houston platform.

Senator Mayfield had the support of his old enemy, James E. Ferguson, former Governor, who he defeated for the Senatorial nomination six years ago. Ferguson had campaigned for Col. Alvin Owsley, past National Commander of the American Legion, in the first primary, but changed his support to Mayfield when Owsley failed to enter the run-off.

SACHEM SMITH PONDERS FORAY

Democratic Chief Making Medicine in Wigwam

May Raid Midwest to Raise Republican Scalps

Bars Outdoor War Whoops to Avert Dry Throat

SPRING LAKE (N. J.) Aug. 27. (AP)—Assured by political lieutenants that all's well in New Jersey from the standpoint of his Presidential candidacy, Gov. Smith turned back today to New York, concerned chiefly over the arrangement of his speech itinerary.

By next week, the Democratic nominee believes, it will be possible for him to announce where he will strike first and give some inkling as to the States he will invade before election day.

HE'LL SPARE TALK

One thing is certain—the Governor will abstain from open-air speeches to conserve his voice. He has expressed that determination and that means that he will speak at no outdoor rallies and will make no campaign speeches from the rear end of his train, once he sets out on his travels.

The nominee also is of the opinion that he should make only a limited number of speeches at strategic centers, utilizing the radio to the utmost to spread his views to the voters of the nation.

He is anxious to keep in top form for the last ten days of the campaign, which he considers the most important of the pre-election period.

EAST HIS HUNTING GROUND

There is little doubt he will devote considerable time to the East, Central West and some of the border States. Whether he will go to the Pacific Coast remains to be determined, and the advisability of making a speech or two in the "Solid South" also is in the balance.

Mayor Hague of Jersey City, a vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and a close political ally of the Governor, urged him before his departure today to return to New Jersey for at least one important speech, more if possible, during the campaign.

CURTIS SAYS HE'LL CARRY NEW YORK

Senator Syracuse Bound to Make Speech Declares "Everything's Lovely"

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP)—Senator Curtis of Kansas, running-mate of Herbert Hoover, dashing across town in tow of Republican leaders to change trains, paused long enough to say, with a wave of his hand, "everything's lovely." He promised, however, "plenty of news" in his Syracuse speech tomorrow.

At the Grand Central he bumped into Robert F. Wagner, Democratic Senator from New York State. Both grinned and shook hands.

"I'm going up to Rochester to fix things up," said Wagner.

In reply to his query how things looked in New York State, Curtis said:

"I am going to carry the State. That's easy."

Then, finding he had a few minutes to spare, the Senator turned to reporters and said:

"From the information I have gathered on my trips and from letters the outlook is fine in this campaign and is better than any campaign I have ever been in."

The nominee said he is delighted to find women playing an active part, and he believes as the campaign progresses they will become more active.

PITTSBURGH MAN DENIES VARE FRAUD

County Leader Upholds Hiring 5654 Messengers Before Senate Inquiry

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 27. (AP)—Absolute denial there was fraud in connection with the 1926 election in which William S. Vare was declared the winner over William B. Wilson was made late today before a United States Senate subcommittee investigating Wilson's election contest by James F. Malone, president of the Pittsburgh City Council, and chairman of the Republican county campaign committee in 1926.

Asked by Senator Waterman, Republican of Colorado, who is conducting the inquiry here, if there was an "ulterior motive" in the hiring of 5654 "messengers" in the 1926 election, Malone said in a calm voice "absolutely not." He amplified his answer by declaring that to his knowledge, there was no fraud of any kind in connection with the balloting.

Malone's denial of asserted irregularities came following lengthy questioning by Wilson's counsel concerning the methods of employing "messengers" and "watchers."

Thirteen witnesses were heard today and indications are the inquiry will consume much of the week.

PARTY HEADQUARTERS OF CROATIANS BURN

ZAGREB (Jugo Slavia) Aug. 27. (AP)—The national headquarters of the Croatian Peasant party were partly destroyed by fire today and many important documents were burned. Party leaders declare the fire was due to criminal incendiarism.

CHURCH HITS SMITH STAND

LEWISTOWN (Mont.) Aug. 27. (AP)—The Montana Methodist conference today expressed opposition to the principles and program embodied in Alfred E. Smith as a Presidential candidate, and indorsed Herbert Hoover as the man who would "lift our present standard and national ideal regarding prohibition."

"We believe the most important social matter now before the American people is prohibition in the national election campaign," says a resolution adopted unanimously by the conference. "National prohibition is threatened by a political conspiracy.

"After several years of skillful propaganda indirectly and directly for nullification of the Eighteenth Amendment those who never raised a voice, legislated a law, nor voted to curb or banish the saloon now declare themselves best qualified to solve the age-old liquor problem, have captured the machinery of a political party and nominated a man for President whose published legislative record reveals him as one who never voted to hasten the day of liquor banishment."

The resolution adds that the candidate "while declaring he will enforce prohibition, assumes it is unenforceable and must be changed, first by what constitutes nullification and second by advocating repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and substitution for the amendment a system of liquor dispensary which would place liquor in control of the government which is a discredited plan."

Sinclair Lewis and Bride Back From Continent

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP)—Accompanied by his bride—who says she believes a married professional woman should use her husband's name in all except strictly business contacts—Sinclair Lewis returned from Europe today on the liner Hamburg.

"After all, a woman takes her name from her father," said Mrs. Lewis, who was formerly Dorothy Thompson, a writer like her novelist husband. "I can see no reason for annoyance at taking her name also from her husband. I have never been able to grasp what advantage comes from a married woman, aside from some professional task, using any other name than that of her husband."

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will be guests for several days of Alfred Harcourt at Riverside, Ct., after which they will start housekeeping in New York.

VETERAN AID FUND GIVES $24,500,000

State Welfare Board in Report Shows Division of State Bond Issue

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 27. (AP)—Expenditures by the Veterans' Welfare Board for homes and farms for veterans of the World War during the past seven years since the veterans' welfare bonds were authorized by the State Legislature total $24,500,000, a report issued today by George Stout, secretary of the Veterans' Welfare Board, shows.

From a total of $307,150 expended in 1922, yearly expenditures have increased to $8,000,000 in 1927, and the 1928 record shows $5,585,800 spent to date, Stout said.

The average price paid for each of the 250 farms purchased was $5400, while 5000 homes bought averaged $4700 each. A total of 7000 acres of land has passed into possession of ex-service men with the 250 farms.

Los Angeles led all other counties, $8,380,500 being expended there. Alameda county was second with $4,000,000, while San Francisco county reported $2,750,000 and Sacramento county $2,000,000.

That is why we recommend our new Model 95 General Electric Refrigerator for the average-sized family — the most popular model among discriminating housekeepers.

Plan to see the General Electric this week. Whether you want to buy now or later, you should find out what this wonderful General Electric product can mean to your home and family—in health, convenience, actual money savings, and better living.

RECREATION PARK, San Francisco, Aug. 27. (AP)—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, made an impressive entry into the light-heavyweight ranks tonight when he scored a sensational knockout over Armand Emanuel, San Francisco, in the seventh round of their ten-round bout. A short right hand to the jaw as Emanuel came in dropped the San Francisco boy for the full count, after he had regained his feet from a nine count. He went down the same time from the same kind of a blow.

The middleweight champion, who weighed 11 1-4 pounds, stopped Emanuel down to his knees with a hard body attack in the first four rounds. Emanuel came back in the fifth and sixth rounds to take those rounds by a slight margin. Then he ran into Mickey's powerful right in the next round.

A crowd of approximately 20,000 persons, bringing the gate receipts to an estimated $50,000, saw the San Franican knocked out for the first time in a career of more than 50 battles.

The sudden ending came as a tre-

BROOKLINE (Mass.) Aug. 27. (AP) The eight seeded pairs in the national doubles tennis championship tournament advanced to the second round here today on the courts at the Longwood Cricket Club, all but one without great opposition.

The exception, Jean Borotra and Rene De Buselet of the French team, survived only after they exhibited for almost three hours what probably was the brightest play which will be seen during the tourney.

After quickly dropping the first two sets, 4-6, 4-6, to Edward Higgs and I. C. Collins of England, Borotra steadied and the Frenchmen saved the match by taking the third set, 6-3.

FRENCH NET INVASION CONFIRMED

Foreign Stars Wire Final Agreement to Compete Here Next Month

Final confirmation of the announced invasion of Los Angeles by French Davis Cup players, was made known yesterday through Clifton B. Herd, Los Angeles Tennis Club official, who received word from the foreign stars in the East, where they are now playing, Henri Cochet, Christian Boussus and Pierre Landry will compete here in the Pacific Southwest championships on October 1.

The fact that only three of the party of seven plan to make the trip, is something of a disappointment to local fans after the original report that all would enter the tourney. It is mitigated to some extent, however, by the news that they will not only compete in the Pacific Southwest championships, but will probably meet the English players in a team match before leaving here.

As early as two weeks ago, the

Mrs. Wightman Gains Honors in Forest Hills Play

BY F. G. VOSGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS (N. Y.) Aug. 27. (AP)—It was Helen Wills's day on the turf of this famous tennis battle ground this afternoon. In one of the most impressive triumphs of her remarkable career, the tennis queen from Berkeley romped away with her fifth national women's championship in singles and her fourth in doubles.

In neither final round battle was Miss Wills extended in the slightest and both matches were won in straight sets. Queen Helen took the court first in defense of her singles crown and repulsed the brave challenge of her doughty fellow Californian, Helen Jacobs of Santa Barbara, winning, 6-2, 6-1. Then, paired with Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman, veteran ex-champion from Boston, Miss Wills figured in another speedy victory at the expense of Miss Edith Cross of San Francisco and Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-2.

By her singles victory Miss Wills achieved the unprecedented feat of winning the championships of France, England and the United States in a single season and in straight sets.

If the day had another heroine besides Miss Wills it was Mrs. Wightman who at the age of 42 carried her full share of the burden in the doubles play. It was the second national championship for the Wills-Wightman combination as they scored in 1924 when Miss Wills also made a clean sweep of both titles. Winning today, they

Hollywood Boss Will Think Over Seraphs' Offer

Ladies Free Feud Expected to be Smoothed Over

Continuous Baseball Here is Necessary to League

The first step toward a reconciliation between William Wrigley, Jr. and Bill Lane took place yesterday in Wrigley Field tower, where the officials of the Hollywood and Los Angeles clubs gathered in a secret meeting in the Angel offices to air their differences concerning the much-discussed ladies' free controversy.

Nothing definite was accomplished in the conference, but at least it served the purpose of bringing the warring magnates together for the first time since Prexy Joe Patrick issued his proclamation announcing that the Stars would not be allowed to use Wrigley Field as their home grounds next season.

Lane submitted his compromise plan, which he later admitted was only a feeler, and Wrigley promptly rejected it. Whereupon, Wrigley had his auditor, Ray Still, go over the local club's figures and formulate another compromise proposition. The Hollywood chief looked it over and said that he would like to have three or four days to think things over before accepting or declining the proposition. With that the boys adjourned to the fifth floor of the tower for luncheon.

COMPROMISE EXPECTED

No date for the next meeting between Lane and Wrigley was announced, but it is expected to take place soon and clear up the muddle that for a time threatened to wind up with Los Angeles having only fourteen weeks of baseball next year.

Any move that deprived Los Angeles of continuous baseball would prove a death blow to the Pacific Coast League, and the other six magnates were anxiously hoping that the compromise, which now seems in the offing, would be brought about before the circuit's annual meeting at Portland in November.

Lane knows that the Wrigley

SANGOR-ZORILLA FIGHT AND RETURN OF STARS PUT LIFE IN LOCAL SPORTS PROGRAM

BY BRAVEN DYER

Two events of more than usual import are on the local sports calendar today. One is the appearance of Bill Lane's Hollywood Stars following the most successful road trip of the season—the other Santiago Zorilla's third assault on the person of Joey Sangor, freckle-faced Milwaukee kid who rates as one of the greatest drawing cards in local boxing history.

The Stars should attract a large and enthusiastic gathering at Wrigley Field this afternoon following their sensational showing against the Missions and Sacramento. In these two series the Sheiks won twelve games and lost two, which is the most surprising road record hung up in the Coast League for some moons, particularly when it is considered that the Stars were battling the league leaders in the second engagement.

BOBBY JONES SHATTERS CHICAGO COURSE RECORD

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. (AP)—The Chicago golf club course, where the Walker Cup matches will be played Thursday and Friday, evidently was made to order for Bobby Jones, as he shot two more remarkable rounds of 67 and 68 during practice today.

His 36-31—67, which was carded on his morning round, shattered the record of 68 which he established yesterday, and was four under par.

Then to prove neither of the first two record-breaking rounds was "luck," the golfing attorney from Atlanta clicked off his 68 this afternoon.

Members of the British and American Walker Cup teams also practiced over the championship course today, but none could match Bobby's genius.

Jones started his remarkable morning round with a birdie 4 on the first hole, 454 yards long. Birdies dropped at the fourth and fifth, he got even par on the sixth, seventh and ninth and went one over perfect figures on the second, third and eighth, giving him even par 36 for his outward journey.

Coming in Bobby bagged on the eleventh, sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth, while he got par on the others, finishing with a 31, or four under par, and he came within two inches of getting an eagle on the seventeenth. His drive was unusually long and his second, a spoon shot, stopped just two inches from the pin and he had to be content with a birdie 3.

Jones's record-breaking card:

Zorilla and Sangor Clash in Ten-Round Main Event in Olympic Ring This Evening

EXPECT PACKED HOUSE FOR GO

Little to Choose Between Two Fighters

Zorilla Has Easier Time Making Weight

Sangor Possesses Better Punch of Two

BY KAY OWE

Joey Sangor and Santiago Zorilla meet tonight at the Olympic in what the fans call a "little gigantic." The weight is 127 pounds and this question has been so acute between the two, Chief Inspector Bill Bomb yesterday ordered the boxers to get on the scales in his office today.

SANTIAGO ZORILLA

The ceremony will take place at 2 o'clock. Few matches carry enough weight to bring the boys into the commission offices. Even Paulino Uzcudun and George Godfrey weighed at the usual Olympic offices.

Commissioner Seth P. Streilinger used to have the principals of important fights weigh in his presence. It added dignity to the affair, he said.

Sangor banished all fear that he would be unable to make the official weight of 127 yesterday when he climbed on the scales in private. His handlers said he was a fraction under 127 then.

Earlier in the week the Sangor camp had given out the impression that Joey would be wasted away to a shadow in order to save his $500 weight forfeit. That turned out to be a managerial bluff.

"We'll make 126 pounds and box Fidel La Barba if he beats Bushy Graham," said Brother Lew yesterday. "Joey can do 126 for just three fighters. They are Tony Canzoneri and Graham besides La Barba. But we would not make it for Zorilla."

The three royal musketeers—Taylor, Graham and La Barba—will see Sangor and Zorilla battle tonight as interested spectators.

Zorilla came through the gymnasium grind looking the more fit of the two. The weight was catch-weights for him. He has taken an air of confidence since defeating Taylor.

The little Panamanian has stood the pickers on the fence by his last performance against Taylor. He made Taylor back up from every exchange, according to the reports.

Wirt Ross says he will do the same against Sangor. The picture of seeing anyone make Joey take it on the heels would be something he has never done in seven great fights here.

Sangor, if pressed to the limit, may have to do so by a knock-out, his friends think. Joey, like many other boxers, has not always swung for knockouts when he could win by boxing. He gave an exhibition of this against Baby Sal Sorio. On the verge of being stopped, Sangor got up and made the decision decisive in the next round.

According to the Sangor handlers Joey named the round he would stop Taylor in Chicago. Trouble had come up over making weight.

Taylor contested the knockout punch as foul, but it was not allowed.

The supporting card shows Joe Bell and Billy Blake in the semi-wind-up with Tom Moore and Paul Parish in the special. The two fours are Joe Arciniega vs. Phil Blood and Gene Mullen vs. Al Dozier.

The Sangor-Zorilla classic will probably pack the Olympic if the high tension along cauliflower alley counts for anything. The advance sale is big.

Boxing

NEW YORK, August 27.—Tiger Payne, Australia's colored light-heavyweight, will meet Paul Swiderski of Syracuse in the feature ten-round bout at Ebbetts Field on Wednesday night. This bout takes the place of the Izzy Grove-Pal Silvers contest which was cancelled because of Silvers engagement to battle Jack Britton tomorrow night. Payne is reputed to be a heavy puncher and on his one appearance in a local ring showed promise. He defeated Joe Monte of Boston in Madison Square Garden and holds a knockout victory over Johnny Squires.

The boxing calendar for the week discloses programs at all the clubs, though there is no match of spectacular aspect except possibly that between Sid Terris and Phil McGraw at the reopening of the Coney Island stadium Friday night. The matchmakers in most of them appear to have profited to some extent from the failures of the early summer, in that they now are offering cards composed of better balanced matches.

The veteran Jack Britton will return to the Queensboro stadium tomorrow evening for a ten-round tussle with Pal Silvers. Though he is reputed to be 43 years old and has been throwing leather for about twenty years, Britton can still whip most of the welterweights.

Harry Ebbets, hard-hitting Freeport middleweight, will take on Harry Dudley, Harlem negro, in the semifinal ten. In the other feature, Johnny Grosso, Billy Gibson's young heavyweight, will tackle Jack Smith.

LINCOLN BELL LOST TO BEAR GRIDDERS

BERKELEY, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—There is no chance that Lincoln Bell, stellar end with Clarence "Brick" Mitchell's freshman football squad last season, will be a varsity candidate this year. This is the opinion expressed today by Dr. W. G. Donald of the university infirmary following his examination of a broken leg sustained by Bell in the annual freshman-sophomore brawl of last Saturday. Donald advises that Bell will be on crutches for at least six weeks and after his period on crutches will perhaps still be incapacitated for immediate grid service. Bell was injured in the most torrid event of the brawl, the men's tie-up. Bell's sophomore aides won the brawl, but inflicted a costly toll upon Coach Clarence "Nibs" Price's varsity.

ENGLISH TENNIS FANS THINK KARL KOZULUH IS GREATEST PLAYER, RICHARDS DECLARES

BY VINCENT RICHARDS
American Professional Tennis Champion

Special dispatch to The Times and North American Newspaper Alliance
(Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

LONDON, Aug. 27. — The open tennis championship which was to have started in London the first week of September, has been put off until the middle of October.

VINCENT RICHARDS

Just why this was done by the members of the Professional Lawn tennis Association in England remains somewhat of a mystery. Most of the European professionals were in a position to play at the time first set.

Doubtless the reason for the sudden change was a good one, although naturally I am disappointed. I had looked forward with keen anticipation to playing in this event.

Having heard so much about the wonderful playing of Karl Kozuluh, who coached the English Davis Cup team, it would be a pleasure to see him in action over here.

Incidentally, the English officials and tennis fans are firmly convinced that 'Kozuluh is the greatest tennis player in the world. During the two months he was with the Davis Cup team here he didn't lose a single set, and he very seldom lost more than one or two games in a match.

This is really a remarkable record when one stops to consider that during an afternoon Kozuluh would take on seven or eight players, one after the other. Many of the expert critics here tell me Kozuluh is a combination of La Coste and Cochet, with faster strokes than either of the famous Frenchmen. If this is true, he surely must be a marvelous player.

I had the pleasure of playing Roman Njuch, the German, during a recent visit to Paris, and although he plays a wonderful game I am told that he is not in the same class as Kozuluh.

There is a good deal of talk here of holding an open tennis tournament next year, and inviting thirty-two of the best players in the world. Such a tournament would attract a good deal of attention and would be a great test of skill for the man who won it.

Just imagine a draw with names like Tilden, La Coste, Cochet, Borotra, Brugnon, Kozuluh, Njuch, Burke, Kinsey, Snodgrass, Patterson, Hawkes, Crawford, Morpurgo and Austin.

An event of this kind would have to be run along the same lines as an open golf championship. If it was won by an amateur player he would receive the customary silver cup. If a professional player won he would receive whatever prize money that was offered.

There is no doubt this event will take place in the not-too-distant future. All signs point to it, especially now that it is so difficult to define the line between an amateur and a professional.

FRENCH VISIT IS CONFIRMED

Frenchmen announced their intention of including Los Angeles on their lengthy American itinerary, but withheld final confirmation until yesterday.

Herd's wire also contained the names of Wilmer Allison of Texas, John Van Ryn, Princeton, and Junior Coen, 16-year-old Davis Cup star, who will play here. Coen lost to Boussus at Wimbledon last month and cherishing the fond belief that he can reverse the decision, is entering the local tournament for the express purpose of a return match.

BEAR CREW TO BE HONORED THURSDAY

BERKELEY, Aug. 27. (Exclusive) With last Saturday night's theater benefit performance today announced as a complete success from a financial standpoint, plans for the gigantic welcome of the University of California's world championship rowing crew jumped ahead with tremendous leaps. A three-hour midnight performance was sponsored Saturday by the city of Berkeley and the Chamber of Commerce.

President William Wallace Campbell of the university has proclaimed Thursday afternoon as an academic holiday in order that students may stand along the sidelines and cheer the oarsmen in their triumphal procession through the city. A rally has been planned in behalf of the oarsmen in the Greek Theater, to which point the procession will directly proceed.

U.C.L.A.'s football coaching staff will remain intact and without change during the coming season—the Bruins' first in Pacific Coast Conference football ranks—it was announced today on the Vermont-avenue campus.

Stars and believes that they will keep up their great work and capture the second half of the Coast League race.

"The boys just seemed to play marvelous ball all during the trip," said Vitt yesterday, "and we not only got good pitching but all of the athletes were coming up with hits in the pinches when we'd least expect them. Of course some of the other clubs say that we were getting the breaks, but it's my contention and always has been that a club that hustles makes its own breaks. And, brothers, the Stars are hustling and will continue to do so as long as I have anything to say about it.

"Yes, the addition of Elmer Smith and Johnny Couch certainly helped our club. Smith is cavorting around that pasture like a two-year-old and I think he gives the Stars the punch that they've needed all season in that clean-up spot. Couch pitched a good game against the Bells and was going all right against Sacramento until he had to run out a home run inside the park. That took some of the steam out of Johnny, who is no youngster. But Couch will win for us.

"Mickey Heath also is playing his best ball of the season. He hit one in Sacramento that 'll bet would have cleared the score board at Wrigley Field by fifty feet.

"And this young fellow Ostenberg. Say, he's driving that ball aplenty. I'll bet he hits three home runs in this series against Portland.

"Don't forget Hank Hulvey, either. Hank had an awful time getting started this year and once in the spring he came to me and wondered if I had any idea what was jinxing him. But Hulvey's going now. He pitched two wonderful games against the Missions and turned in another at Sacramento.

"I've got some more good news for Hollywood fans, too. It's about Tony Boroja, who is rapidly recovering from that fractured skull he received when he crashed into the brick wall. I put Tony in to bat against Vinci yesterday and he rapped one right by Louie's head a mile a minute. Boroja certainly got over the rap without coming out bat shy."

Vitt intends to send Frank Shellenback, his slugging spitball ace, to the mound against Portland in the series opener today. Curt Fullerton, who was traded to the Beavers for Smith and Couch, will probably pitch for the Beavers and get a chance to show up his former mates, which looms as a tough job the way the sheiks are going.

Marty Krug's Angels face Sacramento for nine games and Vitt will appreciate anything they can do to hinder Buddy Ryan's athletes in the pennant race.

The Seraphs left last night and Walter Berger was not taken along. Berger has lost twenty-five pounds from his siege of the flu and Krug decided that a rest would be just the thing for his prize outfielder. Gus Sandberg was also left at home, Warren and Hannah drawing thecatching burden in the Sacramento series.

Nick Williams's San Francisco Seals, the club Vitt figures he has to beat in this half, meet Oakland in nine games at Emeryville. The Seals barely took the odd game from Portland last week and lost ground to the Sheiks. If the Oaks can trim the Seals a few times this week the Stars have a chance to pick up some more in the standings.

Seattle and the Missions tangle at San Francisco in the fourth series that opens today.

Leon Keller and Ray Palmer of Rancho, leave today for the State golf championships at Del Monte. They are both formidable players and should go a long way toward the finals.

FOX HILLS TEAM AT EL CABALLERO TOMORROW

Fox Hills golfers invade the El Caballero Country Club tomorrow in the regular weekly team matches. The dope points to a close match, with the hosts favored to win.

J. A. BERG LEADS "TIMES" GOLFERS

Gibson Quits His Quitting

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP)—Billy Gibson, retired manager of the retired heavyweight champion, Gene Tunney, returned to the "fight racket" today, ending one of the shortest retirements on record. In the future Gibson will manage Knute Hansen, Tex Rickard announced at Madison Square Garden. Rickard said that Gibson, who quit the fight game when Tunney announced his retirement, paid $11,250 for Hansen's contract. Gibson, whose contract with the conqueror of Phil Scott will run for three years, found himself immediately in the center of a managerial controversy. Walter Friedman, a New York attorney, is recognized by the New York State Athletic Commission as Hansen's manager.

WALKER STOPS EMANUEL IN GO

mendous surprise to the assembled thousands as most of the experts figured Emanuel would stab Walker into submission with his fast left hand and more clever boxing. Armand had every physical advantage and besides outweighing his rival, was faster on his feet and superior in reach and height.

Before the battle, Emanuel showed that he was under a nervous strain and the first four rounds bore out the advance notice.

Walker settled down to business with the opening gong, and disregarding the stinging left hand, waded in continually. The middleweight titleholder rushed in swinging steadily to land enough hard punches to take the first session.

Walker's vicious offensive upset the young San Franciscan again in the second round. He was on the defensive most of the time and what flurries he made were shaken off by the rugged Mickey.

The titleholder kept up his savage attack in the third and fourth rounds, wasting many punches, but making those he landed, count. Armand sprinkled most of the punches, but they were more than offset by Walker's jolting lefts to the body.

EMANUEL RALLIES

In the fifth and sixth frames Emanuel, sensing that he was on the short end, rallied strongly, and came through with a aggressive attack that brought him a slight margin. He displayed good boxing skill and used his right hand frequently. As the seventh round opened, the experts began predicting a draw.

For the early part of the frame Emanuel was out in front and going strong. They were battling at close quarters when Walker drove over a right that traveled less than a foot. Emanuel tottered backward half-way across the ring and fell on his back. He was up after nine had been counted.

Almost out on his feet the San Francisco youth clinched and then rallied fiercely in an effort to overcome the knockdown. He pummeled Walker with both hands while the crowd yelled. During the mix-up, as Emanuel rushed in, Mickey shot over another right to the jaw and his opponent dropped flat on his back. It was a terrific wallop and Armand's head bounced up from the canvas.

It was enough for the crowd who were out of their seats as the referee counted Emanuel out. He was dazed for several seconds after.

MAY MEET LOUGHRAN

Immediately after the bout, Jack Kearns, manager, announced that Walker would meet Tommy Loughran for the light-heavyweight title. The fight, he said, would be held either in Chicago or Los Angeles. He said he had been negotiating for such a match for some time.

Walker, bearing no trace of the battle, grinned and said, "Who's next?"

Emanuel was still shaky in his dressing-room, but said, "I did my best. That fellow Walker certainly hits hard."

FIGHT BY ROUNDS

ROUND ONE

Walker, with his square jaw thrust out, rushed from his corner and connected with a left to Emanuel's body. They fiddled around the ring. Emanuel stabbed the middleweight champion with several lefts to the face. Walker feinted to the face and drove a sharp left to the body. They met in a brisk exchange and the crowd cheered as Walker drove over a left to the face and then to the body. Emanuel used his right hand a couple of times near the end of the round, but landed only lightly. Walker landed a stinging left that nearly upset Emanuel after the bell rang.

ROUND TWO

ROUND THREE

ROUND FOUR

ROUND FIVE

The two sparred around the ring waiting for an opening. Walker brought a cheer from the crowd when he stung Emanuel with a right to the jaw. In a clinch Walker beat his rival in the body but took lefts to the face when they broke. Emanuel peppered Walker with lefts at long range and forced the champion back with a closing flurry of right hands. Walker landed a few stray punches to the face as the round ended.

ROUND SIX

They rushed into a clinch and wrestled, both trying to punch to the body. After an exchange of lefts to the face, Walker rushed Emanuel and scored to the body. A heavy exchange saw both land hard rights and lefts. Emanuel crossed with a right to the jaw and Walker drove over two lefts to the body at the end of the round.

ROUND SEVEN

Emanuel opened with a half-dozen light lefts but took three hard jolts to the body in return. They exchanged right hands and clinched. Walker floored Emanuel with a terrific right to the jaw that kept the San Francisco boy on the canvas for a count of nine. He was groggy when he came up, but fought back strong. Walker drove Emanuel into a corner and shot over another short right to the jaw that dropped Emanuel like a plummet. His head bounced on the canvas and he was counted out.

SLUG TOLSON BOOSTS BATTING AVERAGE TEN POINTS, STARS ALSO INCREASE PERCENTAGE

Charles "Slug" Tolson added another ten points to his batting average last week, bringing his season's mark up to .360. The heavy-hitting Los Angeles first-baseman batted more than 500 against the Seattle pitchers. Tolson is now listed third in batting among all players of the Coast League who have taken part in more than 100 games.

SENATOR TOLSON

Smead Jolley failed to add to his home-run total during the past series, but retains the .402 batting mark which he held one week ago.

Ernest Lombardi, the boy catcher with the Oakland club, has a batting mark of .376 in eighty-five games. Irvin Hufft and Edwin Tomlin are tied for fifth-place honors in batting with .357 averages.

"Babe" Twombly, a most consistent .300 hitter all season, continues to lead the Hollywood players in batting with a mark of .327.

Johnny Kerr not only is playing his usual dashing game at second base, but has brought his season's batting mark up to .303. Johnny has registered 122 safe drives to date and is listed fifth among all players of the league as a manufacturer of safe hits. He tops the league in stolen bases with twenty-five and also in sacrifice hits with forty-eight.

Earl Averill continued his terrific hitting last week. He has hit safely in twenty successive games and now holds a .356 batting mark.

August Suhr has hit fifty-two two-baggers to lead in this department. Tony Governor has made fifteen triples.

The entire Hollywood team has been hitting the ball hard, of late and the club now has the splendid batting mark of .268. The Portland team, which plays the Stars at Wrigley Field this week, is batting .285.

Following are the statistician's figures, which include all games played up today:

I HAVE great faith in the rising generation. We used to train our children in the habit of being agreeable—of doing what people wanted them to do. And yet we all know that the most important quality anybody can have is the ability to say "No" and mean it.

More of us have gotten into trouble through habitual desire to be agreeable and not disappoint those who are trying to lead us astray than in any other way.

And Lord knows our present-day kids know how to say "No," to their parents, at least.

If they can say "No" to temptation and weakness half as firmly as they can to those who provide for them and work for them and do their best to give them a good start they'll be a race of supermen and women.

Yea, Palomine, the independence of the rising generation isn't a bad thing but a mighty fine thing, if they'll only turn it in the right direction.

CHURCH HOPES MEXICAN PACT

Obregon's Death Held Only as Cause of Delay

Prelate Leaves Retreat to Define Conditions

Bishop Denies Clergy Assist in Rebellion

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27. (AP)—The assassination of President-elect Obregon of Mexico has only delayed, not defeated, efforts to settle the religious controversy, Mgr. Miguel Maria De la Mora, bishop of San Luis Potosi and spokesman of the Catholic bishops living in hiding in Mexico, told a group of American newspaper correspondents today.

Mgr. De la Mora, himself in hiding, emerged from his concealment long enough to meet by arrangement the foreign correspondents at a rendezvous near Mexico City. He revealed he is one of two Catholic archbishops and eleven bishops who have sought concealment in the country.

DENIES COMPLICITY

First of all, Bishop De la Mora denied emphatically that Catholic prelates or priests had anything to do with either the assassination of Gen. Obregon or of any military movement against the government.

"If occasionally some priest has participated in the military movement," he said, "he has done so entirely on his own private initiative. I must confess that a few priests, but not more than twelve, have so done. Of these the majority went with the rebels as chaplains and did not carry arms. No archbishop, no bishop and no priest with the sanction of the church has sustained the rebel movement in any form."

NO HALF-LOAF

The Catholic prelate, while pointing out that any settlement of the religious dispute in Mexico must bear the full sanction of the Pope at Rome, declared his belief, which he said is also the belief of Mexican Catholics, that "no temporizing agreement will be satisfactory." He declared a mere agreement on the part of the Mexican government not to enforce the religious laws would not settle the religious question, which can only be solved by the amendment of the constitution and its enforcing acts "so as to establish religious liberty as a fundamental principle of the Mexican government."

All that Mexican Catholics demand, he said, is "the same religious liberty that exists in the United States."

EXILE DIFFICULT

The life of a proscribed clergyman in Mexico is not an easy one, the bishop told the correspondents. "Sometimes we go out the back door while agents seeking us come in the front," he said smiling. He continued:

"Some of us have at times lived in five houses in three days. I, myself, have lived in at least six different houses in the last two years.

"There are 4000 Mexican Catholic priests in Mexico. Perhaps 40 per cent are still in the republic. You understand that it is most difficult for me to give precise information because we have no communication system.

PRIESTS KILLED

"Between fifty and 100 Catholic priests have been killed during the last two years. The total is probably nearer 100 than fifty. None had a trial, and all were executed summarily. Since May of this year, one priest has been executed in San Luis Potosi, three in Jalisco, two in Queretaro and one in Guanajuato.

"These priests were taken from their hiding places in different villages and shot without trial."

Mgr. De la Mora denied that Archbishop Orozco y Jimines of Jalisco had participated in an armed revolution as has been charged by the government.

"He is in hiding in the mountains of Jalisco, but has never been under arms," he said.

POLITICS BANNED

The bishop declared instructions by the Pope were forwarded to the episcopate and priests of Mexico two years ago which forbade them absolutely to mix in politics.

"We have obeyed," he said, "and are still obeying those instructions. In many parts of Mexico the priests administer sacraments in mountain caves, isolated cabins and other remote hiding places. In some cases priests hidden in towns go to the mountains at 11 at night to meet their people there and to administer the rites of the church until 4 o'clock in the morning. Then the crowd disperses and the priests slip back to their hiding places for a few hours of sleep. Some of the Mexican States are without a single priest."

Bishop De la Mora reiterated his belief that Mother Concepcion Acebeda De la Llata, nun, who is under arrest charged with complicity in the assassination of Gen. Obregon, is "hysterical" and that "her brain is not normal." He said that there had been cases of mental derangement in her family but added that he did not consider her "crazy" or that there is "real insanity" in her family. Mother Concepcion, in a recent interview with newspapers, repudiated the bishop's analysis of her mental condition.

OBREGON NET WIDENS

Six Men Hunted in New York on Federal Warrants in Slaying of Mexican President-Elect

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP)—The latest scene in a turbulent Mexican drama of assassination was enacted today in this city far from the Rio Grande. Federal warrants were issued here today for six men charged with complicity in the slaying of President-elect Obregon of the southern republic, a crime for which a student and a nun already are held under arrest in Mexico. The men sought, on the request of the Mexican Ambassador, were listed as Manuel Trejo Morales, Joaquin Navarro Becerra, Osvaldo Robles Ochoa, Jose A. Jimenez, Enrique N. Zepeda and Ancieto Ortega.

Obregon, who soon was to have mounted his country's highest governmental seat, was shot July 17, last, as he was attending a luncheon in San Angel, a suburb of Mexico City.

With the pistol still in his hand Jose De Leon Toral, a youthful student who had been drawing a cartoon of Obregon at the luncheon, was arrested and admitted his guilt. Suspicion turned almost at once to Mother Superior Concepcion Acevedo de la Llata, and Morales, whose name heads the list now sought in New York, also is hunted on information that it was he who supplied Toral with his gun. Mother Concepcion was arrested and is now awaiting trial, but Morales escaped.

MEXICANS ALL YOUNG

The six young men whom Federal agents are searching here (their ages range from 21 to 35 years, Morales being the youngest) are charged with murder in connection with the assassination of Obregon and also with complicity in dynamiting outrages perpetrated in the Chamber of Deputies and the building of the Obregonist Central Director.

Under a treaty entered into between this country and Mexico at the end of the last century, both murder and attempted destruction of public buildings are extraditable offenses.

The petition for the arrest of the alleged assassins was forwarded from the Mexican Ambassador to the State Department at Washington and so through the Attorney-General's office to U. S. Atty. Tuttle here. The matter was handled in such dispatch that the warrants had been issued and agents had been assigned to make arrests before the Mexican Consulate here knew that the men were even believed to be hiding in New York.

WARRANTS TO BE SENT

In the petition the Mexican Ambassador assured the State Department that full copies of the Mexican warrants will be sent to New York, together with full details of the basis for charging the men with murder.

After Toral and the nun Concepcion were taken into custody numerous other arrests were made, but no others were held on charges of any major connection with the crime. Toral at first took full responsibility for the killing on himself, but under continued questioning asserted that he had been indirectly influenced by the nun. She denied making any statements to the youth which might have led him to commit the crime.

Toral has been given a preliminary hearing in the Court of First Instance at San Angel and has been held for formal trial. The nun has still to be given preliminary hearing.

CRABTREE WILL GIVEN PROBATE

Last of Numerous Contests Disallowed

Massachusetts Court Ends Long Litigation

Large Portion of Estate Goes to Charity

BOSTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—The much-contested will of the late Lotta Crabtree, famous actress, disposing of her estate of more than $3,000,000, was allowed today by Judge Prest of the Suffolk probate court after he had dismissed the claim of the last of the would-be contestants.

Lotta Crabtree died in September, 1924, and her will was filed a few days later. Under its provisions much of the estate was left to charity, including $2,000,000 for a trust fund for disabled soldiers, sailors and women who served in the World War. It also contained bequests to several cousins.

Immediately several persons, claiming relationship, announced their intentions of contesting the will and since then it has been tied up by legal proceedings. Altogether eighty-seven persons claiming to be "next of kin" appeared to present claims against the estate.

The final claim disposed of today by Judge Prest was that of Mrs. Annie S. Pretwell of San Francisco, a first cousin, who filed a petition for permission to enter her appearance for the purpose of contesting the will. Judge Prest denied the petition. His action permits distribution of the estate unless an appeal is taken by the contestants.

Among the principal contestants were Miss Ida Blankenburg of Tulsa, Okla., who claimed to be a daughter of Lotta Crabtree and Carlotta Cockburn of Los Angeles, who claimed to be a niece.

Ghost Singer of Graveyard Warbles Last

SCRANTON (Pa.) Aug. 27. (AP)—The mystery of the "ghost singer" of St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery in South Scranton has been solved and there will be no singing tonight. Residents had told the police that for the last several nights about midnight the "ghost singer" with rich tenor voice had risen among the tombstones and sung "Old Pal, Why Don't You Answer Me?" and "Mother o' Mine."

News of the appearance of the graveyard singer spread, and last night police estimated that more than 9000 persons gathered around the cemetery, but the singer did not appear.

Later a young man describing himself as Joseph Stamper told the authorities that he was the "ghost." He said he had been singing nightly for friends in a field just outside the cemetery and expressed regret that he had alarmed persons in the neighborhood.

Fogg, 34 years of age, has confessed that he murdered his wife Carrie, 21, mother of their two small children, the elder of which is 2 years and the younger but 11 months of age. Fogg had reported the death of his wife in their home Friday night as a case of suicide when he appeared at an undertaking establishment to arrange her funeral.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—"perfect radio" is promised at least seventy of the ninety broadcast channels under a plan of allocation that is now undergoing the scrutiny of experts. The plan, the latest evolved by the Radio Commission and its staff of engineers and advisers in an effort to revise the broadcasting structure in accordance with the mandate of Congress.

There is every indication that the commission's proposal, or a slight modification of it, will be adopted before the arrival of the autumnal season and the usual improvement in radio conditions that comes with cooler weather. The radio commission is bending every effort to have the reallocation ready in time to avoid the inevitable dissatisfaction that will prevail among radio fans if the whistles and howls of interference are not removed for the season of best radio.

FAILURE TO BE CLEARED

Under the details of the proposed allocation, which are being guarded carefully, it is learned that it proposes to clear thirty-five channels of all high-powered stations and to assign an average of two and one-half stations on each of thirty-five channels, the wave lengths. Geographical separation of at least 1500 miles between the latter stations will prevent the possibility of interference between them.

In other words, each of the five districts will get seven superpower stations for distance broadcasting. Less than 100 stations of 5000 watts and upwards can be accommodated on the other interference-free channels. There may be "double-header" on these channels by reason of differences between the two time-sharing may add to the number of stations that can be put on these channels.

TIME SPLIT PLANNED

In addition many other stations will be added on them for daytime operation only because of the fact that the interference ranges are cut during daylight hours. Many other channels will remain for stations under 500 watts, whose programs will amply cover their service ranges, but whose power necessarily will cause interference elsewhere.

The plan is a compromise, and most of the others that have been offered is bound to cause hardship among broadcasters. The listening public, however, will be capable of being able to romp about the dials with more chances for better program selection. The change inevitably will require fans to listen on new places on the dials.

PROTESTS WELCOMED

Reports of the commission's action in this and other matters were discussed, according to L. G. Caldwell, chief counsel for the commission. It is confidently anticipated that many stations will object to changing their wave lengths or reducing their powers. In fact, Caldwell stated today, Mr. Caldwell said, one of the adverse decisions rendered by the commission was that of stations recently cited at hearings may soon undergo a change.

Caldwell takes issue with statements attributed to Judge Ira E. Davis, former solicitor for the Department of Justice and author of the first and only volume on the subject of radio, who is said to have inferred that the commission is trying to avoid legal action in Radio Act.

The commission's counsel asserts that the radio board is "ready and willing for a complete test and interpretation of the law" and is "prepared to meet any litigation." In defense of the commission, Caldwell points out that it is showing its ability in eliminating many annoying stations and reducing the power of others.

STATION RULINGS MADE

Today the commission announced the grant of a new license to one station, KFQA, owned by the Tulsa Academy, St. Louis, Mo. which is said to have failed to put the transmitter to use, employing the facilities in the city to broadcast programs.

Orders of ten other stations requiring to appear before the commission are ordered renewed on the ground that they have sufficiently proved their public service value. The stations are WPCH, Hoboken, N. J.; WOV-WGL, Secaucus, N. J.; WHPP, Englewood Cliffs, N. J.; KICK, Philadelphia; WFBG, Altoona, Pa.; WLOE, Chelsea, Mass.; WGBW, Norfolk, Va.; KICK, Davenport, Iowa; KDLR, Devils Lake N. D.; WEWKC, Kansas City, Mo.

COOLIDGE SHOT RAISES ECHO

Killing of Crane Mooted As Violation of Migratory-Bird Treaty

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—The capital is wondering whether in shooting a crane in Wisconsin the other day and demonstrating unexpected ability as a marksman President Coolidge did not violate a treaty which he himself approved, a treaty with Great Britain putting a closed season on migratory birds for two years.

It was pointed out, however, that the Secretary of Agriculture is empowered to allow the killing of migratory birds destroying fish and some sort of blanket order may have been issued to cover the killing of the birds in that territory.

It was reported the bird was in the act of spearing a fish when Mr. Coolidge fired.

FAYOLLE, WAR LEADER, DIES

Americans Served Under Marshal of France

Mild in Manner, Commander Looked Like Cardinal

General Highly Praised Soldiers of A.E.F.

PARIS, Aug. 27. (AP)—Marie Emile Fayolle, Marshal of France and one of the great French soldiers that the World War produced, died this morning.

MARSHAL FAYOLLE

The marshal's wife, daughter and orderly were at his bedside when death came after a long illness that had kept him confined to his apartment. There he was surrounded by war souvenirs, including presents from the governments of the Allied powers and a great number of foreign decorations.

MILD IN MANNER

Soft-spoken, of mild demeanor, Marshal Fayolle looked anything but what has been generally accepted as the "military type." In civilian clothes he was often mistaken for a professor.

Tall, thin nearly to gauntness, this soldier had rather a clerical appearance and his resemblance to the late Cardinal Mercier of Belgium, both physically and in manner, often was remarked upon.

He commanded the group of armies, including two American divisions, which, between Soissons and Chateau Thierry, on July 18, 1918, struck the powerful blow that started the military power of the German empire rocking. But this esthetic-looking man loved the good things of life. An expert gourmet, he liked to wash down with the best vintages of Burgundy or Bourdeaux wines, the renowned dishes of his country's cuisine.

AMERICAN COOKS FAILED

A great admirer of America and Americans, when he returned from an extended visit to the United States in 1921, he brought back with him only one grievance.

"Your countrymen cannot cook," he said. "They have me on the verge of dyspepsia. Their cuisine is too heavy."

Then he added with a merry twinkle in his eye:

"I don't suppose even French cuisine would taste good with ice water."

He was the greatest booster that American soldiers ever had among the military men in France.

"They are the finest men physically that I have ever seen, brave and of courage which had to be restrained instead of fanned," he said.

WRITING PREFERRED

Marshal Fayolle was born at Puy, in the Department of the Haute Loire, May 14, 1852.

His parents chose for him a military career, in which he entered at first without enthusiasm. He would have preferred to become a writer.

A first lieutenant in 1877, he was a captain at 30 years of age, rather a rare occurrence in the French army. Fayolle was needed as a teacher in the "Ecole Superieure de la Guerra" (Superior School of War,) and thus in order that his rank might impress his youthful scholars, was created a lieutenant-colonel in 1901.

Fayolle was made a colonel in 1907 and a brigadier-general in 1910, in command of the Twelfth Army Corps, then stationed at Clermond Ferrand.

When the World War broke out, the only active service in the field that Brig.-Gen. Fayolle had seen was a short six months' campaign against rebels in Tunisia from April to November, 1881, as a first lieutenant.

Promoted to a general of division —then the highest rank in the French army—in 1915, Fayolle successively commanded the Thirty-third Army Corps, the Fourth and First Army during 1915 and 1916. On the first of May, 1917, he took command of the Group of Armies of the Center, facing the armies of the German Crown Prince.

Sent to Italy in command of the French troops after Caporetto, he restored the morale of France's allies and only returned to France in the spring of 1918, when he was placed in charge of the group of armies being assembled to assume the counter-offensive in July. The rest is history. He was in command of the troops which entered Metz, Trier and Mayence after the Armistice.

Order of Rail Board Prepares for New Bridge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the Southern Pacific Company to construct and operate a railroad line extending six miles from a point on their line at Martinez, Cal., to Goodyear Station, Cal., and also to abandon operation of a car ferry between Port Costa and Benicia, Cal. A bridge is planned across Suisun Bay to Army Point which will replace the car ferry, and which is to be transversed by the proposed new line.

The estimated cost of the new construction is $11,548,500. Construction is expected to begin as soon as financial arrangements are completed, and the War Department has approved plans for the bridge, with a likelihood of completion before June 1, 1931.

British Unions Lose Heavily in Seven Years

[Copyright, 1928, by the Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, Aug. 27.—British trade unions are declining. Their membership shows a fall of nearly 3,000,000 in seven years, according to the report of the general council of the Trade Union Congress to be presented at the annual conference next month.

In 1920 the total membership stood at 6,961,750, while in 1927 it was 4,163,994. This year it is around 4,000,000.

Official reasons for the decline include the cycle of trade depression combined with the disastrous effect of strikes. A strenuous drive for increased membership is under way.

Amended Scripps Suit Dismissed

CINCINNATI, Aug. 27. (AP)—An amended bill of complaint in the suit for an accounting of the estate of Edward W. Scripps, newspaper publisher, filed by Josephine S. Scripps of Miramar, Cal., was dismissed in Federal Court here today.

The suit involved approximately $10,000,000 which, it was contended, was due Mrs. Scripps under an asserted agreement between her husband, the late James G. Scripps, and his father, Edward Scripps, whereby he was to receive 50 per cent of the increment value of the assets of the Scripps newspapers for services rendered the Scripps organization.

Today the Mayor charged Coffin with reckless driving and after hearing the testimony of two street laborers, Judge Jones fined Coffin $50 and then suspended the sentence for two years.

Councilman Routs Foe in Gun Battle

AKRON (O.) Aug. 27. (AP)—An intensive round-up of all known members of Akron's underworld was under way today because of the second attempt in three days on the life of Kyle Ross, vice-crusading Councilman, who engaged in a gun duel with gangsters after his home had been set afire last night.

Ross, recently appointed by the City Council to investigate crime conditions, was fired on as he stood in the kitchen door of his home after being awakened by his wife, who had heard an intruder coming up the basement stairs. The bullet shattered one of the door panels.

BLOODLESS BATTLE

The Councilman switched on flood lights installed in his back yard when his life was first threatened, ran outside and exchanged shots with his assailant. A neighbor, Ed Hardesty, awakened by the firing, seized a gun and shot from his bedroom window at a second man who had appeared near the Ross home. Both attackers then fled. None of the bullets took effect.

In the meantime, the basement of the Ross home had become a mass of flames. Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze and found that all of the cellar walls had been sprayed with gasoline. A large pile of papers, wood and coal also had been heaped up in the coal room and set afire.

EARLIER ATTEMPT

Police revealed yesterday that on Friday night an attempt was made to blow up Ross's home. The incident had been kept secret that a speedier investigation might be made. Officers said his home had been filled with natural gas and the electric current switched off, evidently in the idea that the Councilman, finding his home dark, would light matches. The plot failed, however, when a friend accompanying Ross home grabbed his arm just as he was about to light a match and called his attention to the odor of the gas.

Detectives have had the house under surveillance since then.

Friends of Ross said they believed the attempts on his life resulted from the information obtained by the Councilman in his investigation. Ross has charged that gambling, racketeering, graft and bootlegging are rampant here.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—Girls who aspire to capture a husband will do better to lay off the thinning salads and go in heavily for potatoes and other foods calculated to build up plump tissue. Observation of many candidates at the marriage license window in the bureau here bears out this statement. Of the 100 or more marriage licenses issued here up to noon today only two were passed out to girls weighing under 125 pounds and the two exceptions were small girls. There were no "wisps" or "slips" among the girls, nor were they stout or fat. They were just upholstered enough to "live comfortably," as one of the clerks put it.

"I suppose your fiancee is a very stylish girl, weighing about ninety-eight pounds," remarked the chief clerk to a handsome young man who had applied for a license.

"Not exactly," was the response. "She is always in the height of fashion, but she weighs about 180. I like to dance with slim, willowy girls, but for a life partner I do not want one who appears starved to death. I have a feeling that the thin girl would not stick with a husband like the heftier one, if things went badly."

COTTON CONCERN GETS STOCK ISSUE PERMIT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27. (AP) The Los Angeles Compress and Warehouse Company today was granted permission by the State Railroad Commission to issue $300,000 worth of capital stock to finance additional facilities for storing cotton.

MRS. STILLMAN'S PLANE IN DERBY

Nonstop Flight Attempt to be Next Month

Goebel's Ship Will be One of Its Competitors

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP)—Mrs. Anne U. Stillman's Bellanca monoplane North Star, which she bought originally for a projected New York-Berlin flight by Thea Rasche, was entered here today for the nonstop division of the New York-Los Angeles air derby, scheduled to start from Roosevelt Field September 12.

Oliver C. Lebillier, who flew Miss Mabel Boll to Newfoundland and back on the false start in Charles A. Levine's Bellanca monoplane Columbia, and George B. King, Alaskan aviator, will pilot the North Star. They are enrolled officially at the Aviation Service Corporation and their entry was accepted by Stephen D. Day, chairman of the New York starting committee, for the derby.

Another plane entered in the nonstop class is the Wasp-motored Lockheed-Vega monoplane in which Art Goebel and Harry Tucker recently flew here from Los Angeles in nineteen hours.

AERIAL AMBULANCES TO BE PROVIDED AT RACES

Shrieking sirens on aerial ambulances and traffic police airplanes will demand the right of way of the skies in probably the most elaborate scheme of safety provision ever made for an aviation meet at the National Air Races here, opening September 8.

To make the meet safe for both aviators and spectators, every pilot entered must be a qualified flyer, holding a license from the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, and from the Department of Commerce at Washington, as well as an annual sporting license issued by the National Aeronautic Association. Every plane entered must pass inspection of the contest committee members and must be an approved type. No experimental planes are to be permitted to leave the ground.

Through Waldo Waterman, chairman of the technical branch of the contest board, arrangements have been made for two planes to be equipped as air ambulances to rush the injured to a near-by hospital in the event of a serious accident.

Probabilities are that the Culver City Community Hospital will be selected as the emergency institution and the Baker Airport will be the landing field from which injured persons will be rushed by automobile from the air ambulance.

But Raskob Lists About All Other States as Safe for Democracy in Fall

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27. (AP)—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, predicted upon his arrival here late today with a group of eastern Democratic leaders that Gov. Smith would receive 309 of the 531 electoral votes for President.

Naming the States which he thought Smith would carry, Raskob's formal statements, prepared en route to the notification exercises for Senator Robinson at Hot Springs, Ark., claimed also for Smith an even chance to carry other States having a total of fifty-seven electors.

Raskob, who will confer here with Democratic leaders of eight Middle Western States before proceeding to Hot Springs Wednesday night, claimed for Gov. Smith the "Solid South" and Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma, New York, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Arizona, Colorado, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Missouri, New Mexico and Nevada.

There seemed little doubt, Raskob said, that Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming should be classified for Smith.

SPEAKER SOUGHT AS BLASPHEMER

Old Massachusetts Law Invoked in Case of Sacco-Vanzetti Memorial Orator

BOSTON, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—Dr. Horace Meyer Kallen is being sought by the Boston police on warrants charging him with blasphemy. The charge is brought as a result of the address given by Dr. Kallen last Thursday night during the Sacco-Vanzetti memorial meeting.

The police quote Dr. Kallen as saying that "if Sacco and Vanzetti were anarchists so were Jesus Christ, Socrates and several others."

The charge which Dr. Kallen's arrest is sought is based on an ancient law of Massachusetts, never repealed, which in 1640 carried the penalty of death. The penalty has long since been modified.

RUMORS OF RAIL MERGER DISCOUNTED

Missouri Pacific Chief Points Flaw in Scheme; New Line-up Suggested

Of the reported merger of western railroads, Mr. Baldwin said:

"I suppose the Missouri Pacific ought to feel slighted because its name was omitted from the reported merger of big western railroads, but it doesn't. Whoever originated the report forgot that the Missouri Pacific owns 50 per cent of the Denver and Rio Grande, which is the Western Pacific's outlet to the East from Salt Lake City and which would be vital to the merger.

"However, this can happen: Through building of the Dotsero cutoff in Colorado and a hook-up with the Burlington at Denver, the Western Pacific can shorten the distance between San Francisco and Chicago by about 173 miles. The Denver and Salt Lake Railroad has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to build that cutoff and it is logical to presume that Western Pacific trains leaving Denver and Rio Grande rails will use it to Denver. There the Burlington gives shorter lines to Chicago."

MAN RUNS AMUCK AND KILLS THREE

Two Others Wounded, One Probably Fatally, During Affray at Sacramento

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 27. (AP)—Three men were shot and killed and two others shot and wounded, one probably fatally, here tonight. Two of the dead and both wounded men are declared by police to have been shot by Percy Barnes, railroad employee, who rank amuck. One of the dead men had not been identified late tonight.

The dead: Charles E. Curtis, brother-in-law of Barnes; Charles Kline, another brother-in-law of Barnes; unidentified man about 30 years of age, shot through head.

The wounded: Clarence Muncy, who was said to have been visiting at the home of Barnes's estranged wife, and M. H. Larkin, president of the Larkin Transportation Company, Sacramento.

The body of the unidentified man was thought to be that of Pete Reed, but police had not confirmed this, nor were they prepared to say whether the man was a victim of Barnes.

STOCKTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—Percy Barnes, said by police to be the killer of three persons in Sacramento tonight, during an insane rampage, was captured by police detectives as he was driving into Stockton tonight.

VOLSTEAD GIVES MOVE APPROVAL

Padlocking of Homes Held Covered by Dry Law

Presence of Liquor Classes Them With Saloons

Injunction Proceedings to be Hastened by Court

ST. PAUL, Aug. 27. (AP)—Action started in Minneapolis to padlock homes in which the National Prohibition Act has been violated today drew approval and support of Andrew J. Volstead, author of the Volstead Act and now legal adviser to the Northwest Prohibition Bureau.

Volstead declared the government can padlock a home "just as easily as it can a soft-drink bar."

"The law absolutely makes no distinction between a home and place of business where violations take place," he said. "The fact is, we are empowered to go as far as is necessary to abate a nuisance and a home in which liquor is dispensed is nothing more than a nuisance.

"As soon as liquor is kept or sold there it loses its character as a home and becomes, in effect, a stloon. Even if the violations take place in but one room there is no doubt that we have the right to padlock the whole building."

COURT TO ADVANCE ABATEMENT CASES

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 27. (AP)—Abatement proceedings to padlock homes and apartments used for vending liquor, will be advanced on the Federal Court calendar, it was indicated today by J. H. S. Gifford, assistant United States District Attorney, who seeks to close twenty-six homes in St. Paul and Minneapolis for a period of a year.

Applications for injunctions to close sixteen homes in Minneapolis and ten in St. Paul, where liquor violations have been found, were filed by Mr. Gifford and are part of a docket of sixty-one requests for abatement of various establishments before the Federal Court.

Because of the large number of abatement proceedings pending, Federal judges have agreed to have advance them on the calendar, Gifford said. His stand that abatement proceedings under the prohibition law apply as stringently to dwellings as to places of business, such as soft-drink bars or clubs, was reiterated by Mr. Gifford.

POINT OF VARIANCE

He apparently is at variance with Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant Attorney-General in charge of prohibition prosecutions, although the latter's comment in Washington dealt with the right of search and not specifically with padlocks, he pointed out.

The law does make a distinction between homes and business places as far as obtaining a search warrant is concerned, Mr. Gifford said.

"It is pretty hard to obtain a search warrant for a private residence, unless an affidavit of sale has been obtained, although the evidence of the senses also is basis for an affidavit charging liquor-law violation.

SCOPE OF PROCEDURE

"However, in our procedure in Minneapolis, the entire building, be it home or place of business exclusively, usually has been affected by the padlock provision. I believe there may have been cases where only a part of the house was locked up. These occurred in residences where bars had been set up in one or more rooms, leaving the rest of the house for residential purposes. In cases of this kind, only the barrooms were closed.

"In the majority of proceedings, the padlock has closed the whole house and there have been cases where families have been forced to move."

AMERICANS HOLD OFF IN QUOTA VOTE

They Refuse to Ballot on Immigration Resolution at Session in Berlin

BERLIN, Aug. 27. (AP)—The American delegation of the Interparliamentary Union today refused to vote on a resolution dealing with immigration problems, declaring that the question is an internal problem.

Andrew J. Montague, representative from Virginia, who heads the delegation, told the union that the resolution gave an international flavor to the subject and therefore the Americans must refrain from going on record.

The resolution urged the conclusion of bilateral treaties "calculated to harmonize conflicting viewpoints on immigration and to safeguard the economic and social needs of emigrants."

Merger Plan of Lutherans Gets Approval

COLUMBUS (O.) Aug. 27. (AP)—Consolidation of the membership of all Evangelical Lutheran synods in the United States, comprising about 350,000 members, was approved today by the Evangelical Lutheran joint synod of Ohio and other States in convention here.

The Ohio joint synod will merge with the Iowa and Buffalo synods, which have themselves approved the merger. The merged body will be called the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of America and will control some $10,000,000 in property.

NAILS FOUND PLENTIFUL

LINDSAY, Aug. 27.—There may be a shortage in farm relief in the Middle West, but there is no shortage of unattached nails, according to Joe Lewis, local dairyman, who with Mrs. Lewis, returned from a motor tour of several weeks which took them to the Atlantic coast. Lewis states he had twenty-three flat tires, mostly caused by nails.

...BIRD ALL OVER SHIP

...Byrd was all over ...mander Byrd was all over ...ship. He put his hand on men's ...shoulders and talked with them ...asking questions, recalling something from the days of the North Pole expedition, praising something they had done. Watching him someone spoke of his gift for men, his aptitude for making men like him. The commander touched a man's shoulder. "What about your wife and family?" he said, and they walked away in the darkness, two low voices. The binnacle light shone on the face and figure of the man at the wheel; the rest of the poop was dusk. From the deckhouse came the compass call and the two voices answered, "Mark. Mark." "Steady," said the pilot's voice, "Steady, ho," from the man at the wheel.

There was a stir in the fo'castle. "Commander Byrd wants to see all hands aft." They clambered up and went along the darkened deck. The commander stood a little above them near the wheel; but the binnacle light was not on him; they were all in shadow together. And he spoke slowly in his clear, Virginia voice, without formality. Long low lines of distant golden fire were Coney Island and Far Rockaway.

FAMILIES PROVIDED FOR

"All of you have wives and mothers dependent on you," began the commander. "Mrs. Byrd has their addresses and will keep in touch with them. If there is sickness or trouble she will know about it; if anyone has to go to the hospital, a good friend of mine has arranged to have them taken care of. You can depend on it they will want for nothing."

It was as still on that deck as it could be with little sounds of water lapping under the hull and the low beat of the engine. The men were utterly still. Then darkness hid their faces as it hid the writing on the lifeboat, "Don't forget me, your wife and child."

"That's one thing," said the commander. "The most important thing on this ship is good fellowship, more important than efficiency, though efficiency is important enough. I believe in every one of you."

An uneasy swell lifted the stout old ship. From the deckhouse came the compass calls; from the radio room "Mark," and "Mark."

"You are going for science and the honor of your country. Those who are not American citizens can say the same thing. I wish you all —I wish you a good trip—a pleasant voyage."

THREE CHEERS FOR BYRD

Out there on the summer water, 12,000 miles from the ice barrier and the cold Bay of Whales, arose a great burst of handclapping, strong and heavy hands. Down stepped the slim figure in khaki. The commander was shaking hands.

"Tom, see you in two months; Chips, old fellow—" and so, one by one, and a joke here and there until he was through the list. Every man was called by name, and a personal word for each. They gathered about the ladder forward as the pilot boat sent over a rowboat, the commander went down the ladder; the little boat shoved off in the choppy sea. From the pilot boat a burst of searchlight lit up the white boat and the long bowsprit of the whaler.

NAVY WILL AID BYRD THROUGH RADIO

"Radio Samoa will have great re- at San Pedro, together with the high-power stations at Samoa, San Diego and Washington, have been placed at the disposal of Commander Byrd during his Antarctic expedition, it was announced yesterday by the Navy Department.

Beginning with the departure of Commander Byrd from San Pedro, about October 15, next, aboard the Norwegian whaling steamer C. A. Larsen, the naval communication service will keep the expedition in constant touch with the outside world. After the expedition reaches its advaneed base on the shores of Ross Sea dispatches from Commander Byrd will be routed via the Navy radio stations at Samoa, San Diego and thence to Washington, with units of the fleet at this base serving as "stand-by" stations. The Byrd expedition will be equipped with a short-wave transmitter.

Naval radio experts declare that the effort to maintain constant communication with the expedition in the Antarctic will prove an unusual fest of the Navy's long-distance wireless facilities. The Samoa station, which will be the last link between Commander Byrd and civilization, will have the hardest task. Of this, the official announcement of the plan by the Navy Department says:

Radio Samoa will have great responsibility and great opportunity of 'doing itself and the naval communication service proud' by keeping the expedition constantly in touch with the outside world."

The Byrd expedition will also be in communication with the outside world via the C. A. Larsen, equipped with one of the finest radio plants afloat, during the first months of the expedition's operation. The C. A. Larsen has a short-wave sending set, sending on 32.5 meters, which last season while in the Ross Sea kept in daily communication with the Norwegian government station at Bergen, 14,000 miles distant.

ANOTHER LURED BY WILDERNESS

New Expedition Formed to Explore Brazil

Calvao, Friend of Fawcett and Dyott, Ready

Will Map Forbidding Region With Scientists' Aid

(Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (Exclusive) Another explorer will leave this city in September to match forces with the Brazilian wilderness that swallowed up Col. P. H. Fawcett, his son, Jack, and their companion, Raleigh Rimmel, and through which Commander George M. Dyott now is fighting his way out.

J. Tozzi Calvao, Brazilian engineer and explorer, announced today his appointment by the Brazilian government to lead a party of scientists down a 900-mile-long river as yet unnamed and on most maps unmarked, but which is known by rubber gatherers to empty into the lower Madeira River, a tributary of the Amazon.

This river, three-fourths of a mile wide at its mouth, is thought to rise in the mountains on the central western plateau of the Matto Grosso, westerly from the Xingu River, down which Commander Dyott is now making his precarious way. Rubber gatherers have been up the nameless river 200 miles to a large waterfall. Beyond this no white man is known to have penetrated.

AS ROOSEVELT DID

The Calvao expedition will operate much in the same manner as the Roosevelt-Rondon expedition, which put the River of Doubt on the map. Mr. Calvao was with Commander Dyott when the British explorer retraced Col. Roosevelt's route down the River of Doubt two years ago.

In addition to surveying the unnamed tributary of the Madeira the Brazilian government hopes the Calvao party will verify reports of a country rich in rubber and other resources.

Mr. Calvao will take a geologist, a naturalist, an archeologist and a geographer with him. Part of the scientific staff will be American and part officers supplied by the Brazilian government. The scientists from the United States will be appointed within the next few days.

A radio operator with an adequate short-wave portable radio set will accompany the party.

TAKES NO CHANCES

"I don't want Col. Roosevelt's experience with skeptics," Mr. Calvao said. "With radio we can report and check our position. There can be no doubt then that we are on the right river."

Mr. Calvao is taking most of his equipment from the United States. The party will travel in portable folding boats. The scientific staff will be completely equipped to map, survey, photograph and chart the river and the adjoining country.

The expedition will pass through a region occupied by two unknown tribes of Indians. Mr. Calvao does not expect any trouble with them, although he admits there is always the possibility of trouble.

"The Indians are like children," Mr. Calvao said. "On my trip with Commander Dyott we encountered a tribe who told us that the people on the other side of the river were cannibals. They warned us not to sleep there. These Indians appeared to be very friendly, but when we started to portage through their country to avoid dangerous rapids before us we found an arrow stuck in the trail. Commander Dyott decided to risk the river rather than take a chance with the Indians.

TALE INEXPLICABLE

"Col. Fawcett never had trouble with Indians during his many years in South America. He had a small party, which generally is safer than a larger one. Yet he is reported to have been killed by the Indians.

"I have always found that if you treat the Indians right they'll usually treat you right. But the rubber gatherers, who fear the Indians, have a habit of shooting first and talking afterward. Naturally the Indians have learned to retaliate in kind. That's what makes things hard for the peaceable explorer.

"I'd rather take a chance with the purely wild Indians, those who have never seen a white man. It is this sort that we will encounter on the nameless river."

Mr. Calvao, who is on the staff of the Brazilian Consul in New York, has had long experience in the Amazonian wilderness. In April, 1923, while hunting the "pe de garrafa" or bottle-foot monkey, which is believed by the natives to be a man-eater, Calvao and his companion, Carlos Reith, were attacked by a male and female of this huge species.

STALKED BY TRAGEDY

Calvao fired into the female's chest at close range. She rushed him as if untouched. He fired a second shot between the eyes. She wrenched his rifle away and broke it in two as she collapsed. The explorer fainted from loss of blood and shock.

When Calvao revived he searched for his companion, who had been attacked by the male. He found Reith's rifle. The great ape's tracks looked as if they had been made by pressing a bottle into the ground. Twenty feet further Calvao found his companion's headless body. From the jungle beyond he could hear the diminishing roar of the pe de garrafa as it disappeared, bearing the head of the unfortunate Reith.

The Calvao expedition will leave civilization at the town of Vilhene in the Matto Grosso. The trip is expected to last eight or ten months.

CATSKILLS TOLL IN FLOOD THREE

Valley Severely Damaged by Cloudburst

Twenty-foot Water Wall Submerges Villages

Loss Surveyed as Fury of Torrent Abates

ELLENVILLE (N. Y.) Aug. 27. (AP) A narrow valley in the Catskills, about twenty-five miles long and less than a mile across at its widest point, late today shook itself loose from the grip of cloudburst and flooded stream and took account of its loss of life and property.

Through this little valley, running northeast to Kingston, on the Hudson River, the Rondout Creek winds a fairly tranquil course under normal conditions. Yesterday a cloudburst poured thousands of tons of water into the stream's course and sent a twenty-foot wall of water tumbling down the valley.

Today three persons were known dead, crops, live stock and farm property had been damaged to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars, at least twenty bridges had been torn from their bases; highways had been washed out in many places, communications had been disrupted and scores of persons had been rendered homeless.

Of a score of villages caught, the water freaked their fury for the most part on Montela, Lackawack, Napanoch, Wawarsing, Kerhonksen, Accord, High Falls and Rosendale.

Charles Lavery, 50 years of age, of Paterson, N. J., motoring through the valley with a companion, Joseph Hughes, also of Paterson, drowned when his motor stalled in the flooded highway near the Napanoch State Institute for Mental Defectives. The two men stepped from the machine and Hughes was dragged to safety while Lavery sank in a hole in the road.

Philip Blatt of Lackawack, attempted to carry his wife from their flooded dwelling, stumbled and drowned on the threshhold of his home. An unidentified infant also was said to have perished.

The water swept to within sixty feet of the State institute, plunging the building with its 681 mentally defective inmates into darkness.

DUCHESS OLGA RUMOR BORN

Milan Paper Says Czar's Eldest Daughter Lived There With Husband Following War

MILAN (Italy) Aug. 27. (AP)—A story that Olga, eldest daughter of the late Czar of Russia, lived in Milan in 1921, was published today in the Corriere Della Sera. The story said that she was married to an Italian officer of Venetian origin who had been a prisoner in Russia and had helped her to escape from that country.

The couple, it is said, lived in a boarding-house on the Corso Buenos Aires. The proprietress of the boarding-house was quoted as saying that the supposed Princess spoke Russian, French and English, and showed in every way superior breeding.

The woman said that her boarder relapsed into silence when questioned about herself, but that her origin was devined when photographs of the Grand Duchess Olga were published in illustrated newspapers. She asked her guest point blank if she were not really the Grand Duchess. The reply, according to the newspaper account, was: "I once was rich, and you see, I have nothing."

Il Corriere Della Sera states that the story was well embroidered by the boarding-house keeper and by a dyer and cleaner of the neighborhood. The newspaper discards much of this embroidery but says it believes there may be some foundation for the yarn.

Olga, eldest daughter of Czar Nicholas II, was born November 15, 1895. All historic accounts agree that she with her father, mother, three sisters and one brother, were murdered by Communists at Ekaterinburg in 1918. Stories that some members of the family escaped have cropped up, notably in the case of Anatasia, the youngest of the girls. None of these tales, however, has withstood tests of their authenticity.

EXECUTIVE SHOWS NEED OF TAX LAW

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 27. (AP)—Gov. Young returned to Sacramento from Yosemite National Park, where he has been on a vacation since July 1 and immediately went into conference with A. R. Heron, State Department of Finance head, and Irving Martin, chairman of the California Tax Commission, to discuss the proposed bank-tax amendment coming before the special legislative session September 4. The conference lasted several hours.

If the legislators can be made to see the financial crisis facing the State and the feasibility of the plan set forth by the Tax Commission the session will be short and successful, the Governor said in an interview late today.

He reiterated his belief that there will be no organized opposition to the commission's proposed constitutional amendment under which the State will tax banks and corporations operating in California, approximately 4 per cent of their net incomes.

"There may be some opposition of a sporadic nature," the executive declared, "but I don't look for an organized move against the plan.

"As a matter of fact, the greater number of corporations will have their taxes reduced under the proposed plan. At present they are paying about 5.8 per cent plus a franchise tax. Under the new plan this will be reduced to about 4 per cent."

If the commission's plan is approved by the Legislature, but defeated at the November election, the program will then fall to the people to unravel, the Governor declared, adding that the State must have a bank tax because with it the revenues from taxation are no more than needed to balance governmental expenses.

PHOENIX STORM TRACE CLEARED

Arizona Capital Cleans Up Tornado Wreckage

Many Freaks Reported in Damaged Area

Broken Wires Cause Most Trouble in City

PHOENIX, Aug. 27. (AP)—Twenty-four hours was sufficient to remove practically every trace of the extensive damage caused by Sunday night's freak nine-minute storm, although line crews were still repairing broken wires in the west end of the city tonight. Crews of men working through the night had cleared away the debris and repaired damaged structures.

The storm played a game of hit-and-run with haphazard abandon in the cotton-mill district. One dip jerked a side from a big cottonseed house and moved the structure ten inches from its foundations.

SEED HOUSE WRECKED

A short distance further a huge new cottonseed house, 70x240 feet and forty-five feet high, was picked up like a cracker box and hurled to the earth in a splintered mass of kindling and twisted roofing. Machinery in the building was completely wrecked.

A hull house and mixed-feed mill adjoining the cottonseed house also caught the full fury of the wind. Its walls crumpled up and were tossed about like toy balloons.

A feed-storage shed was destroyed and serious damage was done to electrical equipment and wiring. Trucks standing idle in yards over Sunday were reduced to debris.

HAPHAZARD DAMAGE

Small buildings and sheds in the path of the storm were picked up here and there as though the storm might be working out a grudge against individual buildings.

In one instance a watchman at a cotton company took refuge from the wind and rain in what was probably the flimsiest and smallest shed on the property. The building, right in the shadow of the larger structures that were destroyed, was untouched.

MORE SPACE FOR MUSEUM

HANFORD, Aug. 27.—Work was begun today in adding 780 square feet to the area in the civic auditorium building, occupied by the Kings county Historical Museum, sponsored by the Exchange Club which is the most extensive in the San Joaquin Valley. The museum, established two years ago, already has outgrown its present quarters.

SANTA FE NET IN SHARP GAIN

July Earnings Increase More Than 30 Per Cent

Advance Attributed to Huge Grain Movement

Other Railroads Report on Month's Income

July net railway operating income of the Santa Fe Railway jumped $1,500,000, or more than 30 per cent, above the amount reported for July, 1927, it was revealed yesterday in a financial statement issued through the local office of the company.

Net operating income for July totaled $6,168,025, as against $4,667,262 for the same month last year. Gross earnings aggregated $23,297,790, as compared with $21,592,524 for July, 1927, a gain of $1,705,267, or about 8 per cent.

The unusual July increase is attributed to enormous movement of grain from Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma and other favorable crop shipments in Santa Fe territory, officials stated. Indications, it is said, point to a continuation of this increased business, which will include a large movement of fruit out of California which is now getting under way.

Operating expenses for the month amounted to $14,947,767, as compared with $14,949,273 last year, a decrease of $1506.

Net railway operating income for the first seven months of the year totaled $19,400,826, as against $25,338,082 for the corresponding period of last year, a decrease of $5,937,226.

Operating revenues for the seven months aggregated $132,817,428, a decrease of $10,443,804 compared with the same period last year. Railway operating expenses amounted to $102,040,509 and for the same period of 1927, $105,712,239, a decrease of $3,671,731.

Italo Oil Buys Large Unit in Coalinga Field

Italo Petroleum Corporation of America has purchased the properties of the Commercial Oil Company and Concordia Oil Company in the Coalinga field, officers of the company announced yesterday. Although the purchase price was not made public, it was understood to be in the neighborhood of $400,000.

Acquisition of these properties, together with those already held, gives the Italo company a complete block of holdings in this field. Gross production there, of the company, is estimated at 45,000 barrels monthly from a total of 102 wells.

Engineers of the company state that the Coalinga fields are the steadiest producers in California and that the Italo holdings there will provide greater stability to the company's crude supply.

Federal Water Income Grows

Gross corporate income of Federal Water Service Corporation and subidiaries totaled $7,620,304, for the year ended June 30, last, as compared with $6,705,701 in the preceding year, a gain of $914,603 or more than 13 per cent, it was officially reported yesterday.

Gross revenue for the year aggregated $14,351,617, as against $13,437,398 in the previous year, an increase of $914,219 or nearly 7 per cent. Operating expenses, maintenance and taxes amounted to $6,731,313, as against $6,705,701.

New Member on Local Exchange

William W. Woods, Jr., has been formally admitted to membership on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, Norman B. Courteney, secretary and manager, announced yesterday. Mr. Woods acquired the seat formerly held by J. E. Coggeshall, member of William R. Staats & Co.

Purchase of the business of Henry H. Nelson & Co. was recently announced by Mr. Woods, and the name of the brokerage house changed to W. W. Woods Jr., Co. He was previously manager of the bond department of Union Bank and Trust Company of Los Angeles.

HAY MARKET WEAKER

Wheat Millfeeds Situation Shows Improvement

The feed market, with the exception of wheat millfeeds and gluten feed, continued weak and relatively inactive, according to the Weekly Hay Market Review of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Wheat millfeeds situation, due to an improvement in the demand, became firm and prices at the principal markets were $1.50-$2.50 higher. Gluten feed market held steady reflecting firm cash corn market. However, many weakening factors still exist in the feed market, such as cheap oats, prospect of about a 20 per cent increase in supply of feed grains, good pastures, moderate flour mill activity and hesitancy of buyers to purchase for more than their immediate needs. Concentrate feed markets were quiet. Alfalfa meal was steady with fair demand.

Pastures and meadows are generally in good condition. However, eastern Ohio, parts of Kentucky, scattered portions of the northern great plains and Montana ranges are in need of rains.

LLOYD JOINS FORCES WITH LOAN COMPANY

Elwood Lloyd, former financial editor of a local evening newspaper, announced yesterday that he will take over the organization and management of the new Los Angeles office of the Bay Cities Guarantee Building and Loan Association. The offices will be formally opened in the Detwiler Building September 4. Mr. Lloyd has written several books on building-loan problems.

COAST WATCHES CALL RATE

BY EARLE E. CROWE

On the Pacific Coast as well as in other markets all eyes were focussed yesterday on the rates for call money. Trading slowed down as soon as the flash came of the advance to 8 per cent, but most of the coast stocks held well, probably because the market has been anticipating a period of stiff money rates.

From various sources the word has gone out that the cost of money for stock market accommodation will rule around 10 per cent during most of September while the harvest season is on. Call money at this level undoubtedly will discourage a continuance of active operations in the stock market, but from all indications the market is prepared to accept this situation and may possibly come through without material damage to price levels. It is well known, however, that the Federal Reserve authorities would welcome a thorough downward adjustment of prices.

SURPLUS HERE

Unless the harvest season on the Pacific Coast creates an abnormal demand for bank accommodation the chances are that the Los Angeles and San Francisco banks will be large lenders in the New York call money market in the next month. Right now the banks in these cities are virtually independent of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco as far as rediscounting of eligible paper is concerned, and are loaning surplus money in the New York money market.

If call money does rule around 10 per cent next month the money market will resemble the war days and the period before establishment of the Federal Reserve system. Some of the critics of the Federal Reserve policies may even suggest that such a parallel would demonstrate either manipulation of money rates to discriminate against speculation or the failure of the Federal Reserve system to function properly.

Not since 1920 has call money cost 10 per cent for any length of time. In the recent stringency this point was touched, but since the peak of the 1920 industrial crisis the rates have hovered around 6 per cent and lower.

RANGE TRACED

With only two exceptions call money ranged higher than 10 per cent from 1912 to and including 1920. In the latter year the high was 20 per cent; in 1919, 30 per cent; in 1918, 6 per cent; in 1917, 10 per cent, and so on up to 20 per cent again in 1912. These were all years in which the money market was affected by prewar, war or post-war conditions.

It is interesting also to observe the trend of money over a period of eighteen years prior to the war and the establishment of the Federal Reserve. This table, compiled by the Thomas Gibson Service, shows that seasonally call loans averaged in the fall months from a low of 1 1-4 per cent on September 1 to 5 per cent on December 31. During October and November the average of the eighteen years was from 2 3-4 to 3 per cent.

Pacific Coast securities naturally will be influenced by conditions in the New York market. Actually, however, there is sufficient bank accomodation available to finance business and the stock market without any undue advance in the cost of the accommodation.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—The cotton market made a net decline of about 20 points or $1 per bale in prices for the general contract list here from Saturday's closing during the forenoon. This brought October down to 18.67 cents. With prices to within 10 to 30 points of the season's low level of August 13, for the general list there was a renewal of just enough new trade buying to check the market's downward tendency.

Most of the selling from the opening was scattered liquidation. The Liverpool market was lower today, with futures there making the maximum decline of between 15 and 20 English points from which there was a slight rally to a net decline of 13 and 15 for the day at the close.

In the late afternoon the market rallied slowly until all the early decline of the forenoon had been regained, with most of this due to some profit-taking by shorts and in sympathy with the rally at New Orleans.

Conditions in Europe Sounder, Banker Reports

Everybody in Europe is working hard, saving and producing, said Orra E. Monnette, vice-chairman board of directors and chairman regional board of the Bank of Italy National Trust and Savings Association, who returned yesterday from a tour of the principal European countries.

"European conditions are very prosperous," Mr. Monnette commented, "and agricultural conditions are especially good. An era of industry and good feeling seems to be the prevalent sign of order and harmony.

"Naturally, the eyes of the world are turned to the United States as being the wealthy and prosperous nation whose influence and business are desirable objectives in the channels of trade and international friendship."

Mr. Monnette, who was accompanied by Mrs. Monnette, their daughter, Miss Helen Hull Monnette, and his father, Mervin J. Monnette, who is a member of the regional board of the bank, visited in England, France, Germany, Switzerland and Italy. On the way home a trip was made to Virginia and several days were spent in Ohio, the former residence of the Monnettes.

Net of Transit Company Gains

July net earnings of California Transit Company, subsidiary of American Motor Transportation Company, totaled $61,000, after all charges, including Federal taxes, according to a preliminary report issued yesterday.

Earnings of another subsidiary of the company, Pioneer Southwestern Stages, Inc., totaled $9671 for July, after all charges, including Federal taxes. This unit operates on one leg of the eastern run. Combined earnings of the two units amounted to more than $70,000, equal to the year's dividend requirements on the outstanding "A" stock of the parent organization. All other lines of the company are operating on a profitable basis, it was stated. Detailed statements will be made public soon.

Bank Official Gets Promotion

Louis Meyer, Jr., has been promoted to the position of manager of the bond department of the Union Bank and Trust Company of Los Angeles, it was announced yesterday. W. W. Woods, Jr., former manager, resigned recently to take over the business of Henry H. Nelson & Co.

Mr. Meyer is a native of this city and an alumnus of the University of California at Berkeley. He has been associated with the investment division of the Union Bank and Trust Company for the past two and a half years, and previously to that time conducted his own manufacturing business in the city.

London Daily Radio

BY ARTHUR W. KIDDY

(Copyright, 1928, New York Evening Post, Inc.)

LONDON, Aug. 27. (By Wireless) The markets were brighter all around today, with new fortnightly account beginning well. The chief feature of trading was the rally in home rails because of indications that reductions in fares were already proving successful in increasing traffic.

The rise in Wall street with apparently less acute apprehensions regarding money rates was chiefly responsible for the improvement in the speculative markets in London, including the gramophone group and Lowenstein shares. Oils were good.

STEEL-MILL ACTIVITY AT HIGH LEVEL

Plants Are Operating at Near Capacity With All Signs of Continuing

YOUNGSTOWN, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—Further expansion in steel operations carrying the average above 80 per cent for the first time since a brief period in the early spring is being registered here. There are signs also of further advance and a sustained high movement in the industry for a period of months.

Not since 1926 has the situation been so favorable and perhaps at no previous peace time summer period in any recent years has steel production shown such strength.

With average operations above 80 per cent there are necessarily few departments working at a low ebb. Steel pipe plants are operating about 70 per cent and wire products on about the same basis. All other lines are being turned out at rates ranging virtually to capacity for tin plate and hot strip.

Steel prices are firming with every sign of the announced fourth quarter prices being accepted without any sign of resistance. Although some rollers have announced 4 cents for the fourth quarter on full finished sheets, there is a chance that this price may move up now that common black sheets have firmed to 2.75 cents.

Steel fabricators are doing a rushing business. Niles steel products is expanding 35 per cent and Truscon steel is operating two new units at Los Angeles and Cleveland at capacity as well as its big plant here covering forty acres.

July Business Maintained on Sound Footing

Business activity in the Twelfth Federal Reserve District was well maintained during July, which is ordinarily a month of seasonal recessions, according to the monthly summary of business issued by Isaac B. Newton, chairman of the board and Federal Reserve agent of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco.

Sustained industrial and trade activity and the advance of the agricultural harvesting and marketing season were reflected in an increased demand for credit at the member banks of the district, the report states. Security loans of these banks declined slightly during the month, but not enough to offset the expansion of loans for commercial, industrial and agricultural purposes. Borrowings from the Federal Reserve Bank increased, and a firmer tendency in money rates was apparent.

"In the industrial field," the summary continues, "declines and increases in activity were evenly divided during July. On the whole, it appears that output of the district's principal industries changed little from the moderately high levels of May and June, and continued slightly below the levels of a year ago. Large numbers of workers found employment in agricultural harvesting operations and in the fruit and vegetable canning and packing industry during the month, and, although a surplus of workers is still reported, the number of unemployed has been reduced."

Columbia Gas May Split Stock

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (Exclusive) While there is a total absence of official comment on the subject, it is understood that a split-up of no-par common stock of Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation is at least likely to receive discussion this fall, possibly on a basis of a two-for-one exchange. P. G. Gossler, president, has been abroad and will not reurn until the latter part of August.

Statement for six months to June 30 would indicate earning power this year at around $8 a share on 3,372,226 common shares, against $5.28 a share shown on like capital in 1927. Improvement for the first time reflects economies and benefits of co-ordination of Ohio fuel gas properties taken over two years ago in addition to better weather prevailing this year.

BROKER'S LICENSE SUSPENDED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—The Corporation Department today suspended the broker's license of Frank Stern for a period of three months. The action was taken as result of the employment of agents to sell stock without a license from the Corporation Department.

WHEAT CROP FINANCED

Canadian Bankers Mobilizing Funds to Aid of Country's Grain Harvest

BY WILLIAM RUSSELL WHITE

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—A minimum of $300,000,000 will be advanced by Canadian chartered banks to finance western Canada's record-breaking grain crop in the next several months, according to an estimate made today by S. H. Logan, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Tens of millions of dollars in new bank notes will be forwarded to branches and other agencies on the prairies in the next few months to be paid out in exchanges for grain tickets issued by the grain dealers and the wheat pool, according to Mr. Logan. In bringing the huge crop to maturity, the banks already have advanced more than $100,000,000, it is estimated, and total loans for the year, as old ones are paid off, and new ones are arranged run into hundreds of millions.

Seldom at any time in the twelve months is less than $100,000,000 in Canadian credit tied up either in growing or in marketing the Dominion's huge crops.

Incidentally Canadian bankers have taken precautions to prevent this huge supply of capital, gathered specifically for crop movement, from reaching other channels, possibly security markets.

PREPARATIONS MADE

"This year the preparations of the banks," said Mr. Logan, "have been on a larger scale than ever before to provide for bringing the crop to market at the proper time and to insure farmers being paid promptly. Steps have been taken to prevent diversion of the country's funds into channels which would create a shortage of credit required for marketing the wheat crop with the damage such a diversion would cause to the economic organization."

Canada has replaced Russia as the world's granary, Mr. Logan explained and from present indications expects to produce 500,000,000 bushels of wheat this season, which will feed 78,000,000 people, he estimates. Naturally a large part must be exported and the movement to ports will be of such vast extent that 3000 cars a day will be inspected by government officials at Winnipeg.

NO FINANCIAL STRAIN

In spite of the heavy demands on credit for agriculture, Mr. Logan expects no undue strain on the Dominion's finances.

"This is an exceptional year as regards credit requirements," he said. "Business has been active, necessitating unusual demands for money, with the result that bank loans are much higher than at this time a year ago. The banks have facilities, however, under the Finance Act, which enable them to rediscount with the Minister of Finance and thus obtain without bringing about any acute money stringency any additional funds that may be required to assist in marketing the western wheat crop.

"The present financial situation therefore, is that banks are mobilizing their resources so as to meet adequately the extra demands which will be made on them without weakening their strong position in respect to reserves."

NEW BOND ISSUE OUT IN HOTEL REFINANCING

All outstanding 7 per cent bonds of the Santa Barbara Biltmore Corporation are to be retired and a new issue of $1,250,000 of 6½ per cent first mortgage sinking fund gold bonds due 1945 will be issued, it was announced yesterday. Proceeds from the new issue will be used to retire the bonds outstanding and provide funds for enlargement of the hotel. M. H. Lewis & Co. and Blankenhorn & Co., head a syndicate, offering the issue at par.

TREND OF STOCK MARKET UNCERTAIN

Credit Situation Affects Speculation in Price Trend

Heavy Bank Call Rate Up to 8 Per Cent

Favorable Rail Reports as Good Omen

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (Exclusive) High call money rates and resumption of the movement to market securities despite sharp setbacks in a few issues, the upward swing upward of the stock market during the forenoon of today's trading session was quickly halted and prices turned downward, closing with losses of a point or more throughout the list.

Call money rose to 8 per cent, but banks entered the market in force to supply funds in loans ranging from 6 to 8 per cent and many borrowers who had bought stocks on the bull rally in the brisk trading which carried the volume of transactions on the New York Stock Exchange to the largest total in the record for all time, were quick to take advantage of the first sign of weakness.

GAINS CUT

Early gains were cut down 2 to 4 points in the day's final session. Buying orders provided only a few forward in an effort to bullish sentiment that the market was ward again by selling pressure.

Selling pressure rally and prices were lower in the last hour. The heavy selling reflected the uncertainty of reserves for month-end settlements.

Leading The World In Paper Consumption

United States is the leading consumer of paper in the world. Recent statistics prepared by the American Pulp and Paper Association estimate that this country consumes annually 158 pounds of paper of all kinds per capita—a figure twice the consumption of Great Britain, three times that of Germany and seven times that of Japan.

This tremendous demand for paper has made the manufacture of pulp and paper one of the most stable and prosperous of American industries. The principal source of raw material is the states of Washington and Oregon—the last great stand of timber in the United States. In this territory have developed many of the leading American paper companies whose output supplies the entire nation.

BLYTH, WITTER & CO. has always been closely identified with the financing of pulp and paper industries of the Pacific Coast. Thorough investigation and analysis have convinced us of the fundamental soundness of the industry and the attractive investments offered by paper company securities.

Our recent offerings include a 6% First Mortgage Bond of GRAYS HARBOR PULP COMPANY, due 1943. This company, under the ownership and management of leading paper men of the Pacific Coast, closely identified with the Zellerbach interests, is completing a modern and complete white pulp mill at Hoquiam, Washington, for the manufacture of pulp, paper, and paper products.

Priced at 99 and interest to yield over 6.10%, these bonds offer a high-grade first mortgage security, backed by ownership and management of a group of the most successful pulp and paper manufacturers in the Northwest.

A circular describing these bonds in detail will be gladly furnished on request. Call in person at any of our offices—Phone MU. 7171—or write us for it.

METAL MARKET HOLDS STEADY

Prices on Copper Unchanged at 14.52 Refinery

Zinc Orders for Delivery at 6.25 Contracted

July Lead Figures Held Best for Many Months

BY CHARLES F. WILLIS
Editor The Mining Journal, Phoenix

Copper active, lead momentarily active and zinc quiet but firm, is the status of the present market. The prices on copper and zinc remain unchanged at 14.52, f.o.b. refinery and 6.25 f.o.b. St. Louis, respectively. Lead has been advanced from 6.20 f.o.b. New York.

While zinc has remained at 6.25, there have been numerous reports of price cutting and other concessions equivalent to price cutting. While this was possibly true a few weeks ago, the price now seems fixed at 6.25 and orders are being accepted at this figure for delivery during the next two months. There is some risk in accepting advance orders as the smelters do not contract ahead for their ore supply and the fact that they are willing to sell advance metal at current prices indicates that no material change upward is expected.

ZINC ACTIVE

A survey of the zinc-producing capacity of the United States made by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics shows that there are but 86,644 retorts in use with 100,040 available, or about 86.62 per cent. The western plants are being used to a larger extent than the eastern ones as the western plants show about 74 per cent in use while the eastern plants show about 63 per cent.

The lead market is of much more interest and there is no longer any low price lead to be obtained. The London market has been strong and the New York market is unusually firm. The St. Louis market, while it has been weak, has strengthened with the absorption of the low-price metal.

LEAD FIGURES BETTER

The July figures for lead look better than they have for several months, with a cut in production and a decrease in the surplus stocks. Production of crude lead in the United States and Mexico during July amounted to 68,790 tons against 74,096 tons in June, and 72,681 tons in May. Production of refined lead totaled 71,185 tons in July, against 70,788 tons in June, and 69,306 tons in May.

Surplus stocks of refined lead at the end of July totaled 53,868 tons, against 55,341 tons at the end of June, and 54,263 tons at the end of May. Following the publication of the July lead statistics it was reported out of New York that "an advance in the price of lead would not cause any surprise. There is more activity in the market, with consumers showing increased interest in trade development." On the 23rd inst., the price advanced to 6.30 f.o.b. New York.

The activity in the copper market indicates that the consumers have purchased probably between 80 and 90 per cent of their September requirements and inquiries are now in evidence for metal for October delivery. It is stated that but few of the producers have any copper left for September delivery. European consumers have not yet bought heavily for September delivery.

Erie's New Preferred Stock Issue May Be Delayed

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (Exclusive) Although directors of the Erie Railroad have encountered new obstacles in their plans for a capital readjustment and the proposed issue of a new preferred stock may be delayed longer than at first anticipated, it is believed the plan eventually will be put into effect. It is proposed to substitute a new cumulative 6 per cent preferred issue for the outstanding $47,904,400 first and $16,000,000 second preferred 4 per cent noncumulative stocks. It is understood two new shares will be offered in exchange for three of the old, with a small cash payment on the first preferred.

With indications that the road is destined to earn this year two or three times dividend requirements on the new stock, the issue may sell at about par when it becomes seasoned, the management probably believes.

MATURITIES TO MEET

Erie will be called upon to meet by 1933 slightly more than $27,000,000 in bond maturities, of which more than $17,000,000 are 7 per cent issues. At the same time, about $12,000,000 in equipment trust installments must be paid.

If the company were able to replace some of these bonds with the new preferred stock, substantial progress could be made in reducing the funded debt, even though the saving in charges might not be so large, since the average interest on the bonds to mature in the period is about 6 1-3 per cent. A step in reducing the ratio between debt and capital was taken last year with the conversion of more than $19,000,000 in bonds into something more than $38,000,000 in stock.

Replacement of the existing preferred issues with the proposed new stock would not affect the amount of dividends ahead of the common, but it would result in a reduction of capitalization of more than $21,000,000, it is pointed out.

SURPLUS REDUCED

Almost $40,000,000 was lopped off of corporate surplus last year with a drop from above $97,000,000 to below $80,000,000 largely as a result of conversion of bonds. Equipment retirements accounted for almost $16,000,000 of the drop.

Ordinarily Erie earns 60 per cent or more of the year's operating net in the last six months; in 1927 the proportion was only 52 per cent. The latter ratio would bring operating net for the year up to $16,500,000, against $12,960,000 actual for 1927. On this basis the year's earnings would be $3 a share on the common, or about $16 a share on the new preferred.

If Erie were to earn 60 per cent of its year's net in the second half, common earnings would be $4.50 and the new preferred dividend requirements would have been covered three and two-third times, it is estimated.

WALL STREET PARAGRAPHS

(Copyright, 1928, New York Evening Post, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (Exclusive) Heavy buying of Briggs Manufacturing was ascribed as coming largely from traders on the floor, based on rumors current shortly after the opening, that Chrysler was seeking a dominant interest in that company. No official intimation of such a move has thus far come to light, but in usually well-informed quarters the theory seems to be that the Dodge deal recently consummated does not mark the final phase of the expansion plans which Chrysler is undertaking. Profit taking again was heavy in Chrysler at frequent intervals during the day.

MISSOURI PACIFIC UP

Missouri Pacific issues were in brisk demand among the rails, the common pushing up to within a small fraction of its previous top levels. Buying here was remarked as coming from important sources and resultant strength gave rise to the belief that the committee appointed some months ago to evolve a plan for taking care of the accumulated dividends on the preferred stock is probably nearing the end of its task. Inauguration of dividends on Texas and Pacific common stock, the largest block of which in addition to all that road's preferred, is owned by "Mop," apparently has been a helpful factor. Missouri Pacific, it is plain to be seen, would be the chief beneficiary of any early increase in the Texas and Pacific junior dividend which current earnings would appear to warrant fully.

BULLS ACTIVE

The day was again one of highly discriminating bullish activities. Stocks regarded as attractive for technical or more important reasons were singled out for support. United States Rubber, for example, which experienced a long-drawn-out decline earlier in the year coincident with the appearance of its highly unfavorable semiannual report, recently enjoyed a spirited advance. Shorts were driven in here, with the story going the rounds that the final half-year would be eminently better than the first six months.

VISIBLE GRAIN

TREND OF STOCK MARKET UNEVEN

withdrawals are expected later in the week, as the banks prepare for Labor Day currency demands. These are now estimated at between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 above ordinary requirements. Additional withdrawals also are likely as a result of the new clearinghouse regulations, effective September 1, which increase the commission charge on the placing of call loans and set $100,000 as the minimum figure for such loans for outside account. Predictions of a 10 per cent call-money rate this week are being made in some banking quarters.

RAIL EARNINGS GOOD

Outside of the advance in money, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movement. A batch of favorable July earnings reports made their appearance during the day, with an unusually good showing by the western roads. The American Woolen Company reported another large deficit for the first half of 1928.

Today's reaction was widely regarded as a natural correction of a weakened speculative position. Ranged behind minus signs at the close were such recent leaders as United States Steel common, General Motors, Chrysler, American Can, Radio, Montgomery-Ward, National Cash Register, American Smelting, Packad, Curtis and Wright, the net losses ranging from fractions to nearly 5 points.

A few shares showed consistent strength, among them Commercial Investment Trust, Davison Chemical, Electric Auto Lite, Loose-Wiles Biscuit and Otis Elevator, all of which touched new high levels for the year. National Biscuit, National Bellas Hess, William Wrigley, United States Rubber and Vanadium also recovered substantial gains. Loft changed hands in enormous volume, touching a new peak at 19 3-8, or more than treble the year's low, and then easing to 18, up ½ net. Woolworth crossed 200 for the first time this year, but was unable to maintain its gain.

Time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

Lumber Orders Show Increase

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27. (AP)—Reports from eighty-four southern pine mills show orders received increased .18 per cent over the previous week; shipments decreased 3.63 per cent and production decreased 4.34 per cent. Those mills show 57,645,952 feet ordered, 51,343,552 feet shipped and 46,402,775 feet produced, with orders on hand at end of last week amounting to 186,462,768 feet.

The same mills reported in the corresponding week of 1927 (week ended Friday, August 26, 1927:) Orders booked, 51,405,926; shipments, 52,323,161; production, 50,090,352; orders on hand end of week, 195,819,481.

NET OF TELEPHONE COMPANY POINTS UP

Net earnings of the Santa Monica Bay Telephone Company totaled $69,230 for the first seven months of the current year, as against $61,534 for the same period of 1927, a gain of $6696, the company reported yesterday. Gross earnings aggregated $332,046 and last year $293,948. July net profits were $10,847 compared with $11,317 in July, 1927, while gross revenue was $50,718 and $45,063 respectively.

Citizens National Trust & Savings Bank of Los Angeles, Trustee

EXEMPT FROM PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXES IN CALIFORNIA IN OPINION OF COUNSEL

Mr. James Woods, Executive Vice-President of the Company, has summarized as follows concerning these bonds and the company:

Company: The Santa Barbara Biltmore Corporation, which was organized under the laws of California in September, 1926, owns and operates a modern hotel at Montecito Park adjoining the City of Santa Barbara, California. This hotel is operated under the same management as the Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel, one of the most important units in the famous Biltmore chain.

Security: A policy of title insurance in the sum of $1,250,000 will be issued by the Security Title Insurance and Guaranty Company of Santa Barbara showing these bonds are secured by a First (Closed) Mortgage and Deed of Trust on approximately 21 acres in Montecito Park, having a frontage of over 1,000 feet on the ocean. This property is landscaped in a manner making the location one of the most ideal hotel sites on the Pacific Coast. The proceeds from the sale of these bonds will be used for general corporate purposes and to provide part of the cost of erecting new buildings which will contain not less than fifty additional guest rooms. The existing buildings consist of a reinforced concrete and steel hotel and administration building of Spanish-California architecture, together with annex buildings and surrounding bungalows. The entire plant is designed to be operated as a unit and will contain, upon completion of new bungalows (which will be immediately erected on the property) a total of not less than 187 rentable guest rooms in addition to public rooms, dining rooms, and help quarters. There are also several ground floor stores which are leased to responsible tenants and bring in additional revenue over hotel operating profits.

The Trust Indenture provides that the company shall carry, if obtainable, insurance on buildings and furnishings against loss or damage by fire or earthquake to an amount equal to the full insurable value thereof.

Valuation: The existing land and buildings were recently appraised for us by Mr. W. W. Mines of the Los Angeles Realty Board at $1,960,752, to which figure should be added $323,114 representing the cost of furnishings and equipment. From the proceeds of this issue there will be set aside the sum of $200,000 to cover the building cost of the above mentioned new bungalows; therefore, the total security will exceed $2,483,866, or nearly twice the amount of this loan.

Earnings: Mr. A. D. Macarthur, Treasurer of the Los Angeles Biltmore Corporation, has estimated the net profit at $242,700 per annum available to pay interest on these bonds, the largest annual installment of which is $81,250. In arriving at this figure, Mr. Macarthur has deducted all operating costs, state, county and income taxes and full depreciation. He has based his estimate on an average occupancy of 55%, which is considered conservative and should be exceeded.

Management: The Company is owned by an exceptionally strong group of business men, including Messrs. John McE. Bowman, President Bowman Biltmore Hotels Company; J. B. Miller, Chairman of the Board Southern California Edison Company; Herbert Fleishhacker, President Anglo, London & Paris National Bank; Wm. Wrigley, Jr., President Wm. Wrigley, Jr., Co.; Max Fleischmann, President of Fleischmann Yeast Company; C. B. Raymond, Vice-President of the Goodrich Tire & Rubber Co., and others.

The Board of Directors is as follows:

John McEntee Bowman	Max Fleischmann	William R. Mygatt
Charles Baad	E. Palmer Gavit	Francis Price
David Blankenhorn	Melvin H. Lewis	Charles B. Raymond
Peter Cooper Bryce	A. D. Macarthur	James Woods
Harold S. Chase	Dwight Murphy	William Wrigley, Jr.

Legality: All legal proceedings in the issuance of these bonds are subject to the approval of Messrs. Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher, attorneys at law, Los Angeles, California, for the underwriters and of Messrs. Mygatt, Robertson & Crawford, Santa Barbara, California, attorneys for the Company, and to authorization by the Corporation Commissioner of the State of California.

SINKING FUND

$25,000 October 1, 1931
50,000 October 1, 1932/34, Inc.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—Domestic ⅛-blood wools hold a very strong statistical position on the market. Sales in the past few weeks have not been heavy but dealers are delivering on orders taken several months ago when mills were anticipating their need. Available statistics indicate that mills are consuming domestic 58-60s wools at a higher rate than last year. Fine wools of quality on the market are limited and receipts of fine wools suitable for clothing consist largely of medium and low grades. The receipts of domestic wool at Boston last week totaled 4,367,200 pounds as compared with 7,157,500 pounds for previous week.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP)—A brisk forward movement on the curb market ran into tight money rates today which caused a wave of liquidation, wiping out many early gains, although a number of industrials which went to new highs for the year or longer withstood the wave of selling. When the call money rate went to 8 per cent traders' confidence was shaken and there was considerable apprehension of scarce money until after the month-end settlements are made.

Industrials touching new peaks included Novadel Process at 27, Galesburg Coulter Disc at 78, and Monsanto Chemical at 67½, up 1 to 3½ points. In smaller advances Bullard Machine Tool went into new high ground at 45½ and Campbell Wyant at 54. Crown Paper, Brill Manufacturing, Shaeffer Pen and Transatlantic Air Transport also made good gains. Caterpillar Tractor, Columbia Graphophone, Bancitaly and others suffered from liquidation after early gains, although Bancitaly rallied and closed unchanged. Radio shares displayed group strength, Freshman gaining a half point in heavy buying.

Utilities, one of the strongest groups at the opening, turned irregular in the afternoon. Electric Bond and Share lost a 2-point gain and eased fractionally in heavy trading, while Midwest Utilities lost most of a 3-point gain. American Superpower dropped more than 2 points on profit-taking. Associated Gas and Electric improved fractionally.

Early gains of leading mining issues were wiped out, Nemont showing a net loss of more than a point at the close, while Noranda and Shattuck Denn were down fractionally. Consolidated Copper, however, improved fractionally.

Oils were generally weak, although Standard of Ohio and Gulf of Pennsylvania improved slightly. Humble and Reiter Foster dropped more than a point.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

...its—and show the old-timers in the field that maybe it was ...sible for them to learn some...thing from the younger ...

Not only did we organize ... association, but went so far ... to secure a lease on a most ...sirable downtown location for ... an office, and then spent ... a batch of dollars fitting up ... quarters into a fine place to ... business. Everything was ... for a good start.

Then, just as all was ready to go ahead, along came John ... Rishell, the founder and ... dent of one of the most ... ful associations in Southern California. He is the ... light of the Bay Cities Guaranty Building-Loan Association of Santa Monica. During the ... seven years he has built up a real, honest-to-goodness ... ation having assets of ... than two and one-half ... dollars, and a capital and ... plus of three hundred ... five thousand dollars.

The Santa Monica group felt the need for expansion and ... entry into the Los Angeles ... ropolitan district. More ... that, Mr. Rishell's organization was in full accord with the majority of the advanced ideas held by the association I had ... suaded my friends to help organize.

The result is we have ... together and are offering to combine of his two and a ... million organization with the association we were just ... ready to launch. The wedding will be officially solemnized on the fourth day of September—which, by the way, is the ... anniversary of the founding of the Bay Cities' association.

We will go ahead as a ... movement—really it is too big a thing to call just a ... organization. The Los Angeles headquarters of the Bay Cities Guaranty Building-Loan Association will be located in the new and handsome quarters I had planned to occupy—and my child—the association I had formed—will just forget its name and go ahead as the properly wedded agency mate of the association from the sea-side.

However, I am not letting it go entirely. I shall still have a hand in its guidance as a member of the board of directors of the absorbing company.

We will have an "at home" day soon. Beginning Tuesday, September fourth, and continuing for the remainder of the week. A cordial invitation is extended to all friends to look in upon the newly-weds at 412 West Sixth street, on Pershing Square—the ground floor of the Dolliver building.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP)—Stiffening of money rates held bond markets trading to small volume today, and price movements became highly irregular. Call money, which had renewed at 7 per cent, was lifted to 8 per cent as banks called upward of $40,000,000 in loans to meet month-end needs. Time money was firm at 6½ per cent.

A few industrials and rails closed at higher levels, the industrials largely reflecting the early buoyancy of the stock market and the rails improved on earning reports, but the general list was inclined to heaviness.

Pierce Arrow 7s, which advanced nearly 2 points to a new year's high at 107 on buying apparently encouraged by Studebaker support, were outstanding in the industrial group. Alax Rubber, Inc., Armour & Co., Inc., and Wickwire Spencer Steel convertible 7s were among others to show gains on the day. Coppers were under pressure, while International Match 5s, Remington Arms 6s, Sinclair Crude 5½s, and Dairy Dry Goods 5s closed at levels as much as 2 points lower. Some utilities also sagged. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s dropping more than a point, and Newark Gas 5s slumping about 2 points to new 1928 low at 102. Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s, however, varied about 2 points.

Declines, of more than a point in St. Paul 5s of 2000, New York, Susquehanna and Western 5s, Rock Island 4s and 500 6s, were offset by equally large gains in International Railways of Central America 6½s, Minneapolis and St. Paul 4s, Katy 4s, and smaller advances in a number of other rails, such as Erie 4s, Frisco 5s A, Nickel Plate 6½s, Atlantic Coast Line 4s and Norfolk and Western 4s.

The foreign list was slightly firmer, with Rima Steel 7s showing the widest gain, 1½ points.

Treasury issues alone showed improvement among the United States government obligations, others closing unchanged.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transmission, the close is omitted when the range is the low, and both low and close when same is high.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—Active demand developed and a good clearance was made of yesterday's moderate supply. Prices generally on all classes were strong to 25c higher than last week's close. Steers and she stock were about even as to numbers with the majority coming from California, while a few loads of she stock arrived from the intermountain section and Arizona.

A car of good 1602-pound steers topped at $13.85, while a car of 890-pound yearlings brought 12.65. Two and a half loads of 1097 to 1251-pound averages cleared for 13.50. Medium grades were fairly numerous from 11.25@12.10, while common steers turned from 9.00@11.00, mostly 10.50@10.80 on plain Mexicans. A load of 946-pound Imperial stags brought 10.00, while small lots of other stags sold down to 9.50.

A four-car string of good 753-pound Central California heifers sold as baby beef for 11.00. Odd heifers and small lots of other heifers cashed from 10.50@11.50, while a car of 735-pound Arizona heifers turned 10.25. Odd head of good cows sold from 10.00@10.25, while two and a half cars of good Utah cows topped at 9.85. Another car of Utah cows made 9.65, with plain Utahs at 8.50. The bulk of common and medium cows cleared from 7.50@8.50, this spread also including the majority of dairy type cows. A three-car string of medium 829-pound Central California cows was also included at 8.50. Others and low cutters moved freely from 7.50@7.00. Odd head of good bulls sold for 8.50 and better, while medium grades turned from 7.50@8.25, with common culls down to 6.75.

CALVES—The small supply sold readily at strong to 50c higher prices. A car of good 207-pound California vealers topped at 14.00, with 354-pound averages out at 12.50, while car of medium or good 249-pound Arizonas turned for 13.75, with 230-pound averages out at 11.50. Small lots of vealers sold from 13.00@14.50, while heavy calves averaging up to 400 pounds sold from 11.00@13.50, with pull and common kinds from 8.00@11.00.

HOGS—Demand narrowed after an early spurt and three loads of butchers were still unsold. Trading was comparatively active at uneven prices, sales made being on a steady to 25c higher basis. The closing sentiment was weak. A load of 197-pound butchers was weighed up without the usual fill at 14.30, while a car of 181-pound averages brought 14.15 on an order. The best price was 14.50, which was for lots of 150 to 200-pound butchers from 14.25@14.00. Four cars of desirable weight California sold from 13.50@13.40. Packing sows were in light supply from 9.50@10.00.

SHEEP—Two truckloads of wooled ewes was yesterday's total supply. Half of the supply, good 67-pound averages, sold for 7.75, while the balance cull 100-pound averages turned for 7.75. Medium to choice wooled ewes were quoted from 8.00@7.00. The lamb market was quoted around 50c higher or from 11.00@12.00 for medium to choice kinds and from 8.00@11.00 for cull and common lambs.

What is the Right Investment Policy?

Should you buy stocks now?

The recent action of the market has created considerable doubt as to the best investment policy for many individuals. Recently many industrial stocks have advanced into new high ground. Rails and public utilities, on the other hand, have been sluggish. The question which should be decided in view of present conditions is unquestionably puzzling.

For this reason, one of the most recent Brookmire Bulletins is devoted to this topic.

It tells you up an investment policy and gives specific advice about Radio, Postum, American Tobacco, U. S. Steel and other stocks. It discusses certain developments in the general situation that are of importance to everyone owning securities. A copy will be forwarded upon request.

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

The town-lot drilling campaign in the Potrero field in the city of Inglewood actually got under way yesterday with the unloading of a steel derrick by the California Eastern Oil Company on its big community lease west of the Inglewood Cemetery. It is understood that the new well, the first in the twn-lot area of Inglewood since the discovery of the field by the Associated Oil Company, is to be drilling on lots 19 and 20 of block No. 4, in tract 146. These lots are a part of the 109-lot community lease which the California Eastern rounded up several months ago, but filed for record only about a week ago. By the terms of the lease drilling was to be started within thirty days after its filing, and the official recording of the instrument last week was interpreted by the oil fraternity of the California Eastern's intention to begin immediate operations, which the unloading of the first derrick yesterday confirmed.

Underground channels yesterday circulated the report that the oil sands which the Associated picked up at 4425 feet in its Pacific Southwest No. 1 well, which has been the subject of considerable speculation in the past couple of weeks, were much thinner than the corresponding sands in the Cypress No. 2 well, the first producer in the field. It is considered probable, on this information, that the Pacific Southwest well may be an edge well, but the fact that it has gone through almost 300 feet of the formation is interpreted as indicating the probability of commercial production, regardless.

Milham Drills Ahead

The Milham Exploration Company is still redrilling in its deep test of the Kettleman Hills field, and is down about 6800 feet, or about 400 feet above the old bottom.

The persistence of the Milham Oil Company in redrilling a hole of such a depth and the frank enthusiasm of officials of the company over the showings in the hole indicate that the test is one of the most encouraging that has been drilled in that portion of the Kettleman Hills. The surrounding acreage is held in large blocks by several of the large operators, and if the Milham has any success in its present hole it is probable that other wells will be drilled to test the extent and the trend of the field without much delay.

Well Still Flows

The San Clemente Oil Company is still getting between 150 and 180 barrels per day out of its first well in the Lawndale district, near Hawthorne, according to field reports. The oil is being hauled away in tank trucks, but it is understood that a tentative pipe-line survey has been made by two of the major refining companies.

Gets Big Well

The Shell company brought in its Babb No. 4 well in the Signal Hill field over the week-end, bringing up one of the largest wells in the field for the past several months. The production is reported to be over 3200 barrels a day, from a depth of 7366 feet. In addition to that the oil the well is making about 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day, it is said. The well is cleaning up satisfactorily, and the gravity is about 29 deg. It is located near the intersection of Cherry avenue and Twenty-third street, and is one of the deepest producers in the entire field.

Down 5160 Feet

The Texas Company is drilling ahead at 5160 feet in its wildcat well near Arvin, in the Weed Patch district, according to authentic report. No showings have been found as yet, it is said.

Five Feet of Sand

The Associated Oil Company has picked up five feet of oil sand in its Voorhies well in the Potrero field, according to unofficial reports. The well was reported to have found a sand at 4683 feet last week, but the extent of the showing was not made public.

New Well Due

The Shell Company expects its Orange No. 17 well in Brea Canyon to come in tomorrow. The well has reached a depth of 5243 feet.

Sets Casing

The Rio Grande Oil Company has completed the running of pipe in the city lease B, No. 10, at the Signal Hill field. This well is expected to come in within a few days.

BOSTON CURB MARKET SURVEYED BY BUREAU

BETTER BUSINESS GROUP ISSUES BULLETIN ON STOCK DECLINE

Thirty-one stocks listed on the Boston Curb Exchange, 1000 shares of which, at their highest price during the years 1925-1928, would have cost investors more than $122,900 had dropped, on the 9th inst., to $16,650, according to a bulletin compiled by the Boston Better Business Bureau and published by the National Better Business Bureau.

Presenting detailed records of thirty-seven issues listed at one time or another on the Boston Curb Exchange, thirty-two tipster sheets, and eighty-five brokers, the bulletin describes tipster-sheet methods, and tells how swindlers who have used the facilities of this exchange for their operations have been convicted, and relates the loss of millions of dollars by the investing public.

No record of any dividend payments by the thirty-seven companies has been found except a 2-cent dividend amounting to $1314.50 paid by one company in 1925 after sale of a single carload of ore for $1544.35 and a 2-cent dividend payment by a second company shortly before it went into receivership.

RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Reaction in London following the reported increase in the stock position was reflected locally in an unsteady opening and a lowering of values during this morning's session of rubber markets here.
Losses of 10 to 20 points were recorded in early trading. Selling pressure, however, was not too heavy and with offerings well taken partial recoveries were made in nearly all positions by midday. The afternoon trading started quietly but with strong buying support developing in the last hour values swung upward.
The outside market reacted on the bearish stock report from abroad and spot declined 5-6c to 19c. London was off 3-16d. to 8 15-16d.

Wheat Futures Move Slowly on Dull Market

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. (Exclusive)—Prices held within relatively narrow limits with a light trade, strength in Winnipeg and in corn offsetting hedging sales. While there was a moderate decline early a good rally from the inside figures followed, and the finish was at net gains of ⅛@⅜c. September corn acted slight and advanced 3¼c over Saturday's close, and finished with a net gain of 2½c, with the deferred futures up ⅛@⅜c for the day. Oats closed ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower, and rye ⅛@⅜c higher. Winnipeg wheat closed 1@1¼c higher.
Fears of wet weather in the prairie provinces were instrumental in advancing wheat prices at Winnipeg, and the advance both here and in that market brought in short covering. Little attention was paid to the official announcement that the pool would make an initial payment of 85c per bushel at Port William or Vancouver, basis No. 1 northern, compared with $1 per bushel last year. Light local frost was expected in Saskatchewan and Alberta.
Winnipeg reported twenty-four cars of new wheat received. The domestic visible increased 5,075,000 bushels for the week, and is 41,140,000 bushels against 37,065,000 bushels at last year. Export demand was fair with sales of 650,000 to 750,000 bushels in all positions, with two cargoes in addition said to have been sold to the Orient in the past few days. Liverpool finished 1⅛@2d higher, in sympathy with the strength in North American.
Persistent short covering was on in September corn through commission houses, and there was also buying credited to leading local bulls. Offerings were the large, and readily absorbed and the upturn was checked by selling against offers. The nearby delivery is easily influenced by any good buying or selling, and the open interest is being steadily reduced, basis was unchanged to 1c lower as compared with the future. New crop months averaged fractionally lower in sympathy with the September. Private crop comments while confirming deterioration in parts of the Western belt, drought and hot weather, were in the main favorable. Forecasts suggested local thunderstorms over the greater part of the corn belt with somewhat lower temperatures.
Cash interests were on the buying sides of oats and prices had a range only ¼@¾c for the day. There was buying of September against sales of December, the difference. Rye was influenced largely by the action of wheat. No export business was indicated at the Chicago board.
Clearing operations in the way of buying September and selling October lard by packing interests was unusually heavy, being well up in the millions of pounds. This was a feature of the trading. Longs sold September and bought December and January. The close was at net losses of 2½@5c.
Trade in meats was limited and ribs closed 2½c higher in an unchanged, and bellies were unchanged.

"Auld Lang Syne's" History

Only the second and third stanzas of this world-famous song were written by Burns, although he retouched them all. A song bearing the same title can be traced in broadsides to the latter part of sixteen hundred, and the phrase, "Auld Lang Syne," was current in the time of Charles I.

DOHENY SUED FOR MILLIONS

American Stockholders Revert to Oil Scandal

Doheny Accused of Fraud in Secret Transaction

Suit to compel Edward L. Doheny, former president of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport company, to reimburse the company in the huge sum, estimated at upward of $11,000,000, which the company is asserted to have lost on account of the notorious Doheny-Fall Elk Hills naval oil lease was filed in the United States District Court here yesterday.

Frank H. Kunkel of Cincinnati, a stockholder in the company, is the plaintiff and is suing on behalf of himself and all other stockholders, the complaint recites. It was filed by Faries & Williamson, attorneys.

The complaint makes many charges against the Beverly Hills multimillionaire oil magnate and asks that Doheny be compelled to answer the charges and that the court order an accounting "to determine the amount of money which the American has lost by reason of the fraud and misconduct of the defendant Doheny." It asks that after this be done the court "render a judgment and decree requiring defendant Doheny to repay the amount thereof together with interest to Pan American for the benefit of its stockholders."

AMOUNT ESTIMATED

Judge Faries, one of the attorneys, estimated the amount as in excess of $11,000,000, including interest.

The American is made a defendant in the action "so it may be bound by any judgment or decree entered by the court and receive the benefits thereof."

The complaint says that "it was judicially found and determined by reason of the fraudulent conduct of the defendant Doheny, the American was indebted to the United States in a large and substantial sum of money and was itself barred from obtaining or recovering from the United States payment for the improvements which it had caused to be constructed and installed pursuant to certain contracts between the Pan American and United States."

The improvements referred to were those built by Doheny interests in the course of their construction of the naval oil base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, some years ago. The contracts referred to were those governing the construction, which are linked with the leasing by the government of the Elk Hills naval reserve in Kern county to the Doheny interests.

CAUSED SCANDAL

The two interlocking deals together gave rise to the scandal in which Doheny and Albert Fall, Secretary of the Interior at the time, were involved some years ago. The deals were set aside and canceled by United States courts.

Describing Doheny's actions, the complaint says that "the conduct of defendant Doheny constituted fraud not only against the United States, but also against Pan American and all its stockholders," and further recites that "Pan American has forever lost said sums so obtained as a direct result of the fraudulent conduct practiced by the defendant Doheny while pretending to act in its behalf and as its agent and representative in making the contracts aforesaid."

This he did, it is charged "at a time when he absolutely controlled the dominated Pan American, its business and policies, and in transactions in which he acted without knowledge, acquiescence or consent of Pan American or its stockholders."

REASON RECITED

Kunkel says in his complaint that he takes this action against Doheny because the board of directors of the company "has taken no action whatever to seek redress from defendant Doheny or to require him to pay to the corporation the moneys which it has been compelled to pay out of its treasury by reason of his own misconduct." He says that he has tried unsuccessfully to get the board to do so.

The complaint says that Doheny has sold his controlling interest in the company to the Pan American Western Petroleum Company, a corporation which, the plaintiff asserts, "is controlled by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana," but that Doheny still is a large stockholder in the company and that "a sub-

BECOMES BRIDE OF CONCERT VIOLINIST

Florence Vidor

HEIFETZ AND MISS VIDOR TAKE VOWS

Violinist and Actress Married Week Ago in East; En Route to Hollywood

A seven-day secret was disclosed yesterday when it became known that Florence Vidor screen actress, and Jascha Heifetz are married. Heifetz told of their marriage, according to news dispatches, when he and Miss Vidor boarded a train yesterday in New York for Hollywood.

JASCHA HEIFETZ

The couple kept the secret up until the last minute, when Heifetz informed his manager, George Engles, of the nuptials. The ceremony occurred in New York on the 20th inst., and was performed by former Supreme Court Justice Charles H. Kelby.

Miss Vidor is returning to Hollywood to fulfill her contract with Paramount, and Heifetz is accompanying her, advices said, to remain here until fall, when he will sail for Europe to make a concert tour. It was not announced whether Miss Vidor will accompany him at that time.

When the actress left Hollywood several months ago to go to Europe on a vacation trip she emphatically denied reports of her engagement to Heifetz, and repeated her denials when they met in New York.

Miss Vidor is the former wife of King Vidor, director of "The Big Parade," now married to Eleanor Boardman, actress. Miss Vidor was given a final decree of divorce in the local court on July 21, 1926, after having been granted an interlocutory decree on July 1, 1925, on the ground of desertion.

MANSLAUGHTER AUTO HEARING POSTPONED

Walter B. Cox, 1830 Tamarind avenue, Hollywood, scheduled to go to trial in Superior Court yesterday on a manslaughter charge growing out of an automobile accident in which Miss Margarita McKenzie was killed, was granted a continuance until September 18, when he appeared before Superior Judge Edmonds. Cox's automobile, it is said, collided with another car driven by Anthony Castro, in which Miss McKenzie was a passenger.

BOOST OF CITY TAX RATE SEEN

Increase of Eleven Cents Appears Inevitable

St. Francis Dam Disaster Leads to Rise

Council Gets Estimates of Controller Tomorrow

An average increase generally of 11 cents in the tax rate for the greater part of the City of Los Angeles for the fiscal year of 1928-29 appeared inevitable yesterday when City Controller Myers submitted his estimate and analysis to the City Council. The Council will act on the recommendation and fix the rate tomorrow.

The Controller's report analyzes the proposed tax rates by the Councilmanic Districts. District Number 3, including Hollywood and San Pedro, has the lowest rate with $1.72. The rate in the district last year was $1.63. District Number 9, the Venice district, has the highest rate with $1.91. Last year the rate in that district was $1.81. Some districts will not have as high an increase because the rate last year in those districts was higher than in others.

RATE BY DISTRICTS

The proposed rates by districts for this fiscal year and of last year are as follows:

District	Rate 1928-29	Rate 1927-28
No. 1	$1.79	$1.68
No. 2	1.79	1.67
No. 3	1.72	1.63
No. 4	1.77	1.67
No. 5	1.79	1.69
No. 6	1.73	1.63
No. 7	1.77	1.66
No. 8	1.86	1.74
No. 9	1.91	1.81
No. 10	1.77	1.73
No 11	1.73	1.62

To the St. Francis Dam disaster is attributed the greatest single factor for the increase in the tax rate. Funding bonds occasioned by the disaster take up 4 cents of the increase. Nothing was charged under this item last year. Harbor bonds take another 6 cents. The harbor department turned over $1,000,000 to the water department for repairs resulting from the dam disaster. The water department also takes another 2 cents increase this year, owing to the disaster.

ITEMS OF RATE

In all districts, the fixed items making up the rate include the following: General government, $1.01; Department of Library, and Department of Parks, each 7 cents; Department of playground and Recreation, 4 cents; permanent improvement, 6 cents; total, $1.25.

Other items on the tax analysis include: Major traffic plan, 9 cents; pensions and 5 per cent accrued deficit, 10 cents; bond redemption and interest funding bonds (dam disaster,) 4 cents; general purpose bonds, 23 cents; harbor bonds, 10 cents; water bonds, 5 cents.

The Council is expected to take up the tax rate at tomorrow's meeting, provided a majority of the Councilmen are present.

EXPLAINS DIFFERENCE

It is explained that the difference in the tax rate among the various districts is due to the requirements for bond redemption and interest. The various taxation districts do not all pay on the same bond issues.

The total amount to be raised under the universal $1.25 rate is estimated at $28,750,000; the total under the bond redemption items will be $10,950,356.83. This, added to receipts from all other sources, such as fees and licenses, and special improvement funds, will bring in a grand total of about $45,616,843.

DISTRICT BOUNDARIES

The taxation districts for which the various rates are established are composed as follows:

District No. 1: Old City, Arroyo Seco; Bairdstown, Highland Park, Hermon, Southern, Western.

ADDITIONAL BEACONS TO AID FLYERS

Lanes Over California's State Highway Will Be Further Illumined

Aviators using air lanes above the California State Highway between Mexico and Canada, will within the next few months be supplied with beacon guides that will make flying more safe and expedite landing, according to plans now being carried to completion by the Highways Communities, Inc., according to Bert Heinly, president of the organization.

"One of these great beacons, about which will be built a community center, will be completed at Capistrano Beach within the next few weeks," said Mr. Heinly.

The beacons, which will be 125 feet high and fifty miles apart, will include red Neon signs all the way to the top, which will show an arrow pointing to the next aviation field and give the number of miles to the landing place.

The Neon Light Corporation will furnish the signs, while the filling stations and the community center at the base will be operated by the Richfield Oil Company.

WARNING PROCLAIMED AGAINST FREE SIGNS

Supporters of candidates for political office in the coming November elections are warned not to post campaign signs or photographs on trees that adorn the streets in Los Angeles county. This warning was issued yesterday by County Forester Turner, who called attention to the fact that sign posting on street trees is contrary to law.

"TIMES" ELECTION SERVICE

The Times will broadcast election returns from the State primary election, county election and special municipal recall election over Radio KHJ this evening and will give returns by telephone to all who call.

Special arrangements have been made by The Times for the expeditious gathering of returns from all parts of the State, and these will be available by radio and telephone as rapidly as tabulated, beginning probably about 8 p.m.

In addition the night street editions of The Times will carry full accounts of the election as compiled up to the hour of publication.

BELL BARRICADE TO FALL

Town's Leaders Organize as Shovel Brigade and Force County to Remove Wall of Earth

Leading merchants and business men of Bell, armed with shovels, spades, picks and rakes, marched on the battlements on East Baker street thrown up by the county officials, demolished a section and retreated victoriously, after signing the "enemy" to humiliating terms of peace. Baker street is the most direct route between Bell and Santa Fe Springs.

For the past six or seven weeks, the merchants declare, they have been considerably harassed and hampered by a twenty-five-foot wall of earth across Baker street just east of town. The wall of earth, it seems, appeared there when trenches were dug for the placing of storm drains. The drains were completed some weeks ago, but no effort was made to put the accumulated dirt back where it belongs.

Numerous petitions and protests were registered, but to little or no avail the Bell folk declare, whereupon they took things into their own hands, organized a back-to-the-soil party and marched on the barricade, determined to open up Baker street again. They started in but a steam shovel, hastily called into action by the county, appeared on the scene, with the promise that the street will be opened today. The merchants then abandoned the campaign, victorious.

Among those engaged in the project were Otto Clare Beck, president of both the Bell Realty Board and the Greater Baker Avenue Improvement Association; H. W. Lull and Paul E. Benjamin, both past commanders of the American Legion; A. L. Tapp, former president of the Bell Chamber of Commerce, and J. A. Fleitzer, editor of the Bell Herald.

VICTOR STACHEL SOUGHT

Mrs. Frances Stachel of 5417 Thrush avenue, St. Louis, asked Los Angeles police yesterday to try and locate her son Victor. She wants to inform him, she said, of the death of his brother William on July 28, last, in a motorcycle accident. Victor was last heard from at Los Angeles two years ago.

CAMPBELL RITES SET FOR TODAY

Pioneer Film Director's Obsequies Will be Under Auspices of Masons

Funeral services for Colin Campbell, 58 years of age, pioneer motion-picture director, will be conducted at 2 p.m. today from the O'Donnell Mortuary, 8814 Sunset Boulevard. The body will be cremated.

COLIN CAMPBELL

Campbell who was among the first directors to migrate to California from the East, and who made the first version of "The Spoilers," with William Farnum and Kathleen Williams, died Sunday morning at his home, 1517 North Orange Grove avenue, following a paralytic stroke three days before. He had been ill for about six weeks.

The funeral services today will be conducted under the auspices of Elysian Lodge of Masons, of which he was a member.

A native of Scotland, Campbell came to this country at the age of 18 years. He became an actor and later a stage director. In 1911 he joined the Selig Film Company, coming to Los Angeles as one of that company's first directors here.

He leaves, besides his widow, Mrs. Blanche Campbell, two sons by a former marriage, Capt. Boniface Campbell, United States Army instructor at Lafayette, Ind., and Colin Campbell, Jr., of Albany, N. Y.

WRIGHT PROGRAMMED

Ben G. Wright, manager of public relations of the Southern California Telephone Company, will be the speaker at the Masonic Club luncheon tomorrow noon. He will speak on "Some of the Newer Things in the Telephone Industry." Carl Pirie and his Masonic Club Orchestra will furnish the musical program.

MAIDEN NAME RESTORED

Mrs. Beatrice Laycock was before Superior Judge Allen yesterday asking for a divorce from Clark Laycock and the restoration of her maiden name on the grounds of desertion. Both requests were granted and she left the courtroom Miss Beatrice Schremp, the same as she was before she married Clark Laycock at San Diego in August, 1925.

CITIZENS URGED TO VOTE TODAY

Polls for Primary Will Be Open Thirteen Hours

Many Important Positions at Stake in Ballot

Supervisors and Judges Have Place in Limelight

VOTE TODAY!

Each registered voter in California will have thirteen hours today in which to vote for national, State and local candidates.

The actual time required for casting a ballot in most cases will not exceed five minutes, and the entire transaction, from the time of leaving home or office for a designated polling place until returning, will not consume a half hour.

Offices to which candidates are seeking nomination or election today involve the expenditure of millions of dollars, the enactment and administration of law, and the general affairs of State and county government.

Failure to cast a ballot is actually a refusal to look after your own interests. The Times urges every eligible voter to go to the polls some time during the day. A light vote will mean minority control—which is costly, often unwise and almost always selfish.

Urging the voters of Los Angeles county to go to the polls early today in the biennial primary election in order to expedite the work of the election boards, Registrar of Voters Kerr yesterday issued a statement in which he said he expects a total of more than 300,000 votes on the 778 candidates who present themselves for offices ranging from United States Senator to member of the county central committee.

The polls, in 2708 polling places, open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. The parties represented are Republican, which is preponderant, Democratic, Socialist and Prohibitionist. In addition, all of the 789,895 registered voters, regardless of party affiliation, may cast their ballots on the judiciary, county offices and the two county propositions.

LIST OF OFFICES

The offices to be voted on are United States Senator, Ninth and Tenth Congress districts, five State Senatorial districts, fifteen Assembly districts, three Supervisorial Districts, three positions on the District Court of Appeal, eighteen positions on the Superior Court, District-Attorney, two county propositions and the special municipal recall election against Councilman Rice-Wray in the Sixth Councilmanic District.

Mr. Kerr yesterday advised all election officers to adhere strictly to the instructions sent out by his office. He urged all officers to follow directions in respect to the tabulation and in notifying by telephone their election return centers so that the public may be advised at the earliest possible time of the results.

All candidates and organizations interested in the outcome of the election combined yesterday in a drive to get out the greatest possible vote.

IMPORTANT PLACES

Inasmuch as the Republican nominees for the Legislature are assured of election in November, the Los Angeles county legislative delegation will be chosen today, and it behooves all those with more than a casual interest in the affairs, not only of the State and county, but their own as well, to register their choice in their representative at Sacramento.

Likewise, eight positions on the Superior Court bench are at stake, while an energetic effort to undermine the program of construction and development, under way in the county government, is being pressed in the attempt to unseat the three incumbent Supervisors, McClellan, Bean and Wright, now candidates for re-election.

Many civic organizations, as well as public-spirited leaders, are urging an affirmative vote on Proposition No. 1, a bond issue of $1,000,000 to acquire land on which the State

His contributions to The Times on aviation ought to be notable. A lot of reckless blades ere this have leaped into airplanes and have accomplished great deeds through sheer luck.

Lindy is not in this class. He probably knows more about flying than any other pilot who ever guided an airship. He will have something to say.

Also, after he becomes one himself his heart may warm a little toward the demon reporter.

CHEERS FOR HOOVER

Hoover's triumphant reception on returning to Washington was significant. You will notice that they like him best where they know him best.

Ordinarily a Presidential candidate means nothing in the life of our hard-boiled national capital. It is a town blase to political fame.

The only way you can get a rise our of Washington is to have "the goods." And Herbert is there with the goods. In Hoover and Andrew Mellon this country has two of the most remarkable public officials who ever sat in the Cabinet. The effects of their work will be felt in the affairs of this nation's business for many years to come.

UNHAPPY CHINESE FLAPPER

The bitter problem of the Americanized oriental has been taken up by the Institute of Politics at its session in St. Louis.

One speaker says that an American-educated Chinese girl has the following choice: To marry a Chinese boy and scare him to death with American styles; to marry an American and ostracise her children; to remain an old maid, or commit suicide.

It is a tough riddle; but only a temporary riddle. The worse it is the sooner the solution will be found.

THE RIDDLE'S ANSWER

The only possible solution is the modernizing of China. The political impulse behind the affairs of China comes from the young fellows who have been educated at American universities. Sooner or later they will drag old China up through the ages—into a startled modernity.

When this comes the diplomatic world will have a new and terrific force with which to reckon, and I doubt if China herself will be any happier. Meanwhile the Chinese girl, with flapper ideas will have to endure a good deal of loneliness—while she works out her destiny.

THE PESSIMISTIC TURKEY

Einstein may be a great man; George Bernard Shaw writes slick plays; Gene Tunney can lick anybody in the world; Lindbergh can chase the clouds around the sky.

But they hold no place in my admiration in comparison to the man—or woman—who can raise turkeys.

You start out with what looks like a great flock and they drop out into eternity like leaves falling from a tree. They don't die of anything in particular; they just die. They look upon life, find nothing in it, and reach back with a sigh to the spirits of their ancestors.

Some day I am going to find a duck to bring up the turkeys. Nothing can kill a duck. You could run over one with an auto truck and she would like the joke. They thrive on heat, cold, starvation or famine. What a turkey needs is a duck's outlook on life.

Romance of Southern California dating back to the founding of the old San Gabriel Mission in 1771, presenting the dreamy music of the dons and refreshment of Spanish viands marked the third day of the sojourn of the American Association of Railway Advertising Agents yesterday.

Marvels of the development in the West from a land of sagebrush of a great metropolitan center were shown the guests in panoramic splendor from great cabin airplanes, and a first-hand view of the motion-picture industry, a thrill to all visitors, was given at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

The day was replete with incident, evolving on a schedule representing a unity of endeavor on the part of transportation companies, industries and organizations to extend an unprecedented welcome under the direction of the All-Year Club.

After seeing motion pictures in the making, the parlor cars of the Tanner Motor Tours and the Gray Line Motor Tours conducted the party to the Uplifters' Ranch in Santa Monica Canyon, where a Spanish luncheon was served through the courtesy of Harry Chandler. Beneath the giant oaks and sycamores, attuned to the music and dancing of Jose Arias and his Mexican Entertainers, two hours were spent at the banquet tables.

FORGERY HEARINGS SET

City and Telephone Company Employees Accused of Check Manipulation to Face Court

Preliminary hearings of E. J. Soper, for the past six years deputy chief accountant in the city Building and Safety Department, and Earl Reynolds, formerly a city employee and more recently an employee of the Southern California Telephone Company, on charges of forgery, have been set for tomorrow.

The two men were arrested on the 14th inst., accused of having attempted to secure $1600 on a check to which the assertedly forged signature of C. M. Good, cashier of the telephone company, was affixed. Both men confessed, according to police, and both have since been out on bail.

METHOD DESCRIBED

According to arresting officers, Soper, who lives at 443 North Hoover street, was left in charge of vouchers, pay rolls, expenditures, etc., in the absence of his superior on vacation, and was empowered to sign checks. On the 7th inst., the police report states, he drew a "legitimate demand," as city checks are called, for $1600 payable to the telephone company, which had been due the company for some time for use by the city of telephone company conduits for the fire alarm signal system.

When this was issued, it is declared, Soper met Reynolds by prearrangement and turned the check over to him. Reynolds is accused of then forging an indorsement in Good's name and attempting to have the check put through on an account by George Bowers, proprietor of a gasoline station at Seventy-ninth and Main streets.

Fervent Love Letters Found in Mellus Home

"DADDY" NOTES LAID TO KELLY

He Discloses Hiding Place of Erotic Missives

Jury Sees Death House at Start of Trial

State Hurls Its Charges in Opening Attack

Fervent love letters, headed "Dear Myrt" and signed "Daddy," found in a secret drawer in the home of Mrs. Myrtle Mellus, slain society woman, last night added a new interest to the trial of Leo P. Kelley, butcher boy charged with Mrs. Mellus's murder.

Strangely enough, it was Kelley himself who told where the letters could be found, and his statement was made while officers were escorting the jury that will try him for murder through the Mellus residence at 811 South Rimpau Boulevard.

"There are some secret drawers in the bureau in Mrs. Mellus's bedroom; see what you can find there," said Kelley.

ENDEARING TERMS

Captain of Detectives Cato of the Wilshire division explored the bureau, found the secret compartment, and from it took three letters and a photograph of Kelley.

The letters were addressed to a "Mrs. D. F. Rathbun, Ensenada," but Capt. Cato declared that it is apparent that they were written to Mrs. Mellus some time last December by Kelley.

Couched in endearing terms, the missives not only showed the intimacy that existed between the correspondents, but made frequent mention of others by first names or initials. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Costello, after learning of their contents, refused to make their complete text public, declaring that he wished to protect Frank R. Mellus, the husband, from further embarrassment or mental anguish. Defense Attorney Hahn announced last night he will demand the letters be produced in court.

A woman designated "Helen" and another as "Belle," together with references to other men and apparent love affairs, appeared in the letters. Kelley, himself, had no comment to make on the letters.

CROWDS AT HOME

Crowds of curious persons surrounded the Mellus mansion yesterday long lohg before the jury arrived to view the scene of the slaying, and they surrounded the house the entire time the veniremen and women spent on the inside.

A scene unusual in court history occurred on the front lawn of the Mellus home when Superior Judge Bowron swore in Detective Lieutenant Arthur Stoll, one of the chief investigators in the case, as "guide" to conduct the jury through the house. Stoll particularly was instructed by Judge Bowron not to comment on anything that might pertain to the evidence in the case, but simply to point out those things that later may have a significance in court.

The entire court personnel was present at the Mellus house and a regular session of court conducted. Court reporters, bailiffs, special guards of deputy sheriffs, defense attorneys and defendant filed through the house and about the grounds.

OPENING STATEMENT

Particular attention was paid to the maid's room, where the State will assert Kelley and Mrs. Mellus began a drinking party that ended in death, and in the closet, where Kelley later was found by arresting officers. In connection with the closet, it is learned that the prosecution will contend that no one could stay in the closet for two hours, as Kelley asserts he did, without suffocating.

The jury to try the case was finally selected just before the noon session of court closed yesterday, and an alternate juror, George C. Bentley, chosen the first thing in the afternoon. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Costello then made his opening statement to the jury.

The State will prove, Costello contended, that Kelley is a degenerate, as a motive for his asserted slaying of Mrs. Mellus.

CHARGES OUTLINED

After outlining the charge that Kelley had been a frequent visitor at the Mellus home, and that he was at the Wilshire residence from 8:30 a.m. on the 5th inst. until he was discovered hiding in a closet at about 6 p.m., about thirty minutes after the body of Mrs. Mellus was discovered by her husband on a bed upstairs, the assistant District Attorney stated that he expects to prove that the woman's body was badly mutilated and "that the defendant is a degenerate."

After Judge Bowron adjourned court at the Mellus home last night until tomorrow at 10 a.m., on account of the election holiday, the prosecution attorneys announced that hey will call as heir first witness County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner. Wagner will give the cause of death, and according to the attorneys, testify that the woman was subjected to torture and mutilation before receiving the blow that proved fatal.

HUSBAND TO TESTIFY

Following the surgeon, Frank Mellus, the husband, will take the stand to identify the murdered woman as his wife, and tell of his fishing trip, return home, and the finding of the lifeless form. It is expected that most of Wednesday will be consumed in the examination of the surgeon and Mellus, but should time permit, Mrs. Maggie Ferris, negro maid at the Mellus home for eight months prior to the tragedy, will be called.

The morning session of court yesterday was conducted fifteen minutes over the recess hour to obtain a jury. Many talesmen passed through the box, and Defense Attorney Hahn exercised all twenty peremptory challenges in an effort to unseat the male jurors and obtain as near an all-woman jury as possible. The prosecution used nineteen challenges, but expressed satisfaction when the box of twelve was filled with the six women and six men.

LIST OF JURORS

The jurors as finally selected are: Henry Gedeman, 1383 Maltman avenue; A. S. Baker, Long Beach; Edwin Knupp, 1918 Whitley avenue; Mrs. Ella G. Gehr, Glendora; Jeanette Haskell, Long Beach; Florence Kimball, 3514 University avenue; Fred A. Parmenter, South Gate; Mrs. Annie Elliott, El Monte; Henry Bjorkman, San Pedro; Mrs. Anna E. Wilson, Venice; Mrs. Alva C. Fletcher, Glendale, and R. G. Boyles, Glendale. George A. Bentley, 27 East Fifty-fifth street, Long Beach, was named as alternate, after several had passed through the box during the first hour after the noon recess.

Mayor, Again to Ask Spradling About Resigning

In a second letter to be sent by Mayor Cryer to Health Commissioner Spradling the latter's attention will be called to the fact that the Mayor a month ago asked for Spradling's resignation, the Mayor announced yesterday when questioned as to the next move in the ignoring by Spradling of the resignation request on the ground that he was supported by President Pontius in his row with City Health Commissioner Parrish.

The Mayor said he will request Spradling to make known what he is going to do about the resignation.

Asked if he intends to fire Spradling if the latter does not recognize his second letter, the Mayor said: "That bridge can be crossed when we reach it."

of the All-Year Club, introduced President H. L. Weir of the association, and Mr. Chandler sketched briefly the birth of the All-Year Club.

"The conviction that Southern California has a climate in summer even more desirable than the even temperatures of the winter months was responsible for the birth of the All-Year Club," he said. "Originally, hotel men believed that their business was to be created during the months from November to May. 'Our prices must be made on the basis of returns during these seven months to take care of losses for the other five months of the year,' they said.

"'But summer in Southern California is better than winter; the sunshine and the welcome is always here. It is only necessary to convince our eastern friends of this and the business will hold all year,' was pointed out and the All-Year Club came into being. Los Angeles is now entertaining as many eastern tourists in June, July and August as has been recorded in the past for winter months.

"The cosmopolitanism of this city is augmenting a development that will prove far reaching in our future. I refer to the Latin-American influence. Possibly you gentlemen do not realize the fact that Los Angeles has a population of 165,000 Spanish-Mexican people, a population larger than that of any city in Mexico except the City of Mexico itself. Added to this is the increasing number of people coming here from South America. California is of Spanish origin in its people and because of that fact it is fitting that today the music and atmosphere of Mexico should be presented to you."

FROSTING OF CAKE

No better evidence of the degree to which the visitors are enjoying themselves and entering into the spirit of the tour may be found than in the fact that forty-five of the fifty-one guests made the airplane flight at Rogers' Airport in midafternoon as guests of J. L. Maddux, president of Maddux Air Lines, Inc.

"This is the top frosting of the cake," said President Weir, when he came back to earth. "We have looked into the bowl of prosperity."

John Steven McGroarty, author of the Mission Play, personally conducted the guests into the warm heart of the old San Gabriel setting and as the sun dipped on the horizon the assemblage was seated beneath the great mother grapevine at a Spanish fiesta dinner as guests of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Today will be Catalina Day, concluding upon return to the mainland with a dinner and entertainment at the Biltmore as guests of James Woods and Charles Baad.

stantial number, but less than a majority" of its directors now are or formerly were connected with Doheny and "to a considerable extent are under his domination or control."

Referring to the contracts by which Doheny interests, assertedly dominated by Doheny and without knowledge of stockholders, gained control of the Elk Hills naval oil reserves from Secretary Fall, the complaint says that the contracts were executed "pursuant to a conspiracy fraudulently made and carried into execution by the said Fall and the said Doheny and as a result of collusion between them."

MONEY CHARGES

The complaint says that prior to the execution "the defendant Doheny caused to be delivered to the said Fall, at the latter's request, secretly and surreptitiously, $100,000 in currency and tentatively agreed to give to said Fall employment after he ceased to be Secretary of the Interior; that if this said sum of money was not given to the said Fall by the defendant Doheny as a direct bribe, the effect thereof was to obtain from the said Fall, corruptly and fraudulently, his dominating influence as Secretary of the Interior representing the United States in furtherance of the plan and scheme of the defendant Doheny to obtain from the United States the contracts and leases hereinbefore described and to make it impossible for said Fall loyally and faithfully to serve the interests of the United States in the making of said contracts and leases."

The case in which the government got the courts to nullify the Doheny-Fall deals was begun in Los Angeles before Federal Judge McCormick in 1925 and eventually reached the United States Supreme Court, the government winning points in each court successively.

TREMENDOUS LOSS

The Doheny organizations had spent some $10,000,000 in building a naval oil base in Hawaii in connection with their procuring the rights to take oil from the Kern county naval oil reserve and had incurred other expenses on account of the deals. The courts nullified the whole of the transactions and Doheny interests lost what they had expended illegally. It is this loss that occasioned the Kunkel suit.

The Doheny-Fall scandal came to light in a United States Senate oil investigation several years ago, which uncovered also a similar scandal between Fall and Harry Sinclair, another oil magnate, who had leased the Teapot Dome naval reserve. The deals have received much publicity and resulted in various litigation.

COMMENT REFUSED

"I have not seen the complaint and so wish to say nothing about it," Mr. Doheny said last night when advised of the court action against him. "In any event I probably would wish to submit it to my counsel before commenting."

Kunkel is understood to be of the Cincinnati attorney firm, Kunkel & Kunkel. The firm appears as counsel in the case and associated with it are Day & Day, Cleveland (O.) attorney firm, and also John A. Elden, another Cleveland attorney, as well as Faries & Williamson of Los Angeles.

FARM JOB BRANCH SOUGHT

City Club Speaker Urges Federal Bureau to Help State During Heavy Harvest Months

Resolutions calling on Congress and the United States Employment Service to extend the farm labor division administration to California, giving this State, during the fruit season, the same privileges accorded other States, were adopted yesterday by the State affairs section of the City Club following an address by Seth R. Brown, chief of the division of State employment agencies.

"While the State employment department can take pretty good care of job seekers most of the time, the Federal government could relieve the unemployment situation by establishing seasonal employment offices for farm labor in this State during the height of our fruit harvesting months," said Mr. Brown.

Of the thirty-eight States which operate employment bureaus, California is second in the number of placements of laborers, according to the speaker, who said that the only opposition to the State employment agencies department comes from the private employment agencies.

"There are 350 private employment agencies in California," said Mr. Brown. "Their fee for placement of a laborer is more than $2, while the State agency obtains work for the unemployed free of charge, the cost to the State being about 46 cents per job."

Mr. Brown suggested that municipalities give more attention to public improvements during the winter months, when the unemployment situation is most acute, and said that California is ideally situated to carry on public improvements during December, January and February.

GIRL ADMITS KIDNAP YARN MERELY FIB

Elizabeth Duthie Made Up Wild Story When Officer Found Her on Street

Elizabeth Duthie, 13-year-old Detroit girl, who told police that she had been kidnaped in the Michigan city and forced by her abductor to accompany him to Los Angeles, yesterday admitted to Juvenile Hall officials that this was a fabrication and that she came here to visit Hollywood.

The girl told Policewoman Sheldon that she took $135 from the home of her father and that the only men she had talked to on her trip here were Pullman porters. "I bought a Pullman berth," the girl said, "and when I arrived I found that I didn't have enough money left to get to Hollywood. When the policeman found me I made up the kidnaping story."

James Duthie, father of the girl, and Detroit juvenile officials say the child's present story is correct. She will be held in Juvenile Hall here until Detroit probation officers arrive to accompany her home.

HEARING SET FOR ACCUSED

This took place on the 11th inst., according to police. Bowers took the check to the Broadway branch of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, after telling Reynolds to return on the 14th or 15th inst., after the check had time to pass through the clearinghouse.

SUSPICION STIRS

Suspicions were aroused by the unusual procedure and police were called in. Detective Lieutenants Curtis and Jones of the Seventy-seventh-street division, with H. A. Hansley, investigator for the telephone company, traced the check and city records and finally arrested Soper at the City Hall. They were unable to locate his accomplice, they assert, until they ran down the slender clew of the service station man having heard one of the two men who called on him referred to as "Earl." A check of former employees in both the city and telephone company offices led to Reynolds, they state, and he was arrested at his home at 2807 South Harvard street.

According to confessions asserted to have been made by the pair, their agreement was to split fifty-fifty on the proceeds of the swindle. Reynolds is said to have been in financial difficulties and to have needed about $800 to clear him. Investigation disclosed, police say, that he was formerly a city employee, and had since worked for the telephone company and so was familiar with Good's signature.

FURTHER TANGLE

...Sweeney yesterday further tan... ...the already puzzling maze of ...given, so far submitted by each ...by reading into the records a ...revised statement. The prosecution last week presented thousands of Sweeney's personal checks in court, covering a period from 1922 to 1928, inclusive, which totaled $368,491. Virtually all of the money, the State contends, was spent by Sweeney for his personal benefit. At the same time the State pointed out that Sweeney's total deposits from 1922 to 1928 did not exceed by more than a few dollars the total disbursements, leaving him without funds with which to carry on his asserted bribe transactions.

Sweeney said yesterday that he had gotten back from the $368,491 expended, approximately $123,000. This, he said, was accomplished through the sale of real estate, reimbursements from individuals for private loans and returns on investments. He was frequently a bit vague about where the $123,000 came from, but, nevertheless, insisted "it came back."

LISTS INCOME

He also said that during that same period his personal income was $130,000, as follows: Salary, $35,000; returns from crops on lands owned by himself alone and with others, $15,000; commissions on sale of property and returns on investments, $20,000; profits from bail-bond operations in partnership with G. W. Losekamp, $60,000. Added to that he said was the $187,563.76 obtained on the false vouchers.

Under cross-examination Sweeney changed his story about Losekamp. He first testified that he had a silent partnership with Losekamp, now dead, but when called upon to explain why he had not shown the revenue obtained from deals with him on his income-tax return, he said Losekamp was really a corporation.

Asked if he owned stock in the corporation, Sweeney said no, that he just had a private arrangement with Losekamp and that they were close personal friends.

"Where did he live?" suddenly demanded Dennison.

"I don't know," replied Sweeney.

"Where was his office?" asked Dennison.

"I don't know."

"What was his telephone number?"

"When did he die?" the prosecutor continued.

"I don't remember."

"Did you attend his funeral?"

"No."

MANY NEW SIGNS WARN MOTORISTS

Protection for motorists in Southern California against crashes with Pacific Electric Railway carriers is being augmented by the installation of $38,250 worth of signals at automobile crossings, D. W. Pontius, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Electric, disclosed yesterday.

Three hundred warning signals, bold white crosses on black backgrounds, have been suspended above roadway approaches to crossing where traffic is too light to justify installation of automatic wigwags, according to Mr. Pontius. The program calls for 428 of these overhead signals, at a cost of $15,250. Thirty-seven wigwags, twenty-five of which are in operation, also are on the program. These represent an expenditure of $23,000.

Los Angeles will receive 200 of the stationary crossing markers, Mr. Pontius said, while the balance will be placed in incorporated surrounding cities through which the Pacific Electric operates. The markers are twenty-four inches square and are to be illuminated at night.

TWO BADLY INJURED IN ACCIDENTS

Automobile Collisions May Result Fatally to Woman and Boy

Two persons were so seriously injured in two automobile collisions yesterday afternoon that both may die.

Maude Bruner, 48 years of age, of 428 East Ninety-ninth street, was removed from the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital last night to the White Memorial Hospital with a severe skull fracture received in a collision between her car and one driven by R. C. Savage, 4218 Lockwood street. The accident occurred at the intersection of Eighty-eighth and Main streets.

Albert Morales, 16, who lives at 1941 South Main street, also received a skull fracture when his car and one driven by R. Brown, 2911 Kenwood street, collided at Vernon avenue and Alameda street. After being treated at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital he was removed to the General Hospital. His condition is serious.

ONE TROTH BROKEN, ANOTHER DISCLOSED

Lena Melena

Hollywood is likely to become accustomed to surprises if things keep on as in the past in the matter of unexpected marital announcements. The latest to add to the list is Lena Malena, film player.

She surprised her friends by announcing that her engagement to Melbourne Spurr, photographer, has been broken, and that she will become the bride of Manfred Noa, a director, when she returns to Germany within a short time.

Miss Malena is going to Germany to make pictures under Noa's direction and says they plan to marry in Berlin. She adds that she and Noa will return in the near future.

The breaking of her engagement to Spurr is somewhat of a shock in Hollywood. Her betrothal to the photographer was announced after she rescued him from drowning when a small boat capsized off Catalina several months ago.

EVANGELIST OFF MONDAY FOR EUROPE

Aimee Semple McPherson Will Conduct Series of Meetings Abroad

Aimee Semple McPherson will leave Los Angeles next Monday on the first lap of a tour that will take her to four European countries where she will conduct a series of revivals in nine cities.

The evangelist departs from New York at midnight September 8, on the Ile de France, and will be accompanied by her son, Rolf, and Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Eade. Mr. Eade is assistant pastor to Mrs. McPherson at Angelus Temple.

Upon arrival at London, Mrs. McPherson will open her campaign with an evangelistic service in Royal Albert Hall, where she conducted a campaign during her much-discussed Holy Land tour of three years ago, and which shortly preceded the kidnaping affair which occurred within a few weeks after her return to this country.

Services in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales will be conducted under the supervision of Rev. Harry Jeffries of London, who heads a chain of fifty-six Four Square Gospel churches, all under the Angelus Temple banner, Mrs. McPherson announced last night. The second stop will be Glasgow, where the revival is scheduled to be held in the Municipal Hall there.

Mrs. McPherson said she has been planning the trip for more than a year. During her three months' absence, assistant pastors will carry on the work at the temple.

Roberta Semple, Mrs. McPherson's daughter, gave up the opportunity to make the trip in order to finish high school, the evangelist said.

Inquiry Today to Clear Case of Drug Victim

Investigation today will clear up the mystery surrounding the case of Gertrude Warnke, 17-year-old girl, found in a semiconscious condition Sunday night, and believed suffering from an over-dose of sleep-producing drugs, deputy sheriffs said last night.

The girl came out of her comatose condition late yesterday at the General Hospital, where she had been taken for treatment, and gave the officers sufficient information to clear up the case. Her story will be checked today.

Robert C. Allison, 24, is held in the County Jail on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor in connection with the case. Investigating officers declare that Allison purchased the drugs, which the prisoner does not deny, but insists that the girl took the tablets voluntarily.

CHIEF DAVIS OFF TO MARKSMAN MATCHES

Chief of Police Davis, one of the best pistol shots in the United States, left last night on the Union Pacific for Camp Perry, O. He will compete there in the national marksmanship championship of the United States police departments. Last year the Los Angeles police department won the championship, nosing out the Pasadena police department by 18 points. The Los Angeles police team is at Camp Perry now.

HOSPITAL BIDS CUT ESTIMATES

Supervisor Bean Declares County Saving Million

Cost of Structure to be Near $3000 Per Bed

Job Expected to be Complete in About Five Years

Bids for the general construction of the acute unit and parts of the other work of the County Hospital, opened yesterday by the Board of Supervisors, show that the work will cost about $1,000,000 less than the original estimates, it was announced by Supervisor Bean.

The low bid, $3,017,000, for the general construction job was tendered by Weymouth Crowell. Other bids received were: C. J. Kubach Company, $3,239,142; Mittri Brothers Construction Company, $3,269,800, and Clinton Construction Company, $3,784,000.

The Newbery Electric Company, with a bid of $719,491, made the lowest tender for electrical work. Howe Brothers, with a bid of $345,285, were lowest for the heating installation contract. For ventilation, the bid of the Thomas Haverty Company, at $178,182, was lowest. The Llewellyn Iron Works made the low bid for the laundry chutes, $92,025.

The bids, according to Supervisor Bean, indicate that the hospital will be completed at a cost of $3000 per bed. The cost of one hospital recently completed in this city is said to have been about $11,000 per bed.

The job will be completed in about five years.

ALUMNI OF LOYOLA IN AID PLEDGE

Former Students Meet for Reunion at Fund Drive Headquarters

Pledging themselves to give fullest support to the campaign to raise $4,000,000 for the construction of a new Loyola University, 150 members of the alumni association held their first reunion in twenty years in campaign headquarters, 137 West Washington street, last night.

The former students of Loyola College were brought together by John Costello, president of the alumni. Father Joseph Sullivan, S. J., president of Loyola, explained the necessity of their aid to make the fund-raising campaign a success.

A plea to aid alma mater also was made by Leo Carrillo, actor. A graduate of old St. Vincents, the original name of Loyola, Carrillo said that his success is due to the grounding he received there.

Mr. Potter had been in ill health for some time before his death, undergoing an operation in San Francisco three months ago. He married Miss Sarah Weir in San Francisco in 1879, and two years later moved to New York to establish the Stewart and Potter Company, one of the leading manufacturers of shoe lasts in the country. Orphan Asylum Children to Be at Party Today

Today is the day of days for some 300 children of the Los Angeles Orphan Asylum, for early this morning they will climb into a fleet of motor busses to participate in the birthday party given for them by Fred H. Solomon at the Topanga Canyon ranch.

Headed by a band, the caravan will make a sightseeing tour of the west bay beaches en route to the estate where Solomon provides festivities for the children every year.

Plans for the morning include games and swimming in the outdoor pool. A noonday feast, which has been in preparation for some days under the supervision of Wu Chung, Solomon's Chinese chef, will be spread under the sycamore trees.

In the afternoon guests will enjoy dancing, band concerts, rides on Solomon's ponies and visits to his aviary of rare birds and his kennels of police dogs.

Today's Bible Text

How much better is it to get wisdom than gold! and to get understanding rather to be chosen than silver! Prov. xvi:16.

HARD TO PLEASE

There's no satisfying some people. Fussy moviegoers used to complain that the pictures hurt their eyes. Now they protest that they hurt their ears.

AN ENTOMOLOGICAL CRITIC

Dr. L. O. Howard of the United States Bureau of Entomology says this is the age of insects. As if the reformers hadn't roasted the people of this period quite enough.

WELCOME WAITS

Anyhow, it looks as if the American farmer would be able to reach the desk of the next administration without resorting to blasting powder. All the politicians and statesmen have sent out invitations.

A DISCREET POET

Very few poets exhibit as much prudence as the one encountered by Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, in North Carolina the other day. Mr. Borglum says that this rhymester submitted a bunch of poems to him and then disappeared.

UNFIT FOR POLITICS

Mussolini says women are unfit for politics, and bases his contention on the ground that they change their minds. But how long has it been since this same Mussolini was writing Socialistic pamphlets which he has since banned from circulation?

OH, MONSIEUR!

M. Paul Poiret, retired costumer of Paris, says that "women of today are indecently dressed." He adds: "Street and evening dresses have removed from women all their charm and mystery." That part about the mystery may be allowed to pass, but the charm—never.

THAT SMITH SMILE

What did Senator Walsh mean when he said, "I believe a Republican struck a responsive chord when he said he was going to vote for Smith because he wanted to see a smile in the White House"? Is it the kind of response received by the fellow who in pre-Volstead days invited a man out to have a smile between the acts?

GREWSOME SOUVENIRS

One likes to believe the best of the human race, particularly those members of it who are classed as civilized. But what about this? At the battlefield of Verdun the authorities are having great trouble with tourists who are looking for souvenirs. They prod into the ground, unearth skulls, flourish them with glee and carry them away. One tourist company furnishes spades to the parties it sends to the place. What price glory, indeed, if the bones of war heroes are given final resting place in home cabinets or on mantelpieces?

ROYALTY IN OVERALLS

Above everything else, Prince Charles of Belgium says that he likes to put on a pair of old blue overalls and monkey around with mechanics. Clad in his oil-spattered jeans he recently drove a locomotive from Brussels to Cliney, a distance of fifty miles, at the rate of ninety miles an hour. One of his favorite diversions is to visit the railroad workshops at Ghent, where he can work among the engines and indulge his penchant for mechanics to the full. He can pull a motor car to pieces and put it together again. Prince Charles should be an example to the young lounge lizards of Europe.

LOVE DEMENTIA

After consulting notes some of the lawyers and psychologists have joined in offering the plea of Alzheimer's disease as a defense in certain love tragedies. It sounds a bit impressive to a jury and if it can be made to explain why a wife puts arsenic in her husband's oatmeal and runs away with a jockey it will do its bit in court. The disease is mentioned as being an amorous mania that bites a wastrel when he loses his wisdom teeth and can't bite back. He craves fresh sensation in dalliance and is liable to develop a criminal ingenuity that needs some explanation like this. It looks as if they should have drowned Alzheimer when he was a pup.

THE MEXICAN PRESIDENCY

Friends of Mexico, anxious to see its task of reconstruction and rehabilitation go forward without interruption or setback, view with some concern the plan of President Calles to retire as Chief Executive of the republic at the expiration of his term, December 1. A petition signed by representatives of nearly all the numerous political parties of the country, urging that the President retain office until the next general election in 1930, will be presented to the Mexican Congress when it convenes at the capital September 1.

Support of the movement to make possible the retention of President Calles's services over the critical period of emergency now existing in Mexico is not confined to that country alone. In sympathy with it are the friends of peace everywhere, the bulk of the extensive American and other foreign interests in Mexico which have found in Calles a strong and just friend of legitimate enterprise, and those disinterestedly desirous that Mexico shall early attain and maintain her rightful place in the family of nations.

There is no intent on the part of outsiders unwarrantedly to interfere in the domestic affairs of Mexico nor to thrust upon her unsolicited and gratuitous advice. Were Mexico alone concerned in the matter it would be nobody's business but hers.

To an ever-increasing extent, however, the welfare of Mexico is of primary interest to the United States and, apart from the large commercial interests which would suffer from a recurrence of revolutionary conditions in our sister republic, anything imperiling the peace and stability of Mexico is a blow to the whole structure of friendship and understanding so laboriously building up among the nations of the Western Hemisphere.

President Calles is a man in whom not only his own people but the world at large has confidence. The manner in which he met and mastered the highly perilous situation created by the assassination of his elected successor, Gen. Alvaro Obregon, has strengthened that confidence. Another revolution boiled very close to the surface in the tense days following Obregon's murder, and that there was no actual outbreak is striking evidence of the firm grip which President Calles has on national affairs and of his ability and determination to maintain peace under the most critical conditions.

It cannot be said, however, that the emergency is past. The same elements of unrest responsible for Obregon's assassination and for the sporadic revolts occurring periodically in many parts of Mexico are obviously only biding their time, awaiting a favorable opportunity for a major attempt to seize the reins of government. That they are being kept in check at all is largely due to the stern strength of Calles personally.

Unquestionably the retirement of Calles from his post as the active and vigilant head of affairs would supply the "reaccionaries" with precisely the opportunity they have been awaiting. Any successor as President would, of necessity, have to be rather hurriedly chosen and would go into office with but few of the assets of experience and influence which have enabled Calles to cope with the situation.

There may be others in Mexico who are the equals of Calles in personal force and ability, but the fact that they are unknown means also that they lack the public support, without which no Mexican administration can hope to survive, however able its head. The confidence of a people is a plant of slow growth and one not to be forced by artificial methods. The few months yet remaining before the expiration of Calles's term are hardly sufficient for a new man to demonstrate the qualities of leadership demanded by this crisis.

The decision of President Calles to retire is undoubtedly prompted by his natural reluctance to seem to go against the letter of the Constitution which he himself was instrumental in framing and which he interprets as requiring him to step out at the end of the term for which he was chosen. But in the meantime the Constitution has been changed to extend the Presidential term to six years and it is accepted by several of the political groups that it would be entirely practicable for the incoming Congress to apply this amendment to the incumbent, especially in view of the existing emergency which the no-self-succession rule certainly did not contemplate.

The extension of the Calles term for two years would give time for new leaders to develop and to come forward, winning the confidence of the Mexican public and of the world. Further, it would give Calles himself the time needed more adequately to repair the damage wrought Mexico's political structure by the assassination of Obregon, permanently to deal with incipient revolutionists and generally to pave the way for his own peaceful succession and insure the future maintenance of order and stability.

RAILWAY ADVERTISING AGENTS

When the American Association of Railway Advertising Agents conclude their Southern California visit and return to their respective home cities they will take away with them not only pleasant recollections but invaluable first-hand material to use in their business.

In addition to the hospitality due to any body of representative public servants we have on this occasion a special inducement legitimately to emphasize our chief points of interest for the benefit of these visitors whose life work has had so much to do with tourist travel to the Pacific Coast. They in their turn will find fresh inspiration for their future efforts by seeing adequately for themselves the scenes and attractions they have so long dealt with in word and picture.

Our Railway Advertising guests are to a considerable extent responsible for the tourist travel to California. Most of them, naturally, have seen this country before, but many not within recent years and a few not at all. The knowledge they gain will be useful to them and invaluable to us. Our attractions speak for themselves, but they must be seen to be appreciated.

Five days is an all too short period for acquainting them with all the advantages Southern California has to offer. Artists and writers whose business it is to spread accurate and colorful information for the railway traveling public will naturally wish to see as much as possible during their short stay here. As organizations and as private citizens we will do our best to make every day count, not only for the pleasure it will give us in so doing, but also for the practical aid we can give them in work that means much to Southern California.

SHOUP, ESPEE PRESIDENT

On his retirement at the close of the present year William Sproule will be succeeded as president of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company by its present vice-president, Paul Shoup. The selection of Mr. Shoup has been made at the express recommendation of the retiring president and by the unanimous decision of the board of directors.

Both the recommendation and the decision will be heartily indorsed by the people of California who recognize the advantage of having at the head of this great railway system a man so thoroughly conversant with Pacific Coast affairs and so zealous in the cause of western development. The Times congratulates both the State and the Southern Pacific Company on the selection of Paul Shoup to fill this important executive position.

In 1891 Mr. Shoup entered the employ of the S. P. as telegraph operator and through his subsequent years of continuous service has made himself thoroughly conversant with the many intricate branches of railroad management. He is a seasoned leader who has been through the mill and knows every cog in it.

For a time he was freight and passenger agent at San Jose and later at Portland, Or. After the San Francisco disaster of 1906 he returned to that city as assistant general passenger agent. After holding that position his promotion was rapid and unbroken.

In the year 1910, while in charge of the legal affairs of the company, the late William Herrin employed him as his personal assistant. From that office he was appointed assistant general manager of the electric lines of the Southern Pacific. In 1912 when the Pacific Electric was organized he became its president. His career has been a step-by-step advance from one post of responsibility to another, the best possible guarantee of his fitness for the highest position in the gift of his company.

Mr. Shoup's headquarters next year from which he will direct the fortunes of the immense network of steel rails linking Midwest and Eastern States with California and the Pacific will be at San Francisco, a fair index of the importance the new president concedes to the various divisions of the Southern Pacific Railroad's transcontinental services. Their start and their finish are in California.

NOT SO PLEASANT

It isn't going to be so pleasant for steamer captains if they are going to have to pick up a couple of airplanes every time they cross the Atlantic.

CARRYING ON

Maybe the lady champions can come back with more fervor and efficiency than our trousered heroes. Look what May Sutton Bundy is doing to her competitors on the tennis courts of the East. She has been cleaning up in the same efficient manner as characterized her work in the flush of youth—nearly a quarter of a century ago. Possibly it is impolite and undiplomatic to mention centuries in the presence of ladies, but they have the record on this pride of Santa Monica. There is no December to this May.

MUCH TOO WILD

Why worry about the conservation of our wild life? Better turn the grand jury loose and clean it up.

GETTING IT OVER THE AIR

By James J. Montague

No longer along in the mad marching throng
With a torch in my hand do I sally,
To sit on a chair in the damp public square
Where my party is holding a rally.
No more do I wait through a dreary debate,
Or join in the general clamor
When some chap in the bunch makes a speech with a punch
And verbally handles the hammer.
I recline here at home with my feet on a chair
And take in the mass meetings over the air.

When the speakers are tame and the arguments lame,
I can easily switch to some station,
That is sending a peach of a spellbinding speech
On the scoundrels that menace our nation.
And when they declare that our crowd's on the square,
And has always been loved and respected,
While the country will crash in a terrible smash
If the enemy gang is elected
I am moved by a wild irresistible force
To leap to the table and cheer myself hoarse.

Though a strict party man since to vote I began,
I am not to be cozened or blinded,
And I mean to remain through the coming campaign
Unbiased and quite open minded.
I shall always be fair, and so, over the air,
I shall never, on any condition,
Refuse to tune in to the meaningless din
That is made by the fool opposition.
Though, of course, I am perfectly sure, when I do,
That I straightway will climb on the table and boo!

The LEE SIDE O' L.A.

By Lee Shippey

NOT only is Los Angeles the fastest-growing great city on earth, but its suburbs are growing faster and farther. Those Angelenos who, while visiting in Alaska, set up a sign, "Los Angeles City Limits," and those Legionnaires who did the same thing in Paris, were broad jokers, but it was the truth behind the jest which gave it point. The city limits of Los Angeles are more widely separated than those of any other city, embracing more than 450 square miles, and there are tens of thousands of people living as much as 100 miles from our City Hall who habitually speak of themselves and think of themselves as Angelenos.

Before we ever saw Los Angeles, we met some enthusiastic "Angelenos" who were visiting in Missouri. We told them we were coming out, and asked for their address so we might look them up when we arrived. We found that they lived in Pomona.

"South Los Angeles"

Yesterday we visited Rancho Santa Fe, which is, we believe, 105 miles south of Los Angeles. Five years ago it was a cattle ranch on which two ancient adobe houses were the only dwellings. Now it is such a lovely fruit ranch community that people drive hundreds of miles to see it. One hundred lovely homes crown its hilltops, each surrounded by its own fruitful acres like a chateau in Lorraine; another 100 homes will be built on sites already selected, and by the end of this year, it is estimated, a total of 300 will be assured. But the thing which struck us forcibly is not the speed with which that area has been changed from range land to one of the most artistic and interesting rural communities in America, but the fact that more than half of the people who are building those homes, setting out those orchards, and landscaping those grounds are Angelenos and always think of themselves as such. Their business interests, the stores they patronize, the organizations they support, are all in Los Angeles. They attend directors' meetings and Hollywood Bowl concerts and Philharmonic concerts and Athletic Club frolics here, but go down there to golf, swim and escape the madding crowd.

Future Suburbs

"What's 100 miles nowadays?" one of those Angelenos demanded. "It won't be long 'till anything within 1000 miles will be considered a true suburb of Los Angeles, for the air-commuter will make it utterly unnecessary for people to live crowded up unless they want to. Spots like this will be only 'forty minutes from Broadway.' Los Angeles will undoubtedly be the first big city adequately served by air transport, for the reason that it is the newest great city, is in a spread-out territory, and its people take naturally to new ideas."

His First Street Car

What that man said is true. When we lived in Missouri, it was always a good newspaper story when some Ozark Mountain hillbilly, preferably 80 years old, went in to Joplin or Springfield and saw "his first street car." Not long ago we met a young Californian, 25 years old, born and reared in a town which now has 40,000 inhabitants, who never had seen a street car. All he'd seen was motor busses and interurban cars, which aren't, properly, street cars.

When he took a trip back east, to Philadelphia, New York and Boston, he found them very quaint and medieval. On that trip he got a great thrill out of seeing his first cable car, and then his first horse car!

Old communities, in which old methods of transportation are soundly established, do not grow up with the new things as our western towns do. Many a California town now growing into a city never will have any street cars, and it won't be long till many a community now isolated will be given a great spurt by air transportation, and never will fool around with even such "antiquated" means of travel as motor busses.

Deadlier Than Wars

They want to ban toy soldiers now
Because they breed a love for wars.
But if life-saving is their aim,
They ought to ban toy motor cars.

Inspired by Watermelons

Our thriftiest housewife, according to B. H. McD., lives out on the South Side. She refused to buy a peach pie until the baker had plugged it.

If this idea should spread we might even hope, some time, to buy a ham sandwich with ham in it at a railroad eating house.

Favors Amendment No. 1

GLENDALE, Aug. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The arguments advanced against County Charter Amendment No. 1 are so puerile that one wonders at the amazing effrontery of these so-called civil service experts in trying to delude the public by a false statement of the facts.

The amendment proposes to add ten points in civil service grades to veterans, wives of veterans unable to work because of war disabilities and widows of veterans who died in line of duty.

This amendment will not and could not affect the service of the county as our "patriotic" opponents of the measure seek to mislead the public into believing. A veteran or the wife of a disabled veteran or a widow of a veteran killed in line of duty will simply have ten points added to the examination grade. If that doesn't put his mark beyond the passing mark or ahead of his competitors, he doesn't get the job.

The United States government and many States now grant preference to veterans in civil service examinations. Surely the government civil service has not been demoralized, as the opponents of the county amendment are trying to make the public believe the county service would be by passage of this measure. GRANT EVERSON.

Also Contradictory

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In Mr. Smith's acceptance speech I find these words: "At the end of President Wilson's administration we enjoyed not only the friendship but the respectful admiration of the peoples of the world."

However, Mr. Lansing, Mr. Wilson's Secretary of State, on his return from Europe after the close of the World's War said: "We (the United States) have not a friend in all Europe."

Who is correct, Mr. Smith or Mr. Lansing?

AMERICAN CITIZEN.

Plain But Contradictory

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Your editorial of August 23 commenting on "Gov. Smith Accepts" hardly does justice to its thesis. Gov. Smith did not "straddle" on the prohibition issue. His attitude was plain, honest, candid and outspoken. As Chief Executive of this republic he promised to enforce the laws to the limit. He also stated equally plainly, candidly and outspokenly, his views that some of our laws need changing, and that he would exercise his right both as citizen and President to suggest changes. No straddling in these statements. That is, unless your editorial writer assumes that the duties of a President cancel the rights of a citizen, or, in other words, that the duties of the President are inconsistent with the rights of a citizen. Which horn of the dilemma do you prefer?

HENRY J. WEEKS.

Cold Facts

PASADENA, Aug. 24.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Readers of The Times will be interested in the fact that notwithstanding a large increase in population, New York City shows a large decrease in crime. Murders, assaults, robberies, burglaries and nearly all other offenses (except traffic violations) have sharply diminished during the past few years.

The Federal census shows the same hopeful trend. Commitments to prisons for all offenses decreased over 37 per cent since prohibition, and commitments of juveniles dropped 42 per cent. Respect for law, as measured by its violation, has increased rather than diminished with the passing of the saloon.

CONSTANCY

I see her now as I saw her then,
The wild light in her eye,
The moonbeams sparkling on her hair,
Resplendent.
The clutch at her heart
She hid with a smile
As she stood waiting.

She did not know, as I knew,
That the regal-browed Bacchanal boy
Could not be true,
Though they had sipped nectar together.
So she waited.

That was long ago;
And I am wondering,
If she still remembers
The thwarted thrill
That night she stood
In the moonbeam's sparkle,
With a clutch at her heart,
And waited.

DUTCH ADVERTISING BARGES

In Holland, where there are so many canals and other waterways that the people are almost amphibious, a new and striking method of advertising has sprung up.

Barges brilliantly illuminated ply the canals where traffic is thickest and on a "silver sheet" in front moving pictures are shown of the industry, business or organization advertised. The name of the advertiser is shown in illuminated letters on a revolving board beneath. The activity of plants, methods of production, etc., are shown on the screen. The barges can go to the very center of large cities. They often stop before some fashionable cafe and put on the "show." Another practice is to moor near one of the busiest bridges. People gather on the bridge to watch the pictures. The scheme is very much like a great electric sign that travels over the city.—[The Pathfinder.

"SMIF AND HOOVAH"

BY JAMES M. WARNACK

Rastus gulped down his last bite of bacon, took a "man's sized" chew of Granger Twist, placed his feet against his shovel and, using his lunch pail for a pillow, settled himself for half an hour's rest.

"Who you bettin' on fo' President?" asked Josh, his squat little ditch buddy.

"Boy, I's too honest to bet on a suah thing," replied Rastus. "Dey ain't nothin' to it but Hoovah."

"Well, dey tells me dis Smif man gwine give ol' Hubbot Hoovah a run fo' 'is money," remarked Josh.

"Lit-tle boy," drawled Rastus, "somebody been feedin' you poppy-juice. If you believes in de sankity of de American home, cut out dis palaver 'bout Al Smif an' start in boostin' fo' Mistah Hoovah, who represent de big elephant, which is symbolical of de Gran' Ol' Pahty what was 'sponsible for de Shrivvel Wah which set de black man free."

"Suah I b'lieves in de 'Merican home an' all dat kind o' thing, but I also b'lieves in individgeal liberty an' I don't see no harm in takin' a little nip now an' den," replied Josh. "Fack is, I wuz sorta hopin' if Smif gets to de White House he might invite some of his supportahs to dinner some day."

"Black man, you got as much chance o' gittin' in de White House as Smif has," said Rastus. "Even if Smif should git 'lected —which he won't—an' even if he had de White House cellah full o' lickah, it'd be a col' day in August when you'd git a taste of it. Dat Al Smif don't kerry his deemockracy to dat extent."

"But whut did dis Hoovah do fo' de country?" asked Josh. "Why should I go propagandizin' around fo' him?"

"Bettah ask 'Whut ain't he done?'" returned Rastus. "Boy, dat man is de best regulatah dis Republick evah had. They ain't nothin' he couldn't regulate. Durin' de wah he regulate de price o' corn, wheat, cotton, an' a dozen othah farm implements to such an extent dat de farmers all swear by him."

"You suah dey didn't swear at 'im?" grinned Josh.

"You talks lak you been edgecated in Tammany Hall," said Rastus. "No, I says 'swears by him' an' I means it. Oh yes, a few disgruntled truck gard'ners in Virginia an' No'th Carolina might still be kickin' at Hubbut Hoovah but, by an' large, de farmers is all fo' 'im. No man can do anything worth while widout gittin' criticised. I tell you, dat man is de regulatah of regulatahs! He regulated de Near Yeast Relief fo' starvin' chillun in Palestine. He regulate de Mississippi Flood. He regulate California, he gwine regulate de votes next Novembah an' den he gwine regulate de country. I'm tellin' you now, Josh, dat de man whut castes his vote fo' Al Smif is an enemy of de Republick."

"But whut about our individgeal freedom under de Constitution?" persisted Josh.

"De only genuwine individgeal freedom dat counts is de freedom dat come from abidin' by de law," returned Rastus. "Smif is doin' his best to nullerfy de Constitution. If dat Tammany Tiger evah gits his han's on dis gov'ment, yo' individgeal liberty gwine be worth de same as yo' great gran'fathah's liberty."

"Well, I'll think de mattah ovah," said Josh.

"Dat means you'll add one moah vote to de Hoovah lan'slide," smiled Rastus. "No man whut is capable of thinkin' will evah abuse his franchise by makin' a cross opposite de name of Al Smif."

FILOSOFISMS

By The Foothill Philosopher

"I wish I might know what makes the heart stop its beating, and how to prevent it," says Will Durant. "It is a great mystery." True enough, Mr. Durant, but a greater mystery is: What makes the heart start beating in the first place?

A few great men know a little about the way the phenomena of life operate. Perhaps no one knows why phenomena are manifested and it is still more doubtful if anyone knows anything of the origin of life or anything concerning the ultimate nature of the forms through which life is expressed.

"With all thy getting, get understanding," advises Solomon. Well, Mr. Solomon, for several thousand years the world has been trying to follow your advice, but we still are not entirely out of the shadows. If you really understood the scheme of things, Sol, why didn't you leave us at least a few clews?

However, the desire to know, if not evidence of the destiny of man in attainment of knowledge, at least indicates such a possibility. What else besides the Infinite could give to finite man the conception of Infinity? What else than an immortal being could make a mortal dream of immortality? Man could hardly aspire to the highest and best unless within him existed the essence of that toward which he aspires.

NO BOREDOM

I'm never bored, because I'm fond of reading. I never find the nights too dull and long; while through the pages of a book proceeding, the world seems good, and life a grand and glorious song. Each day I meet a lot of weary creatures, they yawn and sigh, and don't know what to do; they wipe the teardrops from their stricken features, and look around for something strange and new. They're tired of gazing at the rolling waves, of watching airships clear the distant clouds, they're tired of going with their wives and daughters to movie shows and mingling with the crowds. They're tired of riding in their costly motors, they're tired of fog, of sunshine and of rain, they're tired of hearing loud and dismal voters discuss the issues of the sad campaign. The night comes on, and they are tired of hearing the radio, with all its mumbling noise; they're tired of bridge, and they are tired of peering at dances sprung by jazzy girls and boys. They're tired, so tired of everything around them, they feel like giving victs, by their boredom given; they look ahead, the prospect there confound them, they look behind, and wonder they survived. They do not know what it is they're needing to free their lives of all the dismal weights; they never learned the blessed trick of reading, forgetting self in tales of other shades. Give me a book that treats of human critters, the tears and smiles, the woes and joys they find; a book wherein a chuckle poet twitters, or sage sets forth by-products of his mind; then I can read until I see the dawn ing through dew-wet panes of yet another morn; then I'll be glad while all around are yawning, and wondering why they were ever born.

BULLOCK'S UNIQUE NEW SHOP OPEN

Novel Ideas Carried Out in Popular Store's Huge Additional Wing

BY OLIVE GRAY

That the young moderns for whom the section was designed are quick to appreciate its advantages was attested yesterday during the formal opening of the collegienne section at Bullock's.

Each and every one of the congeries of shops forming the department was thronged with enthusiastic patrons, while many were quick to avail themselves of the opportunity for outfitting from top to toe.

From its incipiency the collegienne section installed by Bullock's along lines originated by this store has been an unqualified success and the larger quarters afforded by the new building were a business necessity. But seizing upon opportunity as has ever been the policy of this progressive house it was decided to group in the enlarged section everything requisite for costuming the collegienne, or "young modern," the appropriate term applied to the ambitious and knowing feminine youth of the present moment.

The new section embodies the most authentic features in decorative effects, modernistic, yet tastefully restrained. Cocoa-pearl in a gradation of tones forms the woodwork, framing also the handsome display cases and is repeated in salient points of the fixtures. Walls and ceilings are in the same tender tones, enlivened by silver.

Throughout the many semipartitioned shops, all fully glimpsed yet separate as to merchandise, carpets and draperies are in a pleasing shade of cocoa combined with fern green. Thus, walls, ceilings and floors serve to bring together the whole with a charming sense of harmony.

Distinctly novel and of educational value as well as convenient is the series of assembling-rooms — or choosing-rooms, they might be called, each planned in a color and lighting scheme for an especial type of patron.

There is the blonds' room, done in blues qualified to bring out the features of the light-complexioned miss; the brunettes', where she blessed with dark tresses and a corresponding complexion may find her own in gowns and wraps as well as millinery; the quarters for the one possessed of Titian hair; that where the medium maiden may find that which best becomes her.

In these "assembling rooms," as I would call them, may be brought together everything wearable from shoes, hosiery, lingerie, to frocks, gowns, wraps, hats, costume jewelry and boutonnieres—everything to correctly correspond; everything the latest and best of its kind, and all at such prices as find enthusiastic greeting from the modern miss.

Near by commodious fitting rooms are available. Throughout the seasons, since the installation of the collegienne shop, records of sizes and shapes have been kept until now every minute difference in curve and line, from that of the slim girl just entering her 'teens to the sophomore and senior sister of fuller development, has been brought to perfection, in lingerie and in ready-to-wear.

The formal opening yesterday must have afforded a thrill of satisfaction to Bullock's, both by reason of the congratulatory comments upon the beauty and tastefulness of the quarters and by the substantial volume of buying, which, after all, is the true test of clientele appreciation. The entire fourth floor of the new building is occupied by the collegienne section.

GHOST FAILS TO WALK AND RIOT STIRS

Police Save Producer as Hostile Yiddish Chorus Members Demand Pay

An incipient riot was quelled by police at the Capitol Theater, 338 South Spring street, last night after 100 irate members of the chorus of "Joseph and His Brethren" cornered Max Thomashefsky, the producer, in an anteroom where he had taken refuge when he found himself in temporary financial straits and unable to meet demands of payments for choral services.

The biblical pageant was given in Yiddish at the Hollywood Bowl Sunday night before an audience of 15,000.

After the performance Thomashefsky announced he would meet the members of the chorus at the Capitol Theater last night and settle with 100 of them at $10 each, with the assistance of Abe Rabin, coproducer and "angel" of the pageant.

Early in the evening the Yiddish songsters began arriving at the theater. As the hours rolled along more and more came. Finally doubts and misgivings spread through the assemblage.

Thomashefsky arrived and went into the box office to emerge and announce that sufficient funds to pay all the singers were not available. Then he pleaded for time. At this the crowd waxed wrathful and pressed closer.

Unable to halt the growing chatter and menaced by the hardier among the contraltos and bassos, Mr. Thomashefsky made a dive into an anteroom and slammed the door. One woman got a pinched finger and her scream signaled an uproar. Some one called the police.

Police found Mr. Thomashefsky behind the door of the anteroom. They rescued him and took him to a near-by police car. On the way he told the singers he would pay them all without fail. They hissed and cat-called as the police car drove away.

Thomashefsky explained there are sufficient funds to pay the singers and said he intends to pay them tonight. Mr. Rabin, he asserted, promised to appear, but was detained.

GILDA GRAY RECONCILED, RUMOR SAYS

Reported Patching Up of Marital Wrangle Lacks Any Word from Couple

There has come a definite lull in the marital wrangle of Gilda Gray, dancer, and her husband, Gil Boag, which a week ago threatened to result in divorce proceedings, and a report is current the pair may become reconciled. But both are abroad and each is keeping silent.

The reconciliation rumor, started yesterday while Attorney Milton M. Golden, counsel for Boag, was attempting to get in touch with his client and obtain authorization for the filing of a marriage annulment complaint, which has lain in his desk for several days.

With the silence of his client, Attorney Golden was as mystified as anyone, but said he is inclined to believe Boag has gone to London, where Miss Gray is playing, and that the difficulties are in such a state that "anything may happen."

Several cablegrams have gone to England, Attorney Golden said, but answers have been returned to none of them, adding to the mystery of the pair's intentions.

ROBBER OF BANK SENT TO PRISON

Plea Changed to Guilty by Wladimer Pruszynski

Five Years to Life Fixed as Term for Bandit

Nearly All of Long Beach Plunder Recovered

Wladimer Pruszynski, who obtained $28,000 in cash and travelers' checks when he robbed the American-avenue branch of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, Long Beach, July 31, last, yesterday pleaded guilty to two charges of robbery and was sentenced to San Quentin prison by Superior Judge Edmonds. The sentence calls for a term of five years to life.

Pruszynski formerly had pleaded not guilty to three charges of robbery, but when taken into court he announced his desire to change the plea to guilty on two counts. Although sentenced on two counts, the sentences are to run concurrently.

Virtually all of the money taken in the Long Beach robbery was recovered, according to the officers. The second charge to which the defendant pleaded guilty was count three in the indictment, and accused him of robbing a Bank of Italy branch a year ago.

Magdalena Pruszynski, wife of the defendant, who also was charged with robbery, was freed when the District Attorney moved that the charge against her be dismissed. She was represented by Attorneys Jerry Geisler and Bingham Gray.

GAMING SHIP APPRAISING POSTPONED

Government and Owners Dispute Regarding Value of Seized Vessel

Action regarding the appointment of three appraisers to determine the value of the steamer Johanna Smith, gambling ship, seized last Thursday by the government under an old statute regarding the granting of a license, was continued yesterday by United States District Judge Sheppard until today.

The appraisal of the ship is sought in order that bond may be fixed. The government asserts that the value of the ship is $100,000, whereas the owners say the ship is worth only $10,000. The owners seek to have the ship released by posting of bond. The vessel was seized about twelve miles off Long Beach Harbor.

It was stated by U. S. Atty. McNabb that the $11,000 in silver seized during the raid on the ship will be returned to the owners of the vessel, as the government has no legal title to the money.

Planes to Roar Briggs Requiem

Flying friends of Capt. A. W. Briggs, a flight commander in both the American and British air forces during the World War, who died unexpectedly on the 20th inst., will be at the controls of a dozen airplanes that will fly over Central Station at 6 p.m. today as the train bearing his body to Duluth, Minn., departs. Arrangements for this mark of respect were completed yesterday by the Lafayette Aero Club.

Capt. Briggs, who gave Art Gobel, Hawaiian flight winner, his first flying lessons, was working on a personally designed monoplane at the Lafayette Airplane Works when he dropped dead. He had intended to enter the plane in the forthcoming New York-to-Los Angeles race.

Milo H. Briggs, father of the flyer, will accompany the body to Duluth.

DYER CASE BRIEFS ORDERED

Appellate Court Refuses to Cite Judge Rector for Contempt in Enjoined Decision

After declining to act on the suggestion of John S. Cooper, attorney for Dr. Frank Dyer, that Superior Judge Rector be cited for contempt, the Appellate Court yesterday asked for briefs in the Wilshire Boulevard Congregational Church row. The court ordered that the briefs be submitted within seven days with the understanding that a decision will be handed down as expeditiously as possible.

At the opening of the hearing on a writ of prohibition by which Dr. Dyer hopes to have Judge Rector permanently restrained from handing down a decision adverse to his pastoral relationship, Cooper made a motion to have Judge Rector cited for contempt, declaring that the Superior Court judge should not be allowed to ride "rough shod" over the appellate tribunal after the issuance of the writ.

The motion was denied immediately and the attorneys were ordered by Justice Thompson to proceed with their arguments and confine themselves to the facts involved as the court was not interested in any issue outside the question of whether "the trial judge had attempted or threatened to exceed his jurisdiction."

The briefs of counsel will be submitted by September 4, and an early decision on the permanency of the writ is anticipated.

LOT OWNERS ASK PARTITION

Wilshire and Western Property Bought for $50,000, Leased for $2,000,000, in Litigation

A request that the court partition property situated at the northeast corner of Wilshire Boulevard and Western avenue, said to be valued at more than $400,000, is made in a suit which came up for trial yesterday before Superior Judge Collier.

Ten years ago the property in question, which has a frontage of 150 feet on Wilshire Boulevard and 140 feet on Western avenue, was sold for $50,000.

The partition suit now on trial was begun by Howard J. and Minnie L. Latimer, husband and wife, who hold a two-thirds interest in the property. It is directed against Fred W. and Thirza Goakes, husband and wife, who own a one-third interest.

Other defendants named in the action are the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of California, which company holds a $80,000 mortgage on the property, dated November 14, 1925, to run five years; also the Standard Public Market, which has a lease on the property, assigned to it by Kiyohide Nakaki, dated April 1, 1922, running for ninety-five years at a rental of $20,000 per year.

Attorneys J. Karl Lobdell and Howard L. Watt are representing the plaintiffs in the suit and L. S. Bower is appearing for the defendants in the absence of Attorney David Rubin.

Judge Collier is asked to partition the property so that a just distribution of it can be made to all parties interested, the plaintiffs desiring to withdraw their holdings and invest them elsewhere.

The hearing will continue Wednesday.

Human 'Net' Catches Man in Long Fall

While the usual mid-afternoon crowd thronged the sidewalks of Broadway's shopping district yesterday, Fred Cloud, 30 years of age, fell from a scaffold at the fourth-floor level of the building at No. 722.

His scream of alarm sent people scurrying in every direction but failed to warn William Converse, 44, of 9409 West Fourth street. Cloud's body, falling in a horizontal position, fell squarely on Converse.

Cloud has little chance of living, it was said by Georgia street Receiving Hospital surgeons. He has a broken right leg and internal injuries. But Converse suffered only a mild brain concussion and was not considered to be in danger.

Cloud, an electrician, was working on a sign.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

by Dr Frank McCoy

author of "The Next Year in Health"

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Los Angeles Times, inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

PROTEIN COMBINATIONS

Protein is not digested at all in the human mouth any more than with a dog or other carnivorous animal. It is advisable to masticate meat well because the taste is agreeable and the digestive juices of the stomach are thereby stimulated.

As protein food enters the stomach it begins to mix with the gastric juice, which is especially prepared by nature to take care of this class of food only. Starches cannot be digested in the stomach, and if used at the same meal, only interfere with the digestion of the meat, fish or other protein. The starches, such as beans and bread, will absorb a good deal of the stomach juices, which only render them sour. Often enough gastric juice is left to properly convert the meat into peptones, which is the only form through which it can be assimilated.

Some foods, such as navy beans, are such bad mixtures of starch and protein in themselves that excess fermentation always sets up in the stomach when they are eaten. Those with strong digestive power will be able to withstand the effects of such mixtures for a number of years, but there is bound to be a reaction in time, with finally serious results.

If the nonstarchy vegetables are used with the meat, this does not interfere with its digestion. So a good plan is to use the cooked and raw greens with a meal and to avoid all other foods such as bread, potatoes, rice, macaroni, spaghetti and all of the starchy foods made from flour products. The harm that often comes from eating meat is caused by indiscriminate combinations with other foods, such as the starches which I have just mentioned.

The average person will do well to use about one-quarter of a pound of meat each day, preferrably at the noon or evening meal. The combination used with the meat should be just as simple as possible, consisting principally of such greens as spinach, asparagus, string beans, lettuce, celery, etc., with the possible addition of a small amount of dried sugar fruit.

It is advisable to use only one protein at a meal. For instance, if meat is used, cheese should not be used at the same meal. The following specimen meals will show you what I mean by good protein combinations:

1. Roast mutton, cooked spinach, raw celery.
2. Sallsbury steak, cooked asparagus, grated raw carrots.
3. Broiled fish, combination salad of lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers.
4. Dish of cottage cheese, baked egg plant, cooked parsnips and sliced cucumbers.

All vegetables need a certain amount of starch for their growth, so we are forced to use the starch contained in them or our diet would be very meager, consisting only of protein foods, such as meat, egg, fish, fowl, etc. Nonstarchy vegetables contain only a small amount of protein, but are rich in all of the organic salts and vitamins which are so necessary to the different cells of the body in all of the tissues from the muscular to the bony ones.

If a second helping of any food is ever desired, it is a good plan to double up on the greens rather than use an added amount of the heavier foods. Their digestion is really quite simple and does not interfere with any other foods eaten.

Many people eat too many of the heartier foods, and would do well to take for luncheon a meal composed of a combination of these vegetables. There are many ways in which you can use the nonstarchy vegetables, but I will give you a "blanket" rule, as follows:

"One or more nonstarchy vegetables, either cooked or raw, may be used with either one starch or one protein, or with any one other article of food, such as milk, toast or fruit."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Mrs. O. B. writes: "Kindly state the cause of redness of the nose on a woman of 35 who has never tasted liquors of any kind."

Answer: A red nose comes from some kind of intoxication, and as you say you do not use liquors, the redness of your nose must come from autointoxication or self-poisoning, principally from intestinal toxins.

Q.: T. J. D. asks: "Where can I buy brown rice? Also, how much acidophilus milk should a person take where gastritis is present? Can one take tomatoes?"

A.: Brown rice can be purchased in any health food store—just ask for the unpolished rice. I usually recommend a sweet-milk diet for gastritis, but different kinds of sour milk may sometimes be used with benefit. With either the sweet or sour milk the patient should take about three quarts daily, using a glassful every hour. Tomatoes are a healthful food, but must be used in careful combination with other foods.

Q.: R. J. K. asks: "What would you recommend for a person on whom destructive thoughts have gotten such a hold that she broods continually? The family doctor says there is nothing organically wrong, but she is becoming a total wreck physically and mentally."

A.: She should have a thorough examination made to find out the condition of her alimentary canal, abdominal organs are prolapsed. It will no doubt be found that the low in the pelvis. Nothing will produce nervousness in a woman and lead to neurasthenia and insanity as quickly as congestion in the pelvic organs, and prolapsus is one of the commonest causes of such a condition.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

This and That

Silver packed away in dry flour will not tarnish.

Housecleaning the broad-leaved plants with soapy water and rinse with clear.

The housewife who knows so many good recipes for casseroles and oven dishes is an economical one.

Appetizing Touches

In some homes garnishes on meats and vegetables are things unheard of. Yet these little added touches are just the things that make the hotel dinner seem so dainty and attractive. Watercress, chopped parsley, shredded lettuce, slices of peppers—none of them expensive, but all of them mighty pretty garnishes.

Appropriate Shapes

It is rather nice to have sandwich cutters in the shapes of the four suits of cards—diamonds, hearts, clubs and spades. Then your sandwiches or little cakes, when you entertain the card club are more attractive.

Ready for the Winter

Why not do up enough cranberries to last for the winter? Then each time you have turkey your cranberries are all ready to eat. Make your cranberry jelly as usual and put it while hot in jelly glasses and seal with paraffin.

Prepared

One woman who has no children of her own, but many friends who do have, has a drawer in her cupboard in which she has a few story books and several 5-and-10-cent store toys in readiness for small visitors. Then she and the child's mother can enjoy a good chat without the kiddie becoming restless.

Keeps Clean Longer

In these days of water waves, marcels and "setting" of permanents it is less expensive if one's hair does not have to be washed each week. If you will wash your comb and brush more frequently you will find their cleanliness will carry away much of the dust and soil from your hair and cause it to be shampooed less frequently.

Camp Casualties

When son and daughter arrive home from camp it would be wise for mother to look over the raincoats. If they are soiled cut a raw potato in half and rub the spots well. If they are torn they may be mended by putting adhesive tape over the rent on the wrong side of the coat.

Better Taste, Too

Use low floral decorations on the dining table so they do not obstruct the vision of those seated across from each other. Also, they are not so easily overturned.

RHUBARB AND TAPIOCA TART

Three cupfuls of diced rhubarb, one cupful of water, one and one-fourth cupfuls of sugar, five tablespoonfuls of quick-cooking tapioca, one-third of a cupful of orange juice, cook the rhubarb, water and sugar for fifteen minutes, then place in a double boiler, add the tapioca, and continue cooking for twenty minutes, stirring often. Cool, add the orange juice and fill individual baked tart shells, top with a meringue or whipped cream, and serve.

VEAL POULETTE

Parboil eight small onions until tender, drain, place in a sauce pan, four tablespoonfuls of butter, pour in the onions and allow to simmer without coloring for five minutes. Remove the onions and place on a warm dish, add to the butter in the saucepan four tablespoonfuls of flour, stir smooth, but do not brown. Beat in slowly two and one-half cupfuls of water, and stir until smooth, add one and one-half pounds of breast of veal, cut in two-inch pieces, and season with salt and pepper, and a few grains of nutmeg. Cover the pan and let simmer slowly until the meat is tender and bring slowly to a boil and stir in carefully the yolks of two eggs beaten with one teaspoonful of lemon juice, but do not boil; place on a hot platter, sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve.

CHOCOLATE PEARS

Peel six Bartlett pears, remove the cores, and cut in quarters lengthwise, heat four tablespoonfuls of butter in a saute pan, lay in the pears, and saute a nice brown all over. Place in a double boiler two squares of grated chocolate, one tablespoonful of sugar and one and a quarter cupfuls of milk. Cook five minutes, add one teaspoonful of arrow root, mixed with four tablespoonfuls of cream and a few grains of salt, and stir and cook twelve minutes. Melt in a saucepan two tablespoonfuls of butter, add four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and stir constantly until a light brown, add to the chocolate mixture, mix well and flavor with half a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Place the cooked pears in a serving dish, pour over the sauce and set on the ice until thoroughly chilled.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, hard water, rupture, stves and colds and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

IMPOSSIBLE TO HELP THOSE WHO THINK THEY DON'T NEED HELP

Mrs. E. D. G. writes:

"I have a friend whose son is 2 years of age. So far she has not tried to train him to the stool. For a long time he has been troubled with constipation, and she tells me that she gives him medicine every night and still he has no movement. Some times it takes two suppositories before the bowels will move. During the day when he needs to go to the toilet he sits on the floor, strains and grunts and tears come to his eyes. She pays little attention to this and just gives him more medicine. We all feel sorry for the poor child, but are afraid to say anything to her for fear of hurting her feelings.

"Practically all day he eats cake, and doughnuts, and drinks milk. She says, when asked, that he doesn't care for vegetables and fruits. How on earth can he have regular movements? And how can we make her understand that a growing child needs more than doughnuts and cake and milk? I have mentioned your articles to her, but to no avail. They have helped me very much.

"My daughter is four and one-half months and weighs thirteen and one-half pounds. She weighed seven pounds two ounces at birth. Recently she has been trying to sit up. Should I encourage this? She has regular feeding hours and sleeps quite a bit. She is a very good baby and kicks, and plays with her hands and loves to make a noise.

About a week ago I started one teaspoonful of cereal, just before her 10 o'clock feeding. Is this too much? I also give her prune and orange juice. Should I add anything else to her diet? Thanks very much for your leaflets, they have helped me wonderfully.

Answer: I don't know any answer to the problem of your friend who is evidently quite satisfied with what she is doing. All the old proverbs about taking a horse to water and not being able to make him drink, and none so blind as those who will not see, apply beautifully to her case. She might be immensely surprised to find how different her diet is from the correct one, and I am mailing you two leaflets, one of which you can pass on. She probably will throw it in the waste basket. I'm afraid there is little use in hurling advice at those who don't want it.

The teaspoonful of cereal is just right for a starter. An increase in the amount of cereal can occupy the next two months and you can start, in the same cautious amount, stewed spinach or carrots, or small amounts of vegetable soup. There are no more changes until nine months when weaning is begun, except the gradual increases in the amounts of these various foods.

The baby's weight is good. Let her sit on your lap for short periods but don't prop her up in a chair.

Kitchen Camouflage

The complete kitchen now has a mirror somewhere on its walls or dresser, and the housewife may straighten her hair or powder her nose before greeting her unexpected caller.

Clear Face of Skin Imperfections

To keep face, neck, arms and hands pretty and youthful use the ordinary mercolized wax treatment at home. The wax is applied at night like cold cream and peels off the dead and half dead surface skin in invisible particles, a little each day. With the disappearance of the old cuticle, the newer, healthier underskin gradually appears richly beautiful with the freshness of youth. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines, use an face lotion: 1 ounce powdered saxolite and 1 half pint witch hazel. At all drug stores.—(Advertisement.)

Estate Tangle Before Court

Settlement of the recently opened litigation over the estate of John Detlefs of Huntington Park is being attempted, it was announced yesterday, when the application of the Security Trust and Savings Bank for special letters of administration was called before Judge Beecher.

Detlefs died in 1926, and his estate was distributed to his widow and daughter several months ago. After it had been closed the bank offered for probate a will, whereby the daughter is disinherited and half the estate left in trust for a friend of the decedent, who has since died, with remainder interest to the Florence Crittenden Home.

NOTE.—Could you attend the cooking classes every Tuesday and Friday, at 130 South Broadway, conducted by me and given as a courtesy by the Los Angeles Times, I would be more able to explain to you the art of cake-baking; no doubt, you must be having some trouble with your oven if your cakes cake on the top and dry. The ordinary cake should be placed in an oven at 350 deg. and as soon as the cake has risen evenly to the top of the pan increase your heat by twenty-five degrees. Too long baking will make a cake dry and it is necessary to use level measure... ments, flour sifted once, then meas... ured and sifted again. When a cake springs back to the touch it is done, but if the impression remains it needs a little more baking.

DATE AND NUT BREAD

M. E. M., Pacoima, Cal. Three cupfuls of flour, five teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter of a cupful of sugar, two eggs, one and a fourth cupfuls of milk, one cupful of chopped walnut meats, one cupful of chopped dates, or figs; sift the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together, add the beaten eggs to the milk, stir in the flour, and mix well. Lastly add the milk, dates and nut meats, pour into a well-greased bread pan, let stand thirty minutes and bake in a moderate oven one hour or longer.

Note: Chopped dried figs can be used with this combination; but it will be necessary to add a little more milk. Sour milk would not work out so well and a baking-powder bread is never as close-grained as the yeast bread.

FIG AND RHUBARB JAM

E. A. B., Los Angeles, Cal. Cut five pounds of peeled rhubarb into small pieces, place in a bowl and add two pounds of chopped white figs, the strained juice of two lemons and five pounds of sugar, cover and let stand overnight, place on the fire and simmer gently for one and one-half hours. Place in jars, cool and paraffin.

CHEESE CAKE

J. T. K., Pasadena, Cal. The cheese-cake recipe given in The Times was all right in regard to the ingredients, your trouble was that you baked it too fast. The whites of the eggs puffed, the gas escaped and your cake fell. Try baking it in a slow oven, it will shrink a little, but not much.

ORANGE CREAM

J. T. K., Pasadena, Cal. Heat one-half a cupful of orange juice and one-fourth of a cupful of sugar in a double boiler, beat the yolks of two eggs with one-fourth of a cupful of sugar, and slowly stir the hot mixture into the egg mixture, return to the double boiler, cook until the spoon is coated with the custard, then add one tablespoonful of gelatine that has been dissolved in a fourth of a cupful of cold water, and melted over hot water, strain into one and one-half cupfuls of cream that has been flavored with one teaspoonful of grated orange rind, place in a bowl and place in another bowl of cracked ice, stir and beat until the mixture begins to thicken. Then turn into a mold wet with cold water and place in the ice box to harden. Serve garnished with slices of orange and shredded cocoanut.

Temple Will be Dedicated by Moonlight

Unique among religious institutions in Los Angeles is the Temple of the Universal Spirit, which will be dedicated by moonlight at 8 p.m. next Thursday, with Swami Paramananada officiating. Music will be furnished by the Ananda-Ashrama choir and Mrs. William Allen, violinist, from Berkeley.

Dedicatory services will be conducted at the rock altar under a clump of oak trees. The new temple contains quaint shrines and stained-glass windows which depict world-famous homes of worship of adherents of all religions.

The Ashrama may be reached by taking a Union Stage bus at a Fifth and Los Angeles street and getting off at Pennsylvania avenue, at which point busses will be waiting at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, to take visitors to the temple at the north end of Pennsylvania avenue. Busses will also meet the La Crescenta street car at the end of the line at 7:30 p.m.

MOONLIGHT CANTER SET

A moonlight horseback ride has been arranged fo rFriday at 8 p.m. by the industrial division of the playground and recreation department. It will start from DuBrock's Riding Academy, 12752 Ventura Boulevard. Applications will be received in Room 305, City Hall, on or before the 31st inst.

OLD-TIMERS TO RULE PROGRAMS

Tonight's Bills Present Many Real Favorites

Nick Harris Will Be Heard Among Others

Edward Murphy to Direct Radio Playlet

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Tonight's radio presentations carry the schedules of a good many old-time favorites from among the ranks of ether realm entertainers.

For instance, there is Edward Murphy directing a radio playlet at 7 p.m. through KHJ, the Don Lee station. Mr. Murphy's radio dramatic offerings, originally begun over KHJ several years ago, have run the gamut of many stations since that time. Now he is back at KHJ once more with interesting offerings of the spoken word.

Then there is Nick Harris at the same time over KFI. Mr. Harris's radio lectures have made the phrase, "Why crime doesn't pay," famous everywhere and his KFI talks, with incidental music from time to time, have been featured over that station for practically five years.

Another old-timer is Paul Finstein, who will lead his string quartet before the KNX microphone at 6 o'clock. Mr. Finstein, who publishes the Radio Entertainment magazine as a side line, has directed his talented string group in the KNX studio since the station first went on the air nearly four years ago.

ON KMTR HOUR

Evelyn Kemp, concert pianist, is scheduled for the KMTR program at 8:30 p.m. As a soloist, and leader of a string trio, she has been well known in radio circles from various stations before taking up her present broadcast affiliation.

The KPLA studio hour, commencing at 8:15, will have Harry McCoy in a vest-pocket program. McCoy, who has been out of radio ranks for the past three years, was one of the original radio performers in Los Angeles and his return to studio work was hailed by many of those who have been radio listeners for some time.

The California String Quartet is billed at KELW at 8 o'clock. Although the station itself is not an old one, this group of players rightfully should be included among the old timers.

STRING MUSIC

As the original Los Angeles Railway String Quartet they were heard on a dozen stations for a couple of years. Then they used various radio titles, including The Times Aloha String Quartet for their KHJ programs. Now they are regular nightly features over KELW.

Glen Edmunds air theater play boys are due on the 7 o'clock talent of KNRC. Edmunds and his various musical aggregations have been almost regular entertainers via radio since their initial KFI Sunday hours of three or four years ago.

As the number of stations in Southern California has gradually increased, and the number of entertainers along with it, the old-timers of broadcast music make a relatively small showing.

Yet those who have consistently stayed with the field of activity find a certain remuneration besides cash consideration, in the continued "patronage" of those who have been listeners to their programs these many years.

TIME CHANGED FOR X-RAY TALKS

The series of short popular talks on "The Meaning of the X-ray" that have been given by Dr. R. H. Swift, secretary of the Southern California Academy of Sciences, over KHJ on Friday mornings for the past eight weeks have been changed to Tuesday from 9 to 9:30 a.m.

Dr. Swift gives in these talks the romantic story of the discovery and uses of the X-ray as well as science's explanation of this great force which in its application has meant the saving of many lives.

Police Board Defers Meeting for Primaries

Due to the fact that this is election day the regular meeting of the Police Commission has been deferred until tomorrow, when the commission will try the case of Police Sergeant Henry Ousley, accused by Florence Ernst of failure to support her after they had lived together.

Copies of love letters and telegrams Ousley is asserted to have sent her while she was east have been filed.

Also coming before the commission is a report by Chief Inspector Longuevan that a game operated by Bedford & Andrews on the Venice pier is not gambling. Longuevan reported he had tried out the game and won by skill and not by chance. On recommendation of Deputy Prosecutor Krowl, he said, he made the report.

The Hollywood Hospital has joined the list of applicants for permits to shoot pigeon with a .22 rifle, Clifford E. Groves, who made the application, stating that the pigeons are a nuisance to the patients.

Police Surgeon Ready to Move

Arrangements are being completed for removal this week of the executive personnel of Chief Police Surgeon Dodge's department from Room No. 71 in the City Hill to the Georgia-street Hospital, where it recently was decided to establish headquarters.

Under the new arrangement all calls for ambulance service will be sent to the Georgia-street Hospital headquarters. The same telephone number, FAber 3111, will be used. The switchboard and operators now in the City Hall quarters also will be transferred.

Desserts Rule Menu for Class

Desserts will hold the center of the demonstration table of The Times' cooking class meeting this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the demonstration room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway, under the guidance of Mrs. Mabelle (Chef) Wyman.

Acceding to several requests for orange cake Mrs. Wyman will make this her first offering and will add orange icing. Graham-cracker pie crust with sweet-potato custard filling and sand tarts with baked stuffed peppers with peanut butter will be served.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

ELECTIONS GET FIRST INTEREST

Imperial Valley Prosperity to Cause Light Vote

Pasadena Supervisor Race Producing Excitement

Ontario Legionnaires Work to Bring Out Citizens

HOLTVILLE, Aug. 27.—Prediction was made here today by George Bennitt, publisher of the Holtville Tribune, that due to the absence of large numbers of valley people on vacations, only 30 per cent of Imperial Valley's registered voters would cast ballots at the primary election next Tuesday. The registration this year exceeds 12,000.

The vote is expected to be heavy in the Brawley supervisorial district where a bitter fight has developed between supporters of two candidates, Henry Jackson, incumbent, and George Butters, who is backed by the vegetable industry in other sections of the valley. Only a small vote is expected.

Business men declare that the resident population of the valley this summer is much lower than usual. They attribute this to the fact that the valley has had an unusually prosperous year and larger numbers of people were able financially to spend prolonged periods at the beaches and mountains.

PASADENA INTERESTED IN SUPERVISOR ELECTION

PASADENA, Aug. 27.—With local interest concentrated on the contest between Assemblywoman Eleanor Miller and Judge Kenneth Newell, and in the supervisorial poll battle between Henry W. Wright, incumbent, and Harry G. MacBain of Glendale, an unusually heavy vote is expected at tomorrow's primary election.

The 126 local polling places will open at 6 a.m. and will close at 7 p.m. The majority of the polls are located at the same points as during the May primaries.

Feeling is particularly high concerning the contest between Miss Miller and Judge Newell.

Newell has charged that his opponent, the incumbent, has voted on occasions against the interests of Southern California and that she voted in favor of the repeal of the 7 per cent tax law.

HOT BATTLE IN POMONA FOR STATE SENATOR

POMONA, Aug. 27.—With local interest at a high pitch in the contest for State Senator between Senator Cadet Taylor, incumbent, of this city, and Frank F. Merriam, Long Beach, besides two other candidates, Wayne P. Bowen and Franklin J. Potter, all battling on the Republican slate, it is expected that Pomona will poll one of the highest percentages of its vote registration in recent years. At the primary election Tuesday, Senator Taylor, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident at the State capital near the close of the last legislative session, has recovered from the injuries he received, and has entered into a spirited contest with Frank F. Merriam, Long Beach opponent and former speaker of the House at Sacramento.

LEGION MEN WORKING TO BRING OUT ONTARIO VOTERS

ONTARIO, Aug. 27.—Having won previous honors in getting the voters out to the polls, officers and members of Ontario Post of the American Legion today completed plans for getting every registered voter of the community to go to the polls tomorrow to cast ballots in the primary election. Two prizes are sought by the local Legion for getting out the most voters, on basis of per capita voters. One cup is offered by Bruce McDaniel of Redlands and the other by Lieut.-Gov. Buron R. Fitts.

A fleet of automobiles will be kept busy by the Legionnaires in carrying voters to and from the polls.

At the last Presidential primary the Legion got the greatest number of voters to go to the polls in the history of Ontario.

SANTA MONICA HAS 14,000 NAMES REGISTERED

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 27.—Approximately 14,000 voters appear on the register for tomorrow's primary election in Santa Monica. Observers today were predicting a 40 per cent vote. Forty-eight polling places will handle the balloting.

Pep Mayer Back in Sanatorium

REDLANDS, Aug. 27.—Theodore (Pep) Mayer, scion of the famous Untermayer family of the east coast, is on his way back to La Jolla, where he will again enter a sanatorium in an effort to break the chains of the drug habit which he has formed.

Mayer was arrested in San Bernardino charged with being in possession of seventy-five grains of morphine. He frankly told the officers he had been fighting the habit and had succumbed again. He said that he had hoped to break it and remarry his former wife, a well-known Redlands girl.

His case was investigated and he was permitted to go back to the sanatorium in La Jolla with the understanding that he will stay there until cured.

TOY PISTOL LEADS TO HURTS

SOUTH GATE, Aug. 27.—Herbert Ludwick and his little brother were playing with a toy pistol at their home. They removed a piece of lead from a shell and were replacing this with tinfoil, when the powder exploded, causing Herbert to be injured about the stomach. He was taken to the Huntington Park Hospital, where the wound, which was slight, was dressed, after which he was taken to his home.

EDMONDSON ELECTED CHIEF

Pasadena Fire Department Captain Gets High Score in Examination and Will Head Battalion

PASADENA, Aug. 27.—On the basis of receiving the highest grade in a written examination in which eight Pasadena fire captains participated, Capt. S. H. Edmondson has been promoted to battalion chief to succeed Battalion Chief William A. Fuller, who will retire on pension from the fire department on Saturday.

Edmondson received a grade of 82 per cent. The next highest grades in the examination were obtained by Capts. Charles Hildebrand and William Schlossberg.

The new battalion chief has won recognition in directing the efforts of the fire department's inhalator squad, which is credited with saving thirteen lives.

Asserted German Nobleman Taken on Theft Charge

PASADENA, Aug. 27.—Harry Von Zimmerman, who asserts that he is a German nobleman and conductor of the Spinning Wheel Orchestra, was jailed today on charges of using his family connections to purchase jewelry on credit.

Zimmerman, who declares he is related to the late Baroness Van Zimmerman of this city, was arrested by Detective Lieutenants Kaighin and Decker on complaint filed by Miss M. A. Dulaine, proprietor of a jewelry store at 560 East Colorado street, which charges him with petty theft.

The self-styled nobleman, according to the police, has circulated in high social circles and obtained unusual credit accommodations on the strength of his distinguished appearance, which is heightened by a sharply pointed Van Dyke beard.

CLAREMONT PREPARES INAUGURATION PLANS

CLAREMONT, Aug. 27.—With the return of Dr. C. K. Edmunds from New York, plans are beginning to be made for his inauguration as president of Pomona College next October. To be combined with the forty-first annual celebration of Founders' Day, officials of the college are planning to equal the ceremonies that took place a year ago for the inauguration of Dr. E. J. Jaqua as president of Scripps College, with which Pomona is affiliated.

In the academic world, such inaugurations are attended with great solemnity and are the occasion of an exchange of intercollegiate felicitations from all parts of the country. At the Scripps inauguration a year ago representatives of seventy-six colleges and universities from all parts of the country attended.

ARM BROKEN SECOND TIME WITHIN YEAR

AZUSA, Aug. 27.—Having the same arm broken twice in one year and sustaining both fractures during the past ninety days, is the bone-breaking record set by Orval Frisbee, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Frisbee, of 156 Soldano street.

Young Frisbee suffered the last injury to his arm on Saturday while playing with his sister. He was first treated by Dr. Chapman of Glendora who took him to the County Hospital for special treatment.

SIERRA MADRE WOMEN TO JOIN BEACH FIGHT

SIERRA MADRE, Aug. 27.—A movement to "Save the Beaches" being sponsored in general by women's clubs throughout the Southland, will be fostered here by a committee in connection with the current events section of the Woman's Club, according to Mrs. W. J. Lawless, chairman. A committee to promote the movement locally will be appointed at a meeting of the section Wednesday, it was announced.

KNIPLITSCH ORDERED TO COUNTY REST HOME

MONROVIA, Aug. 27.—At a hearing before the psychopathic board at the County Hospital this morning, Othmar Kniplitsch, 47 years of age, was committed to a county rest home.

Kniplitsch was placed in the psychopathic ward last Thursday for observation following his arrest by local police upon the complaint of the Leven Oaks Hotel.

CUCAMONGA GRAPES TO MOVE EAST

Huge Crop of Fine Grade Starts Rolling to Markets Showing Good Conditions

CUCAMONGA, Aug. 27.—Southern California's grape crop began rolling eastward today and growers and shippers settled down in earnest to the ceaseless task of moving the huge crop as rapidly as the grapes are primed for harvesting.

Seven carloads of grapes were on the tracks to roll east tonight. Double that amount of cars are scheduled to go out tomorrow and shortly fifty cars per day will go out from local vineyards, according to P. C. Cadwallader, State and Federal grape inspector.

Market conditions are good for local grapes, Cadwallader reported today, with a greater demand anticipated as soon as today's cars arrive at eastern markets. In order that nothing but the best grade of grapes go forward Cadwallader and his staff are working night and day testing the grapes for general fitness and sugar content. The sugar content is high this year, he reports.

Wild Autos Annoy Man

GLENDALE, Aug. 27. — Edward Westbert, 440 Spencer street, is tired of seeing automobiles that have been parked on Dorothy Drive start down hill and end their wild flights on his front lawn, to the detriment of his shrubbery, and to say nothing of risk of killing some of his children. Three times within the past few days cars that have been left by their owners on the slope of Dorothy Drive have broken loose from their moorings and sailed down the hill to stop in Westbert's yard.

The latest addition to the runaway automobiles is that belonging to Fred Martin, 125 East Lomita avenue, driven by Henry Own. It rolled down hill, jumped a twelve-inch curb and stopped in front of Westbert's porch.

Supt. X. C. Williams of the bureau of identification, declared that the accident was due to faulty brakes, and warned the owner that he is due for trouble under the State law on a reckless-driving charge, if he fails to have his brakes repaired.

NEW EDISON PLANT STARTS AT GARDENA

GARDENA, Aug. 27.—As a part of the development program now under way in this district by the Southern California Edison Company, the new $17,000 power plant on Strawberry avenue just west of Western avenue was placed in service this week. The Edison company's program includes a number of plants and substations throughout the Centinela and Gardena valleys to accommodate the growing use of light and power.

SANTA ANA EXCURSION HAS BEEN POSTPONED

SANTA ANA, Aug. 27.—The boat trip to San Diego of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for September 24, has been postponed and may be held October 12, it was reported today at the meeting of the junior chamber directors. The trip was postponed due to the steamer Ruth Alexander being chartered on the same day by a Los Angeles organization.

COMPTON TO START LARGE PAVING JOB

COMPTON, Aug. 27.—A paving program covering several blocks on nine streets in the northwestern portion of the city has been approved by the City Council and bids are to be called for within the next few days by City Engineer Glenn Rood. The resolutions, which include the improvement of fig, pear, apple and other streets in this district, were passed without protests and a five-inch concrete paving is specified.

SAN DIEGO LISTS CALENDAR

Superior Courts to Hear Six Criminal Cases Involving Murder or Manslaughter

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 27.—Six criminal cases involving charges of either murder or manslaughter are on the Superior Court calendar for hearing within the next forty days with possibility of several more developing from investigations now being made by the District Attorney's office, it was disclosed today by Deputy District-Attorney Oran N. Muir.

Four of the cases, involving two charges of murder and two of manslaughter, are based on traffic accidents in which automobiles figure prominently. First among these, J. A. Bates, motorist, will be given trial beginning the 30th inst., on a charge of manslaughter resulting from an accident on Silver Strand road, according to Prosecutor Muir.

Following in the order named, the calendar reveals trials of H. J. Werle, accused of manslaughter, set for September 4; John J. Neumont, accused of murder in the traffic death of a policeman on Barnett avenue, set for September 10, and retrial of Ralph N. Post for murder set for September 24. Post was driver of a car which plunged from a pier into the bay the evening of April 8 and from which the lifeless body of Parthena C. Simpson was recovered.

A murder charge against Gladys Holliday Pore probably will be dismissed on the 29th inst., inasmuch as Harry Gleeland Haskett, jointly accused with her in the shooting July 5, of Dave Baranov, last week pleaded guilty to a manslaughter charge, Muir stated. Retrial of the case of R. H. Ely, accused and tried two years ago of manslaughter, has been set to open the last of next month. This case was reversed by the State Supreme Court, which ruled the trial court erred in instructing the jury.

GANG SUSPECTED IN KIDNAPING

Bootleggers Credited With Attempt in San Diego

Wrong Man Grabbed by Pair Who Sought Dry Agent

Police Declare They Know Two Men Involved

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 27.—Believing an old grudge of Los Angeles bootleggers has caused the underworld of the northern city to reach down to San Diego with a view of "eliminating a man who knows too much," King J. Powell and C. E. Murray, deputies of the Sheriff's office dry squad, in turn, have put out feelers toward Los Angeles for the gang of would-be kidnapers that last week operated here, they said today.

Identity of two of the gang who Friday night staged a spectacular attempt at kidnaping a suspected dry operative of the Sheriff's office, has been ascertained, Powell said. While one of these was garbed as a sailor and the other wore what looked like a khaki uniform, neither is thought by the police to be connected with the military or naval service. The uniforms are thought rather to have been used as a "blind."

FLYING SQUAD ON WATCH

A tip of a rendezvous of the kidnapers was watched closely all of Saturday and Sunday nights, without result, by members of the "flying squad." The deputies acted on information said to have been supplied by one known only as Steve, who had succeeded in freeing a man held captive by the gang under mistaken identity, it was said. The asserted attempt at kidnaping occurred when the visiting gang seized the man, whose identity is being kept secret by the Sheriff's office, as he left a pool room on F street late Friday night. The crew apparently acted in belief that their victim, whose face bore a scar similar to that of the wanted dry agent, was Special Deputy William P. Bentley. Their victim was released when they were assured by Steve that they had the wrong man, according to his version told at the Sheriff's office.

The kidnaped man was greeted with the ominous glint of two revolver barrels when he stepped to the sidewalk from the pool room, the story went, and he was quickly and silently rushed into a waiting car. While the car at once headed northward, he pleaded with the kidnapers to fully identify him before "taking him for a ride," and to this the gang finally consented. Brought back to Fourth and Broadway, he was freed when the gangsters learned from Steve that their victim was not Bentley, it was said.

OPERATIVES MOVE

Meanwhile, Bentley and his coworker, Frank S. Dickinson, special deputies assigned to the county dry squad, had been staying at the San Diego Hotel. They moved to another hotel when a number of asserted threats were received by them, Powell said.

Since the attempt at kidnaping, the whereabouts of the two dry operatives cannot be learned at the Sheriff's office.

Pigeons Will Carry Word of Fair's Opening

SANTA ANA, Aug. 27.—One of the most beautiful, unusual and unique features ever to be introduced into a county fair will be witnessed in connection with the twelfth annual Orange county fair, which will hold forth on the State highway between Santa Ana and Anaheim, during the week of September 3 to 8. This feature will be witnessed only upon the opening morning of the big exposition.

The feature of beauty in connection with the opening morning will be the liberation by Charles C. Clark of Fullerton, manager of the pigeon department of the fair, and his assistant, W. Clyde Hoskins, also of Fullerton, of some 300 homing pigeons. These homers will have previously been gathered together from their roosts in many communities in Southern California. Upon their release, as the gates of the exposition are formally thrown open to the crowds, the pigeons will soar into the air and, as soon as each has gained its bearings, will dash away, each winging its way back to the home roost.

As the pigeons flutter away from their carrying cages, cameras of several motion-picture news-reel concerns will record the event. These films will be shown that evening and during the fair week in many Southern California picture theaters and very likely will later be shown in motion-picture houses over a wide range of territory. Each pigeon will carry a small message addressed to the officials of that community, telling them the twelfth annual Orange county fair is on, and assuring them of a good time if they and their neighbors will come.

Picnic Lemonade Poisons Seven

SANTA ANA, Aug. 27. (AP)—Seven persons were recovering today from ptomaine poisoning assertedly caused by drinking lemonade made in tin containers at a picnic in Riverside yesterday of a Southern California fraternal organization. Those affected were taken ill last night and given treatment in their homes here. Physicians who diagnosed the cases said that all would recover.

PRIZE DAHLIAS GROWN AT BEACH

Edna Marat

And winning blossoms produced in Peter Tarbino's gardens, to be exhibited at the Dahlia Show on August 29 and 30.

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 27.—Interest is accumulating in the forthcoming Dahlia Show which is to be given here for two days, August 29 and 30. Prize plants and blossoms are being carefully nursed for the exhibition and it is expected that the most noteworthy collection of dahlias ever assembled in Southern California will be on display.

Products of the Municipal Gardens, which have been attracting attention of the public for the past several weeks, will be a strong contender for honors.

Peter Tarbino is also favored as a winner. His seedlings are remarkable, as evinced by the splendid display recently photographed in the arms of Edna Marat, a girl reserve.

It is probable that the display will be shown in Los Angeles at a later date.

PROTESTANT RADIO WILL BROADCAST

Federation Organized by Minister to Hold Programs Within Religious Limits

REDLANDS, Aug. 27.—A great radio broadcasting station to tell the world of the beliefs of the Protestant people of the Pacific Coast is to be built in Los Angeles, according to Rev. Gross Alexander, formerly of this city, who left the Methodist ministry to organize the Pacific Coast Broadcasting Federation.

Some weeks ago the federation was incorporated and articles filed with the State. Among the incorporators are R. J. Farquhar and J. S. Edwards of this city.

The plan is for a broadcasting station of 50,000 watts, to be located some place outside of Los Angeles. The studios will be in Los Angeles and all broadcasting would be by remote control. The station would be used entirely to broadcast the beliefs of the Protestant churches and the institutions which are interested.

There would be hours for music, furnished by various institutions, for talks and for other features. But there would be no hours for jazz and similar things used in so many radio programs, Rev. Alexander said.

Sheriff Seeks Ralph J. Sewall, Missing Doctor

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 27.—The Sheriff's office today was communicating with officers of neighboring counties to the north in an attempt to locate Dr. Ralph J. Sewall, 60 years of age, of Ramona. The doctor left his home yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock for Los Angeles, but had not been heard from up to noon today, and meantime it was reported from Barstow that the doctor's coupe had been abandoned near that point.

Sheriff W. A. Shay of San Bernardino county wired the San Diego authorities that the physician's machine apparently had been stolen and abandoned. The information described a bearded man of about 38 as having abandoned the car on the State highway, but ascribed no reason for this. The car was registered to Dr. Sewall at Lakeside.

No theory of foul play other than theft of the car is entertained by the officers. They believe Sewall reached Los Angeles and his machine was stolen from a parking place, then driven to Barstow by the bearded man. Search for the latter is being made.

PISTOL USED AS CAB DRIVER WANTS FARE

GLENDALE, Aug. 27.—Frank Ganey, driver for the Yellow Cab Company, last night drove two passengers from Los Angeles out to this city, and when they reached their destination at 225 North Brand, an apartment-house, they refused to pay their fare, Ganey told the police when he attempted to argue with them about it one of the pair drew a pistol and ordered Ganey to get back in his cab and drive off.

Ganey returned with a police detail and searched the house, but no trace of the men could be found. Police believe that they simply walked through the apartment-house and left by the rear door.

FATE OF BONDS TO BE DECIDED

Attorney to Fix Standing of Colorado-Street Fund

Judge Rules Security Legal But Passes Queer Problem

Possible Shortage Causes All Difficulty Encountered

PASADENA, Aug. 27.—The fate of the $2,000,000 West Colorado-street widening proceedings will be decided tomorrow by J. L. Beebe, bond attorney, it was announced today.

Beebe, who is associated with the Los Angeles firm of O'Melveny, Tuller & Meyers, will give careful consideration to the decision handed down recently by Superior Judge Edwin T. Bishop.

Judge Bishop ruled that the bonds already issued for the work are legal, but he declined to rule on the question of whether, if the $31,000 set aside by this city for the Defenders' Parkway assessment proves insufficient, the difference may be assessed against the property owners.

If Beebe decides that this question is unimportant, the bonds will immediately be offered for sale and the actual work of widening will be started.

INCENDIARISM GIVEN CREDIT FOR BLAZE

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 27.—While Jed P. Russell, Escondido contractor, was away with his family at Los Angeles on some investigation believed connected with the recent elopement of his daughter Alice, his home in the Sunkist Valley, four miles from Escondido, was burned. It was reported to the Sheriff's office today. Incendiarism is suspected, Undersheriff Ed Cooper stated, and an investigation has been ordered.

Russell's daughter last month was discovered living with her young husband at South Gate, a suburb of Los Angeles, and the pair were returned here. While the girl, 16 years of age, was placed in the county detention home and the youth at first lodged in County Jail, both subsequently were released and an amicable settlement reported. The girl's disappearance from her home several weeks earlier had caused her father to institute a widespread search in the belief she was kidnaped.

He announced two weeks ago that he would follow the investigation further at Los Angeles, and that he had enlisted the aid of the District Attorney there in view of the fact that the county also was interested in the elopement.

FIRE DEPARTMENT TO REORGANIZE

SOUTH GATE, Aug. 27. — The Home Gardens district, which has been under fire protection from the county, is now covered by the city department, having annexed to South Gate some time ago. The local department will be reorganized early in September, and salary scale and rank of the members of the department will be decided upon. Indications are that David Giles will remain as fire chief, although the name of A. W. Swanson, who was in charge of the department in Home Gardens when it was in county territory, has also been mentioned among his friends.

ORANGE COUNTY GETS LEGION HONOR PLAQUE

SANTA ANA, Aug. 27.—One of the prized trophies that came to this city from Stockton at the conclusion of the annual State convention of the American Legion and kindred service organizations, was a beautiful plaque, now on display in the lobby of the Hotel Santa Ana. The plaque was awarded to Orange County Charter No. 23, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, for showing the largest percentage gain in membership during the last year. This, the baby chapter of the State, made an increase of 397 per cent.

STUDIO PLANS SUBMITTED

PASADENA, Aug. 27.—Plans for the new Cheesewright Studio Building, which will be erected at Catalina avenue and Green street, were submitted to the city building department today. The new studio headquarters will be of brick construction, two stories in height, and will cost $86,000. Fred Schallau is the contractor.

ANAHEIM GROWERS GET PAY

Co-operative Distributes Receipts for First Pool, Indicating Fine Total

ANAHEIM, Aug. 27.—Checks totaling $133,578.41 have been received by Anaheim Valencia growers marketing through the Anaheim Co-operative Association, as final settlement for the 103 cars of fruit handled by the association in its first pool, which ended July 1, it was announced by H. W. Pierce, manager.

An advance payment, made July 16, totaled $96,726.80, and brings the amount paid to the growers up to $1,100,000. The co-operative closed its second pool on the 15th inst., and is now busy packing its third pool.

Three other citrus houses in this vicinity have reported payments for early season, as follows: Anaheim Citrus Fruit Association, $296,888.45; Ritchie-Mills Packing Company, about $100,000; Olive Fruit Company, $393,539.35.

With the Anaheim Orange and Lemon Association and the C. M. Brown Fruit Company still to be heard from, this amount, added to the returns from the co-operative, brings the sum paid to growers in this vicinity to $1,120,733.

CORONA RECORDS HIGHEST IN HISTORY

CORONA, Aug. 27.—Sale of citrus fruit from this district will be in excess of $2,500,000 at the close of the season, November 1, making the greatest returns in the history of the local industry, according to A. E. Lang, manager of Queen Colony Fruit Exchange, who announced that their receipts to date were $2,075,000. This exchange which handles approximately 70 per cent of the fruit here has already passed by $275,000, its heaviest peak year to date.

The exchange has about thirty more cars of Valencias and 125 cars of lemons to move before the end of the season. It is also the best season in grapefruit in history with fifty cars as compared with forty-three for last year. Twelve carloads have been exported; seven within the last month. About 200 boxes were shipped to Germany last week and previous shipments went to England, China and Hawaii.

Alhambra Cuts Tax Four Cents

ALHAMBRA, Aug. 27.—Effecting a cut of nearly $15,000 in city expenditures over the 1927-28 period, the city commission today adopted a 1928-29 budget of $394,960.83 and passed an ordinance for the same period at 4 cents less than that of the preceding twelve months.

The tax rate for the old city, Annex No. 1 and Midwick Annex was fixed at $1.60 and that for the Granada Park district, known as Annex No. 3, which does not assume all of the bonded indebtedness which the city incurred prior to its annexing, was set at $1.56.

All districts will be assessed $1 for the general fund as fixed by the city charter, 11 cents for library funds and 10 cents for park and plunge funds.

With three exceptions, increases of $5 per month were granted members of the police department. The sergeant of the identification bureau was granted a $10 monthly rise in pay. The firemen, as well as other city employees, were not given additional salaries.

NOVEL SHELL GAME TO BE AT POMONA FAIR

POMONA, Aug. 27.—A shell game has been revealed in Pomona. This time it's chicken shells, but the contest is there just the same. The bet is on what is inside the shell rather than what is under it.

Early this spring some sixty well-known poultry breeders, under the leadership of Paul E. Kennedy of this city, decided to see who could hatch the best batch of chicks out of a given number of eggs to be set not later than a given date in February.

The answer to the question will be made known during the course of the poultry show at the Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona on the opening day, Tuesday, September 18, for then the men will bring in the results of their hatches and they will be judged.

POMONA NAMES FACULTY

Teaching Staff Numbers Eighty-seven Educators and Scholars Will be Held at Usual Figure

CLAREMONT, Aug. 27.—With one of the largest increases in personnel in the history of the institution, Pomona College today announced the appointment of ten men and women as new instructors and professors. The total teaching staff now numbers eighty-seven names, the largest in the history of the college. The total registration of students will be restricted to 750 as has been the case for the past thirteen years.

Dr. Thomas Eliot of Northwestern University will serve as professor of Sociology during the absence of Dr. William Kirk from this department. Miss Elizabeth Kelley has accepted the appointment to head the women's physical education department. For ten years she was head of this department at Berkeley High School, and is recognized as one of the leaders in her field. Dr. Dietrick Neufeld comes to the college from the University of New Mexico. He is to head the German department and will be assisted by Miss Emilie Wagner, from the high school at Pleasantville, N. Y. Dr. E. N. Salt is to be adjunct professor of Political Science at Pomona. He has taught at Scripps College, the University of California and Columbia. Miss Bernice van Gelder is to assist Miss Kelley in the women's physical education department. She is from the University of Wisconsin. Miss Mary C. Blaisdell has been appointed instructor in dramatics, Howard Kaster in astronomy, and Loren Hendrickson on romance languages.

This increase is taking place in addition to the inauguration of the graduate department of economics under the auspices of Claremont colleges this fall. This institution has invited Dr. Frank A. Fetter, the head of the department of economics at Princeton University to organize this new department. Dr. Horace Secrist, director of the bureau of business research and Northwestern University, and Dr. Keith Powlison of Johns Hopkins are to be his assistants. Together with members of the faculties of the associated colleges these men will offer graduate work in economics with emphasis particularly on trade conditions of the Pacific Coast.

ORE EXPECTED SOON

The development work has progressed to the point where it is expected that ore shipments will be made within the next three months. A mill site, at water, located two miles from the discovery, is said to be a favorable factor in the operations.

The original discovery in the area was made some twenty years ago by H. C. Porter. The new consolidation includes this claim as well as more than 500 acres of surrounding territory.

Robertson deplored the possibility of a "gold rush" into the area by persons inexperienced and insufficiently supplied with capital. The region is accessible only to well-supplied and properly financed parties and the amount of heavily mineralized land is limited, he said. It is possible, but doubtful, he stated, that other rich deposits in the area have escaped the notice of the local group.

Summer Orange Crops Expected to Break Record

SANTA ANA, Aug. 27.—If fortune continues to smile upon the citrus growers of this district and the local weather man doesn't betray his constituents, the Orange County Fruit Exchange will ship 5000 cars of Valencia oranges to market next summer to establish a new record.

L. D. Palmer, manager of the exchange, made that estimate today. He did not make it as a prediction, however. There are now oranges set on the trees this year than ever before. Palmer said, but it is far too early as yet to tell what portion of the crop will be picked. There are too many things, such as winds and frost, that may take the oranges off before next summer.

With the heavy set and the fact that about 1500 or 2000 acres of young orange trees will come into bearing this year in the Irvine district, indications are that next summer's crop will exceed by 60 to 700 cars the record yield of last summer, when the exchange shipped 4320 cars of oranges and 800 cars of lemons.

Any expectations of next summer's crop must always take into consideration the possibility of wind and frost damage, Palmer reiterated.

Reports from the interior districts indicate that a record navel crop is in sight there this winter. Riverside and Corona districts expect to equal the yield of last year, as do the Redlands and Highland districts.

All-Year Health Camp Will Open

SANTA ANA, Aug. 27.—With the appointment of Miss Isabel M. Bittle, formerly principal of the Alamitos grammar school, as teacher and Miss Phyllis Norton as nurse, arrangements were completed today by Mrs. Amelia Meagher, executive secretary of the Orange County Tuberculosis Association, for the opening and operation of an all-year health camp for children at the new site near Orange County Park.

This is the first year that the camp will be operated during school months, and therefore is in the nature of an experiment, it was explained. Sixteen children now are being cared for at the camp.

JURY PICKED FOR MARCO

Testimony Taking Opens Today in Retrial of Man Charged With Attempts to Commit Murder

A jury of eight men and four women was chosen yesterday in Superior Judge Doran's court to hear the testimony in the second trial of Albert Marco, charged with two counts of assault with intent to commit murder. Marco was indicted in connection with the shooting of Dominick Conterno and Harry Judson during a melee in the Shipe Cafe at Venice June 27, last. The first trial resulted in a disagreement and dismissal of the jury.

One jury panel was exhausted and several members of another examined before prosecution and defense lawyers agreed and accepted the jury late yesterday. With the selection of another man to serve as alternate, adjournment was taken to tomorrow morning, when the taking of testimony will begin.

During the course of selecting the jury yesterday eight veniremen were excused for cause or challenged. When the jury finally was sworn in Judge Doran ordered its members locked up nights for the balance of the trial in order to prevent any possibility of outside interference.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Clarke is prosecuting the case, while Marco is being defended by Thomas P. White and Vincent Hickson. Marco's defense will be based on the contention that he did not fire the shots that wounded Conterno and Judson, according to his attorneys.

First National Supervisor Dies of Heart Disease

Dr. Bela Sekeley, 51 years of age, editorial supervisor at the First National Studio, died yesterday of heart disease. He had been ill a week. He was well known as a dramatist, dramatic critic and war-correspondent.

Dr. Sekeley's last request was that no funeral services be conducted and as a result his body is to be cremated and the ashes sent to his two brothers in Budapest.

A native of Hungary, Dr. Sekeley came to this country fifteen years ago. He was war correspondent for the New York Sun and was the author of several stage successes. He had been in picture work six years.

Warrant Issued for Ace Hudkins

A bench warrant for the arrest of Ace Hudkins, prize fighter, was ordered issued yesterday by Traffic Judge McLay. Hudkins failed to appear in court for trial on a charge of driving his automobile at a rate of sixty miles an hour in a forty-mile zone on Pico Boulevard at 4 a.m. on the 20th inst. The fighter gave his address as 2302 Observatory street.

BUILDING BID TENDERED

A low bid of $118,980 for construction of a building to house the permanent exhibits at the Pomona fair was received by the Board of Supervisors yesterday. The tender was submitted by Hunter & Sippman. Estimates of the cost of the building had been $160,000.

PASADENA, Aug. 27.—Mrs. Eva McBride, wife of Dr. James Harvey McBride, nerve specialist and philanthropist, died unexpectedly at the family residence, 489 Bellefontaine street, at 9 a.m. today following a heart seizure.

Dr. McBride is critically ill, according to his son-in-law, Capt. Paul Perigord, and was not informed of his wife's death due to fear that the shock would be too much for him to bear. Capt. Perigord is head of the French department and professor of history at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Mrs. McBride was born sixty-six years ago in a suburb of Milwaukee, Wis. Before her marriage she was Miss Eva Ackley. Her father was a New York banker.

SHE WAS ARTIST

She was an artist of considerable talent and was a founder and active supporter of the Pasadena Art Institute.

Dr. and Mrs. McBride have been active in Pasadena civic and social affairs for the last thirty years. Dr. McBride was the founder of Las Encinas Sanatorium, which is said to be recognized as one of the most important institutions for the treatment of nervous diseases in the United States.

Dr. George E. Hale, director of the Mt. Wilson Observatory and a close friend of the McBride family, said, when informed of Mrs. McBride's death: "Her personality was one of the most buoyant and fearless I have ever known."

Lieut. James Ackley McBride, only son of Dr. and Mrs. McBride, was killed in aerial combat in France during the World War.

DAUGHTER LEFT

Mrs. McBride leaves one daughter, Mrs. Emily Perigord, and two grandchildren, James McBride Perigord, 5 years of age, and Lorraine Perigord, 3.

Following a conference tonight between Dr. Hale and Capt. Perigord, it was announced that tentative arrangements have been made to conduct simple funeral services Wednesday in the chapel of the Turner & Stevens Company.

ARTICLES FILED BY LAW CLUB

Women's Organization of This City Incorporates; Organized Ten Years

The Women Lawyers' Club of Los Angeles has filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State. Ten years ago in the first week of September this club was formed in the local offices of Mabel Walker Willebrandt by twenty-six women lawyers of this city. Its aim was to promote and advance the interests of the legal profession. Its recent incorporation was taken as a necessary step in the protection of its name.

Many of the past presidents of the club have been women attorneys prominent in national as well as local circles, as for instance, Caroline Kellogg, one of the founders of the Women's Athletic Club; Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant United States Attorney-General; Elizabeth L. Kenney, the first woman admitted to the bar in Los Angeles; Flora Belle Nelson, public defender of Los Angeles; Josephine Stevenson, referee in the Probate Court; Florence Bischoff, Constance Leitch and Edna Covert Plummer.

The club is a member of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the California Federation of Women's Clubs and the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The officers of the new corporation are Miss Peggy Halloran, president; Dorothea Mesny, vice-president; Kendra Hamilton, recording secretary; Vere Radir Norton, corresponding secretary, and Jean Crop, treasurer.

Mother Hunts Monrovia Boy Gone Ten Days

Search for John Holmes, 14-year-old Monrovia boy, was started last night when his mother, Mrs. Bertha Holmes, 512 East Lime street, appealed to Monrovia police.

The boy, according to Mrs. Holmes's report, left a note addressed to her on the 18th inst., and disappeared. Since then he has sent no word to his mother.

In his note the boy said he was going out to seek work to help his mother, who is a semi-invalid.

For several weeks young Holmes worked for a Culver City physician as a houseboy, but told his employer he was returning to his Monrovia home. A few days later he disappeared.

He is described as five feet seven inches tall, of slender build, and has blue eyes and brown hair.

Young Holmes was active in church and Boy Scout work in Monrovia.

Miss J. E. Lindsay Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples

"The trouble began with little pimples that affected my neck, face and head. Later the pimples became hard, large and festered. They itched and burned so badly that I often had to stop my work and scratch. Scratching caused eruptions and my hair fell out and became lifeless and dry. This lasted about eight months.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and within two weeks I could see that the pimples were drying up, and in about a month and a half I was completely healed after using two and a half boxes of Cuticura Ointment and three cakes of Cuticura Soap." COAST TO GAIN UNDER NEW ACT

Maritime Authority Speaks on Jones-White Measure

Dollar Company Reported Planning Ship Purchase

The Pacific Coast will derive greatest benefit from the new Jones-White Marine Act, according to John S. Patton, operating manager of the tanker fleet of the Cities Service Refining Company and one of the foremost authorities on merchant shipping. Mr. Patton arrived at the harbor yesterday from New York for a one-day survey of Cities Service terminal facilities at San Pedro.

"The Pacific Ocean is becoming the trade center of the world," said Mr. Patton, "and the ports on this Coast will get a direct benefit of the great volume of business that is coming, not only in operation and barge tonnage, but also in the new ships that will be built under provisions of the Jones-White bill."

Stressing the fact that Los Angeles Harbor has in the past few years become the chief petroleum-export center of the world, Mr. Patton declared that the phenomenal increase of Los Angeles' oil trade is but a forerunner of development in all Pacific sea commerce.

"Four years ago we started operations out of Los Angeles Harbor with one ship," he said in discussing plans of Cities Service. "Today we have a fleet of eight tankers operating from this port to the North Atlantic. Last year we moved more than 5,000,000 barrels of oil out of San Pedro and this year's volume is going to be even larger. Our plans for new tonnage are as yet indefinite, but we are prepared to meet all traffic increases."

LINER MANCHURIA MAY FLY DOLLAR FLAG

Reports are current the Dollar Steamship Company is a prospective buyer of the intercoastal liner Manchuria, and wi illuse her as an extra ship in the globe-girdling or trans-Pacific service whenever one of Dollar's present ships has to lay up for additions or repairs.

The Manchuria is to make two more intercoastal runs, when she will be relieved by the new turbo-electric liner Virginia, launched at Newport News the 18th inst., and scheduled to go into commission in December.

At present the Dollar Line has no available ship to throw into either of its passenger services in an emergency and the Manchuria, it is believed, would fill that niche better than any ship now on the market at anything like the same price.

She probably could hold to a six-teen-knot schedule without difficulty, and can carry 500 to 600 passengers and plenty of freight. Although built some years ago, her engine room still is a show place and her accommodations are satisfactory.

What is believed to be a record for Los Angeles Harbor was established yesterday by the California Eastern Oil Company's barge C-1, when the Dollar Line's President Lincoln was loaded with 22,664 barrels of fuel oil in slightly less than fifteen hours.

The loading began at 1:15 p.m. Sunday and was completed at 4:10 a.m. yesterday. The Dollar liners take on from 28,000 to 35,000 barrels of fuel oil in the local harbor preparatory to the start of their around-the-world voyages.

The coastwise liner San Juan has added one and one-half knots to her speed with her new propeller, and Capt. F. C. Delegar believes she can attain thirteen knots without difficulty, he declared on arrival from San Francisco yesterday with seventy-nine passengers and freight. Capt. J. L. Ingram, a passenger, is visiting the harbor en route to Tampa, Fla., where he owns a towboat fleet. He has been in charge of towing operations for the Alaska Packers' Association at Bristol Bay, Alaska, just as a vacation.

H. M. Wall of 444 West Seventh street, San Pedro, suffered a broken right cheek-bone and numerous bruises yesterday when caught between two piles of lumber at the Consolidated Lumber Company's yards at Wilmington. A carrier rammed against one pile, pinning Wall against another. The upper half of his body is covered with lacerations where boards tore his flesh. He was taken to Roosevelt Memorial Hospital, and will recover.

Fish catches totaled 9,304,490 pounds for Los Angeles county in July, of which 7,848,454 passed over wharves at Los Angeles Harbor, according to the State Fish and Game Commission. Bluefin tuna led, with 4,388,651, all caught immediately off shore and delivered to canneries. Dearth of yellowfin tuna reduced that variety's catch to twenty-five pounds. American mackerel was second in volume with 2,223,099 pounds, followed by 537,223 pounds of barracuda, principal table fish.

Preparations are being made to raise the forty-eight-foot hook and line boat Sweet, which exploded and sank Sunday morning in Fish Harbor, with injuries to one of her crew. She is owned by K. Shibata and was just setting out to fish for the California Packing Corporation.

Five westbound sailings are scheduled for the Luckenbach Line in September, according to W. L. Robertson, terminal superintendent. The Harry Luckenbach will be the extra ship, sailing from Boston September 8, next, Philadelphia September 13 and New York two days later. The Edgar F. Luckenbach is due tomorrow to pick up 900 tons of canned goods and beans for Gulf ports.

A tropical storm hit the Steel Maker as she was traversing the South Seas nearly five months ago and swept her onto the Nuku Lailai's reef. Her bottom was punctured in a dozen places and her keel was broken.

The salvage tug Peacock, operated by the Merritt-Chapman & Scott Salvage Company seventeen days later hove to beside the Steel Maker. Pumps were put aboard and after they had been at work for twelve days the stranded steamer floated. Then the Steel Maker was towed 750 miles to Pago Pago for repairs. There the divers patched the steamer's bottom.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27. (AP)—Tremendous increases in refrigeration space on ships was predicted today by Dr. N. Inokuchi, on the staff of the Mitsubishi Shipbuilding Company in Japan, who arrived here en route to the Orient. He declared that as the population increases in the Orient and Europe, people are faced with the problem of adding to the home food supplies by import. "North and South America are the eyes of the importers of foodstuffs, and in their eyes refrigeration is of prime importance," he said. Inokuchi has just returned from an international conference on refrigeration, held in Rome.

Two offshore passenger liners are scheduled to arrive here tomorrow and two are listed for sailing. The two arriving steamers are the Panama Pacific liner Mongolia from New York, and the Matson liner Manoa from Honolulu. The two sailings scheduled are the N.Y.K. liner Siberia Maru for the Orient and the Matson liner Matsonia for the Hawaiian Islands.

Taro Yamamoto, manager for the N.Y.K. Line on the Pacific Coast, returned here today from Los Angeles where he concluded negotiations for new and larger quarters for his company.

SEATTLE, Aug. 27. (AP)—The liner H. F. Alexander arrived here today with more than 400 passengers.

Among the 536 who will sail south tomorrow aboard the liner are Mrs. Dudley Talbott, mother of James Talbott, returning to her home in Los Angeles after a trip to the Canadian Rockies, and Le Roy T. Ryons, president of Ryons & Co., San Francisco.

After a fast voyage across the Pacific the American Mail liner President Cleveland arrived at the British Columbia quarantine station last night nine hours ahead of schedule. The Cleveland gained on her schedule as a result of speed tests at sea.

TACOMA, Aug. 27. (AP)—With 3000 tons of copper ore from Iquique, the Grace liner Coya arrived here this afternoon. Another arrival was the American-Hawaiian freighter Pennsylvanian from York to load general as return cargo.

The Romulus came from Iquique and Arica with a large cargo of copper ore for discharge late yesterday. Freight from California was discharged by the Admiral Moser, which came from San Francisco and then shifted to Seattle.

"TERROR" OPENS AT WARNERS'

Mystery Play Has Many Thrills; Larry Ceballos Revue Fine

BY MARQUIS BUSBY

Just anything is likely to happen in these isolated inns, it seems. If it isn't a scandal involving prominent people, it's a murder mystery. You'd think the authorities would do something about it. There must be authorities for such things—they have 'em for everything else.

Why not a little card tacked in each room, saying—

"Murder mysteries and dogs are positively not permitted in this inn."

"The Terror," an all-talking Vitaphone picture, which opened at Warner Brothers' Theater in Hollywood, yesterday, has as its locale an old inn on the desolate east coast of England. This inn, centuries old, had been in years past the headquarters of a religious sect practicing blaock magic. At the time of the story it has been transformed into a rest home, although the guests didn't get much rest. Weird, cloaked figures do marathons across the gardens, and in the middle of the night a hidden pipe organ plays "Danse Macabre," or something equally disquieting. The house is believed to be the rendezvous of a killing fiend, known as The Terror.

From out of the storm, on this particular evening, arrives a strange caravan of guests—an old lady in a Charley's Aunt makeup, a drunken golfer, and the middle-aged fiance of the inn-keeper's daughter. Guests already assembled include a lady given to seances, and a gentleman who can recite verbatim the grewsome details of every murder from the great Goliath-slingshot case to the present time.

During a seance the old lady, who turned out to be an old gentleman, is killed. From then on "The Terror" is a succession of blood-curdling yells and thrills. The hunt for the arch-murderer is on.

While the picture has considerable suspense and holds interest from the first clap of thunder to the last scream of Louise Fazenda as the spinster spiritualist, the tempo seems slow. Action is slowed down to meet the exigencies of the talking device. There are too many close-ups of people talking, and too little action. While sound effects, the thunder, the playing of the pipe organ, and rapping on doors, undeniably heighten the suspense and nervous tension, the picture would have been fully as effective without so much dialogue.

Edward Everett Horton is an important addition to talking pictures, as the golfer. His voice registers excellently, and he does not forget the pantomimic art while talking, a criticism that might be leveled at some members of the cast. Alec B. Francis, who has been heard before, gives a fine interpretation of the inn-keeper. Holmes Herbert, as the fiance of the daughter of the house, possesses also an unusually good voice for the new medium.

Louise Fazenda as the spiritualist acquits herself splendidly in her Vitaphone debut. Her voice is deep and effective. As for her screams, well, they are unearthly. It scarcely seems possible that a human vocal apparatus could produce such sounds. May McAvoy is a charming presence as the heroine, the daughter of the inn-keeper. Her voice is heard to much better advantage than in the lamentable "Caught in the Fog."

Among others in an unusually good cast are John Miljan, Otto Hoffman, outstanding in a minor role, Mathew Betz, Frank Austin and Joseph Girard.

Roy Del Ruth is to be credited with a fine piece of direction. The author of "The Terror" is Edgar Wallace, with Harvey Gates writing the scenario.

In a short Vitaphone skit the Foy family appears in "Foys for Joys." Eddie Foy, Jr., has an infectious and individual brand of comedy.

Larry Ceballos's revue, "Enchantment," is beautifully staged and quite up to the standard he has set for himself in the past. The eerie note of "The Terror" is well sustained in the footlight presentation, which represents a medieval hall that would do credit to King Arthur. The Phantastic Phantoms ballet is perhaps the most effective number, with vividly white skeletons appearing as if by magic out of a darkened stage. The Mirror number is extremely novel, with the back of the stage designed in the semblance of a great mirror. Weird effects are created in the witch dance, also done on a dark stage. "Thou Swell" is pleasingly given by Doris Walker and the Tommy Atkins Sextette. Sally and Ted score with their adagio number. Other featured numbers are the bat dance done by Wanda Allen, Pearl Twins and a song number by James Burroughs.

Comic Duo Like Grauman House

Hollywood may be able soon to claim the title of the actor's capitol, to judge by the number of stars of the drama and vaudeville from all parts of the country who are visiting Grauman's Chinese Theater to hear Sid Grauman's all-sound program in connection with the showing of "White Shadows in the South Seas."

Recent arrivals who have visited the Chinese include Bobbie Clarke and Paul McCullough, vaudeville stars. On the program at the Chinese they are presented in "The Interview," a rollicking Movietone comedy which keeps the audiences in a uproar.

The comedians are enthusiastic in their praises of the presentation at the Chinese. They expressed themselves as particularly delighted with Sid Grauman's prologue, "The Tropics," which presents natives of the Pacific islands in novel dances, musical orchestrations and other divertissement, and with the sound and scenic features of the picture of the Pacific islands.

Stage or Screen—It's Still Beauty

Betty Bronson and Ethel Grey Terry

Among others, represent the fair sex in local theaterdom. Miss Bronson appears in "Brass Knuckles" on the Boulevard screen, Miss Terry in the Vine-street comedy, "Clarence."

LAURA LA PLANTE DELIGHTS

That downtown vaudeville and picture theater is hereafter to show only Universal pictures. One of the first to arrive under the new arrangement between Alexander Pantages and Carl Laemmle, Jr., is "Home, James," starring Laura La Plante, which opened yesterday.

This proved a rapidly paced, rollicking farce comedy adapted from the stage play by Gladys Johnson. William Beaudine directed and as is usually the case in a Beaudine-directed film it was crammed with gags and funny gags.

The story is light, trivial and so much like many other well-known Cinderella yarns that it doesn't merit space for retelling. The charm of the film is to be found principally in the refreshing comedy of Miss La Plante and the superabundance of funny situations into which she tumbles, one right after the other.

Most of the picture verges on slapstick, adroitly handled slapstick, but every now and then there are genuinely delightful human touches.

It is good entertainment and yesterday's audience seemed to be in a continual chuckle throughout the unfolding of the entire film.

Vivacious, wholesome, a thoroughly cheerful yet pretty comedienne is Miss La Plante. Charles DeLaney seemed an excellent choice for her leading man. He is of the genial, good-looking, happy-go-lucky type and the two seemed unsually well paired.

Arthur Hoyt made a good job of the sleek-jowled, pussy-footing floorwalker. Others in the cast were Aileen Manning, Joan Standing, George Pearce and Sidney Bracy.

The accompanying program of vaudeville proved well balanced and amusing.

Comedy came in the form of wisecracks and a little harmony from Davis and McCoy and from Those Three Fellows in the persons of Billy Sharkey, Max Burkhart and Joe Geisler. Davis and McCoy were the featured act and took a heavy round of applause.

Juanita Connors with her girl band proved an unexpected hit. In perky green-and-white costumes and with much youthful vivacity these feminine musicians performed in an exceedingly able manner. Some nice ballet work was found in the cycle of dance, in which the costumes were bright and colorful. Wally and Zolla were dancers.

Keeping Still Unhappy Fate of This Actor

Leslie Palmer has to lie for an entire act in a coffin on the stage in "The Wooden Kimono." "If you think that it is easy to lie perfectly still, just try it," challenges the actor, who has the role of Sondack in the Henry Duffy Players' production of the mystery play at the President.

"Hard as this is, it is nothing compared to the endurance test that I staged in 'Prunella' in New York," says Palmer. "I was cast for the role of the Statue of Love in the Laurence Houseman play, with Marguerite Clark, and for thirty-two minutes I had to stand perfectly motionless on a pedestal. I played it for thirty-eight weeks and at the end of that time it got the better of me. The task was too much for my nerves and at the close of the run I was shaking like a leaf."

Palmer sailed up the Pacific Coast as a midshipman years ago. He comes of a British naval family and seemed destined for a life at sea. However, he preferred the stage and as a result, he was engaged at the start of his career by the late Sir Henry Irving. He was playing important roles with Irving at the time of the star's death.

Hilarity Rules Incoming Show

A double feature potpourri of mirth, bubbling over with the ingredients of smiles, chuckles and uproarious laughter will be served Hillstreet Theater patrons next week, the management promises. On stage and screen, comedy will be the reigning element.

Jack Norworth and Dorothy Adelphi, popular musical comedy favorites, headline the Keith-Orpheum vaudeville bill, presenting "The Nagger" and whatever songs audiences can induce them to do. Additional comedy will be created by Ruth Warren and company, and other acts.

Johnny Hines, described as filmland's wholesome play-boy, draws the feature screen assignment with his latest First National picture, "The Wright Idea," a hilarious concoction by Jack Townley in which the popular comedian is supported by Louise Lorraine. Charles Hines directed the production for C. C. Burr.

Gilbert Scores as Gang Leader

Another popular stage idol becomes a denizen of the underworld with the showing of John Gilbert in "Four Walls," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen version of the stage play which opens Friday at Loew's State.

As a gang leader, with Joan Crawford portraying his "moll," Gilbert is said to have given a striking dramatic example of modern criminal tendencies and the barriers which are set up by convention and popular prejudice against a man who has "done time." It is these walls of prejudice which he battles in his fight for regeneration.

LESTER COHEN SIGNS

The name of Lester Cohen, author, will remain on a certain door at the Paramount studios, Hollywood, for several months to come, it was assured today when Cohen signed a new contract with the film organization. He is the author of "The Great Bear" and "Sweepings."

FIGHTER AND STUDENT

Denny's Career Embraces Variety of Occupations—Likes Directing

A varied career as is possible for any one individual to have has been that pursued by Reginald Denny, whose starring vehicle "That's My Daddy," is holding forth at the Shrine Theater.

First a scholar, then a brief career on the London stage in prominent stage plays and finally a prize-fighter, as which he earned an enviable reputation.

With the coming of the war, Denny enlisted in the aviation service and his athletic prowess won him wide recognition with the overseas forces. Following the conclusion of the imbroglio, the Universal star returned to the stage and almost immediately was invited to come to New York, where he eventually achieved success as a leading man.

Then the screen beckoned to him. Notwithstanding the stellar heights to which he has risen, he has a secret yearning to become a director.

Screen Lovers' Billing Ranks Above Cooing

The final appesrance of Ronald Colman and Vilma Blanky as a stellar team of the films in "Two Lovers," is, appropriately, made in a costume picture.

"Two Lovers," which is an adaptation of Baroness Orczy's historical novel "Leatherface," is a tale of hate and love in sixteenth-century Flanders and has a gorgeously picturesque background of the exotic continental atmosphere of the times, which forms a fitting setting for the farewell appearance of this famous team of screen lovers. Miss Banky and Colman are to be henceforth featured by Samuel Goldwyn in separate productions.

"Two Lovers" comes to the United Artists Theater tomorrow for an indefinite engagement. It is Samuel Goldwyn's first venture into the audible film field and was directed by Fred Niblo from Alice D. C. Miller's scenario, and will be presented at the United Artists with synchronization.

Single Audience Assures Future

A striking instance of a "bit" player being elevated to prominence literally overnight is recalled with the personal appearance tonight of Bodil Rosing at Grauman's Egyptian Theater, in connection with the showing of "Wheel of Chance," the Richard Barthelmess starring vehicle.

Hollywood had not heard of Miss Rosing before "Sunrise," the F. W. Murnau production for Fox, was revealed. The picture was finally accorded a memorable premiere at the Carthay Circle Theater. It was a small part that the actress had in this film—yet so poignantly affecting was her performance in the closing sequence that the house was swept by a wave of applause equal to that which greeted even the principals in the cast.

Miss Rosing's services have been in constant demand ever since.

JUVENILE JOTTINGS

Local kiddies are invited to participate in the special activities for Harry Weber's "Our Gang" kids. Mary Kornman, "Scooter" Lowry and Johnny Downs, this week at the Hillstreet Theater. Tuesday matinees will be "photo day," each child attending being presented with a photo of "Our Gang." Wednesday matinee Johnny Downs will conduct a "bike" contest, giving prizes to the boys with the most novel bicycles. Thursday matinee Mary Kornman will sponsor a doll contest, with awards for the most unique dolls. Friday matinee "Scooter" Lowry will donate prizes to those presenting the most curious-looking scooters.

TOWER SHOWS NEW TALKIE

IT OUGHT TO BE GOOD

A wild bull on skates, horses wheel, toreadors, matadors and all the fixin's for a Spanish bull fight are to be part of the burlesque entertainment at the Shrine roller-skating rink Thursday night. This will be the main feature in a whole evening of carnival. Billy Passeau, California's figure-skating champion, will don the red cloak for the occasion and do his best to dispatch the bull, while a scion of the Castilian aristocracy will play the part of the King of Spain, attended by fair senoritas and court favorites.

How to Mark Your Ballot Today

To vote for a candidate or a measure stamp a cross opposite name or the word "Yes." To vote against a measure stamp a cross opposite the word "No." The crosses stamped on the ballot below represent the recommendations of The Times on the several candidates and propositions appearing on the State primary ballot, the two county propositions and the special recall election (municipal) directed against Councilman Lester Rice-Wray of the Sixth Councilmanic District, all to be voted today. As a Republican paper, The Times makes recommendations only among Republican candidates where the offices are partisan. Where no cross appears The Times has no recommendation to offer. This ballot may be clipped and taken to the polls for reference.

Gloria Swanson to Make Debut in Talking Film

With the return yesterday to Hollywood of William Le Barron, who represented her at conferences in the East, Gloria Swanson announced that her debut in talking pictures is assured as a result of a deal Le Barron made with the RCA Photopone, Inc., and the United Artists releasing organization, of which she is a member.

Four engineers from the eastern laboratories of the Radio Corporation of America arrived in Hollywood, bringing with them a carload of Photophone recording and projection equipment, and eight tests of Miss Swanson's voice which were made when she was in New York lately. The picture is to have sound and dialogue sequences and will mark the first time Miss Swanson's voice will be heard by her fans.

At the same time, Miss Swanson also announced she is equipping her Beverly Hills home with a sound-projection apparatus so that she will be able to hear and see the daily "rushes" of her work. The musical score will be done by a forty-piece orchestra.

Miss Swanson is the second prominent player to announce sound-projection equipment for their homes. Harold Lloyd was the first. He is having a special sound-projection room built into his new home now under construction on his Beverly Hills estate.

"TIMES" ELECTION SERVICE

The Times will broadcast election returns from the State primary election, county election and special municipal recall election over Radio KHJ this evening and will give returns by telephone to all who call.

Special arrangements have been made by The Times for the expeditious gathering of returns from all parts of the State, and these will be available by radio and telephone as rapidly as tabulated, beginning probably about 8 p.m.

In addition the night street editions of The Times will carry full accounts of the election as compiled up to the hour of publication.

Date for Trial Fixed in Death by Poison Rum

Morris Cohen will go to trial September 20, next, on a charge of murdering Hyman Friedman with poisoned whisky. Cohen appeared before Superior Judge Edmonds yesterday and after his plea of not guilty the court fixed the date of trial.

Investigating officers charge that Cohen left the poisoned liquor with an assortment of groceries in an automobile owned by Harry Lipshitz, Friedman's son-in-law. When Lipshitz found it, believing that it had been placed in his car by mistake, he left it with Friedman after cautioning him not to touch the whisky.

When no one had called for the package the next day Friedman decided to sample the liquor, officers assert. A few minutes after taking a drink he died.

R.C.A. Artists at Radio Show

A. B. C. Scull, Pacific Coast representative of the Radio Corporation of America, arrived yesterday to arrange for the feature program to be presented by that organization next Wednesday in honor of the Radio Show Beautiful.

"We are bringing to Los Angeles by airplane next Tuesday the artists who have appeared on the R.C.A. Monday hour of the National Broadcast Company and will present them in person at the Radio Show the following night from 9 to 10 p.m. on chain broadcast.

"The program will include Max Dolin, violinist, who will direct an eighteen-piece orchestra; Margaret O'Dea, contralto; Barbara Blanchard, soprano; Harold Dane, baritone, and Arthur Schwartzmann, piano. I feel that this is to be the most successful radio show in the history of the industry in Southern California," Scull declared.

will erect its $1,250,000 building. The other proposition is the proposal to grant war veterans, their wives and widows a 10 per cent advantage in civil service examinations for county offices.

SUPERVISOR'S POST BATTLE BRINGS SUIT

The heated contest in the Second Supervisorial District between Supervisor Bean, the incumbent, and Councilman Shaw, yesterday resulted in a suit for defamation of character asking damages of $100,000, being filed by Mr. Shaw against Mr. Bean, M. H. Barton, publicity agent, and Sam Curson, manager of the Bean campaign.

The cause of the suit was the distribution last week of a letter signed by the Public Welfare League, Inc., attacking Councilman Shaw. A charge of criminal libel against Barton already has been filed by James Bolger, Councilman Shaw's publicity agent, on the same matter.

FRAT MEN VISIT CITY

Forty Phi Sigma Kappa Delegates to San Francisco Stop Here

Forty members of Phi Sigma Kappa who attended the twenty-third annual convention of the society in San Francisco, were visitors in Los Angeles yesterday, stopping at the Biltmore.

"We have delivered a charter to a new chapter in the University of Southern California," explained Dr. John A. Lyons of New York, who is accompanied by his sons, John A. Jr., and John J., 12, and 16 years of age, respectively. "I particularly wanted by sons to see California now, for as they grow to manhood I want them to appreciate, as I do, what a marvelous development is taking place here on the western rim of the United States."
